Consider A Name For SAFB

Democrat Suggests It Commemorate Lt. Whiteman, Sedalia, First War II Death

Sedalia Air Force Base may under go a name changing, according to United States Senator Stuart Symington who received this word from Brigadier General Joe W. Kelly, USAF, Friday.

Brig. Gen. Kelly, in his notification to Senator Symington, indicated in the near future the Air Force Memorialization Committee will consider the possibilty of renaming the Sedalia Ar Force Base in honor of an outstanding deceased hero or leader.

"These proceedings will involve Air Force coordination with local civilian agences.

"In ths regard, local agencies should make their desires known to the Directorate of Military Personnel, Headquarters, United States Air Force, Washington (25) D. C."

General Kelly explained that normally it is Air Force practice to name a base initially after some prominent geographical location in the area and later to redesignate the installaiton to honor outstanding deceased Air Force heroes or leaders.

In selection of individuals to be memorialized, primary consideration is gven to deceased personnel natve to the state in which the installation is located. An exception to this practice is made only in those instances where the individual was of national prominence.

Senator Symington, in his message to the Democrat - Capital, stated he will welcome suggestions on the proposed renaming and will forward them to the proper authorities.

On Saturday, The Democrat wired Senator Symington and Senator Thomas C. Hennings a suggestion for the name selection.

It suggested that if it is necessary to redesignate the SAFB, the Air Force choose the name of Lt. George A. Whiteman, who is believed to have been the first U. S. Army airman killed in World War II.

Lt. Whiteman lost his life in the bomb raid of the Japanese on Sunday, Dec. 7, 1941, at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii. Young Whiteman, it was revealed, when the Japanese made their sneak attack, dashed from his quarters to his plane and attempted to take his plane into the air.

Bearing of the fact Lt. Whiteman was the first air corps man to be killed, the following message of condolence was received by the Whiteman family on Dec. 10, 1941,: "With mixed feelings of sympathy and pride the aviation cadet regiment of Randolph Field extends condolence to the parents of the first man in our long blue line who had died in the defense of his country." The telegram was from Capt. Morris F. Taber, air corps commandant of cadets at Randolph Field.

Another message received was from Brig. Gen. Herbert R. Harmon, in part it said, "His supreme sacrifice in the defense of his country is the first in the history of his training center." (His training center was Randolph Field.)

Lt. Whiteman was the son of Mrs. Earle Whiteman, 623 West 24th, and John C. Whteman of Kansas City.

He had a brother Marshall Whiteman, U. S. Marines, who was killed in Korea on April 9, 1953.

Lincoln Is Threatened By Two Fires at Once In High Winds Friday

Lincoln was threatened by two fires Friday which were increased by high winds. Both were brought under control and only grassland was burned.

In the northwest part of town, between 40 and 50 acres caught fire. A highway department maintenance crew arrived to dig firebreak ditches and help put out the flames.

Ted Johnson, posted in the Lincoln lookout tower, spotted another fire to the south and called firefighting equipment to the scene. Some 65 men and high school students assisted in putting out the fire.

Baumler at Rotary

Karl Baumler of the Pittsburgh Corning Corporation will give a classified talk at the Rotary meeting Monday noon at Bothwell Hotel. W. O. Stanley is program chairman for the day.

SAFB Hospital, Costing $860,000 Now Under Construction

The $860,000 base hospital at SAFB is now well under construction by the Secor Construction Co., Oklahoma City. It is about 10-percent along, Maj. Patrick Pomphrey, construction liasion officer for the Air Force surgeon general, Washington, has announced. The above drawing of the hospital was made by A/1C Jo D. Stockwell, formerly of Kansas City, who is now stationed at the Sedalia Air Force Base in the public information office.

The hospital is located in the south-west section of the base, along the road which will soon be the main entrance for the base into the Knob Noster State Park.

In the first, or lower building protruding to the right will be the administration offices of the hospital. In the upper portion of the building is located the equipment and maintenance room, and on the right of the upper section are the medical supply, dining hall and linen supply rooms. The building connecting these two is used as a hallway, program distribution room. Closer to the administration building is the ambulance entrance, emergency treatment and fracture room.

The large section in the center houses the clinical facilities, flight surgeon examination facilities, pharmacy room, laboratory and x-ray rooms, the eye, ear and throat clinic. Here also will be the surgical department comprising two operating rooms, central sterile supply, post operative and recovery room.

In the portion to the left are the ward facilities, six private rooms, six double rooms, four rooms of four beds each, and the large ward to take care of 16 beds.

The building will contain its own electrical transformer system, a bank of three transformers, and have an emergency electrical system in case of power failure at the base, all of which is automatic. There will be three hot water heat exchangers, all surgical and clinical. A portion of the bedrooms will be air conditioned by six individual units.

It s also pointed out the administration portion of the building houses the professional library, hospital register section and record room. A central recording system is planned for doctors who may dictate their case histories to be copied by a recretary and returned to them in a matter of a short time, fully compiled by a secretary in this recording room. This system has been tried and operated at the base hospitals in Bohling AFB and Offutt AFB with excellent results.

Around the hospital the land will be landscaped to fit the surroundings, a large parking area being established, and concrete walkways arranged in the area. An ambulance garage is to be built near by.

Boonslick Gets 'Great Books' Study Leader

Regional Library One of 20 In US To Offer Program

R. E. Dooley, national Training director of the American Heritage Program and formerly one of the persons who trained leaders for the Great Books Program, has been secured to train the leaders of the Family Relations and Community Betterment Discussion Groups to be sponsored by Boonslick Regional Library in the fall.

This project was awarded a $5,000 grant by the American Library Association and was one of 20 grants awarded throughout the nation.

R. E. Dooley, born and reared on a farm in Kansas, states that he likes working with rural people so he made room in his busy schedule to come to Boonslick Regional Library sometime in September to train group leaders in the techniques of group leadership. This year he has had charge of the training program in thirteen states with statewide programs in eleven states and area projects in Los Angeles County, California and around Watertown, New York. He trained the leaders and visited their discussion groups to aid their work in seven of the states, including Missouri.

Discussion groups in the Cooper and Pettis area will be limited to 20 in number. Fourteen to 20 persons in any community or adjoining areas may decide to organize such a group and will then select their oown topics for discussion. Not less than six meetings shall be held by the group. One of their group shall be chosen for leader and would have to take the five training sessions with Mr. Dooley. The time and place for these will be decided jointly by the leaders and Mr. Dooley at the most convenient and suitable.

Soon thereafter the groups will start their meetings. They will also make their own decisions as to when and where they would like to meet — in homes or in schools, churches, or community buildings. The library will furnish reading materials, for each group member and will furnish films if suitable ones can be found.

Miss Verna Nistendirk, regional librarian, says that any friends or neighbors who enjoy talking about problems of old age, our water level, education, health, or any other subject connected with family living and community betterment would enjoy these group meetings.

To enroll of such a group those interested may send their names for group memberships to Boonslick Regional Library, Sedalia.

Pettis Co. Will Have 27th Annual Dramatics Festival March 29-30

The 27th annual Pettis County Dramatics Festival will be held the nights of March 29-30 at Smith-Cotton auditorium.

The plays will be judged by Dr. Thomas A. Perry, professor of English at Central College, Fayette.

There will also be contests in the writing of one-act plays, skits, pantomimes and pageants.

Special numbers will be presented between plays, under the direction of a committee composed of Mrs. Mary Summers, Bowling Green Club, chairman, Mrs. Jerry L. Conaway, Meet Your Neighbor Club, and Mrs. Ralph Thomas, South Abell Club.

Red Cross Membership Drive In Residential Area Monday

Plans for the 1954 Red Cross fund and membership campaign are about completed in the Pettis County chapter office, and workers will go into action tomorrow to secure the membership, and funds, needed for the coming year's activities.

Monday evening at six o'clock a volunteer Red Cross Army of 500 men and women will start out on the residential solicitation. The plan is to have a worker in each block so that the drive may be finished by nine o'clock.

There will be no solicitation in the business or industrial sections of Sedalia—since Red Cross received it's share of money collected through the United Fund drive in the business area. Red Cross did not share in funds collected in the residential or rural sections of the county.

Individuals who gave to Red Cross through a pay roll deduction or group plan at the time of the United Fund drive are already Red Cross members.

The annual membership roll call is a requirement of the congressional charter under which Red Cross operates. Membership in the Red Cross is membership in a fraternity for good will and service to others.

The city organization has been planned by wards and precincts. Mrs. Robert Seelen is ward chairman in the First Ward, with the following section captains: Mrs. Gordon Cooper, Mrs. Way Downs, Mrs. John Zander, Mrs. Duane Beucke and Mrs. Robert Fuller. Second Ward has Mrs. John B. O'Brien as chairman and Mrs. V. A. Siegel, co-chairman, with 26 workers.

Third Ward leader is Mrs. Leo Robb, chairman, and captains of precincts are: first and fourth, Raymond Wilder; third, Mrs. James Dickman; fifth, Mrs. Tom Soter; Fourth Ward, Mrs. K. U. Love, chairman, with the following precinct captains: First, Mrs. J. O. Latimer and Mrs. W. E. Hurlbut; Second, Mrs. Glen Nelson; third, Mrs. M. E. Austin; fourth, Mrs. Nathan Jones; and fifth, Mrs. L. W. Dickman. North Side Section, Mrs. Fredonia Kingsbury, chairman, and Carl Abbott, co-chairman.

Aunt Jemima Here Tomorrow For City's Gay Pancake Day

Aunt Jemima will come to Sedalia Monday.

Here she will preside over a parade in her honor, receive a key to the city and preside over the all-day Pancake Dinner at the Mike O'Connor Chevrolet-Buick Co., 400 South Osage. The dinner is being sponsored by Sedalia's civic clubs in behalf of the United Fund and the Children's Mercy Hospital, Kansas City.

Periodically during the day, Aunt Jemima will take time out to speak before the Rotary Club at its luncheon meeting, visit Hubbard School and the Melita Day Nursery and make two radio appearances.

Rice Leghorn Farms Will Be Sold March 24

Both Green Ridge, Sedalia Hatcheries Will Go at Auction

The Rice Leghorn Farms are to be sold. The sale is being made under a foreclosure of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and has been set for Wednesday, March 24.

Attempts to reorganize the farms were made several years ago when the RFC foreclosed on government loans made to Okee Rice, the then owner and operator. The endeavor for reorganization failed and the RFC ordered the sale of all properties belonging to the Rice Leghorn Farms, which went under the foreclosure.

The Shopen Realty Auction Co., Kansas City, has charged of the sale.

The order of the sale starts at Green Ridge at 10 a. m., at which time the properties there will be sold in four divisions and a bid for an overall high.

Immediately following the sale in Green Ridge, the sale moves to the properties south of Sedalia on Highway 50, the same system of selling being used here as in Green Ridge.

At Green Ridge the beautiful six room stone house and 130 acres of improved land, adequate outbuildings, large modern hatchery building, plus many other buildings and breeding houses, will be included in the auction.

The property south of Sedalia includes five two-story and basement buildings comprising a total of more than 100,000 square feet. This includes the 20 acres of land. Here the buildings will be offered separately, with adequate ground, then as a total. Several other small buildings are on the property.

The Rice Leghorn Farms was considered at one time the largest hatchery in the United States, and was at one time one of the most thriving business ventures.

Not only is hatchery equipment included, along with the real estate, but also sold will be numerous items used in the administration of the business, such as typewriters, desks, filing cases and various other office supplies, furniture and equipment.

Dust Instead Of Rain

By ROBERT H. JOHNSON JR.

Drought, the scourge of the plains, looks meaner than ever this spring.

Only rain, and lots of it, can beat it.

But instead of the scent of showers, west winds carry the smell of dust. Day after day topsoil whirls off the prairie and clouds the sun. When snow falls it is swept along before gale blasts that mix it with blowing dirt.

The Weather Bureau issued a 30-day forecast saying above-average rains were likely in March. That was two weeks ago. No appreciable rain has fallen.

You hear hopeful talk from farmers and ranchers: We can make it—if it rains. If not, we're sunk.

This situation faces huge sections of Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Colorado, Missouri and Kansas. In some parts of the plains the drought is five years old.

The Texas Water Board says the drought now is worse than it was in 1953. Southwesterners well remember what happened last summer. The Soil Conservation Service called the drought the worst in United States history. President Eisenhower hurried to Amarillo to consult with Southwestern governors. The government shipped cheap livestock feed into disaster areas.

Talk then was about starving cattle and withering crops. Now 12 county judges in the Texas plains have told Gov. Allan Shivers that the problem is "no longer a matter of feeding cattle but a problem of feeding people." There were immediate rejoinders from others in the plains that this was an exaggeration. Anyway, the governor pledges all the help the state could muster.

It sounded like an echo when A. D. Sappington of the Missouri Farmers Assn. told a legislative committee: "If the drought continues through this (third straight) year I don't know what we'll do—it will be total ruin. We'll have to feed people then, instead of cattle."

Rains that fell last fall and early winter gave the drought a setback. There was hope that more rain would fall in January and February, and end it.

Some rain fell, of course—the kind that provides a dry laugh in the drought country. In Uvalde, Tex., for example, they had an 8-inch rain. They knew that's what it was because the rain drops landed eight inches apart.

Lester O. Parsons, Oklahoma field representative for the U.S. Farm Home Administration, reported the entire Oklahoma panhandle — Cimarron, Texas and Beaver Counties—is in very critical condition. So are three other western counties — Woodward, Greer and Harmon. Another four—Major, Tillman, Harper and Roger Mills—are listed as just plain critical.

Parsons said the big dust storm of Feb. 19, and blowing since then have severely damaged 25 per cent of the wheat in Texas County, the hardest hit. He said: "Some Texas County fields are totally blown out. All pastures are covered with dust. Range next to wheat fields is under a 3-inch blanket. Drill rows are swept clean, leaving plants standing on pedestals of soil."

George Von Eschen, Weather Bureau climatologist in Albuquerque, said all of New Mexico has had "much below normal precipitation" since the first of the year. Winter wheat on the east side of the state is in "pretty bad condition—what's left of it, and there's not much left." He said there will be "very little or no spring grass until we get some rain."

The drought situation in Kansas is unabated. Gov. Edward F. Arn has called a conference of western Kansas county officials for Monday to consider action to combat soil blowing. The worst blowing problem is in the western part of the state. The most serious water problem is in the eastern part, where 26 cities have been placed by the state on a "critical" list because they have less than a 30-day water supply. Stockponds and many farm wells have gone dry.

But Earl Kielhorn of Cambridge, president of the Kansas Livestock Assn., said: "If Kansas is blessed with soaking rains immediately and periodically throughout the summer, we'll all come through in good shape.

In Missouri, a special session of the legislature passed and the governor signed a bill raising the 6½ million dollar ceiling on a freight-free hay shipping program to $8,104,000, including $1,604,000 in federal aid. The program is credited with saving Missouri's dairy and beef cattle during the winter.

Since pasture is not yet available and funds are nearly exhausted, the Legislature also is considering Gov. Phil M. Donnelly's request to appropriate two million dollars more to carry the herds along.

Dozens of Missouri communities are hauling water, piping from emergency supplies or drilling new wells. The condition of many has been described by the state health division as desperate. Springfield is trying cloud seeding. Prayers for rain are common in churches throughout the state.

Syracuse Post Office Robbed Friday Night

The Syracuse Post Office was robbed of $221 in bills sometime Friday night, when theives entered the post office by way of a door at the rear of the building.

The theft was discovered by the post office messenger, Jim Hardey, about 2:45 Saturday, when he went to the office to get the mail for the next scheduled train. Mr. Hardey immediately called the postmistress, Miss Mildred Parson, and the clerk, Mrs. Myrta Hotsenpiller. Miss Parsons then contacted M. L. Edwards, Sedalia postal inspector, after being unable to reach the district postal inspector. Edwards then, with state trooper Harold Priess, made the investigations.

The thieves entered by forcing open a door to a room in the rear of the building and cutting a large hole in a petition to the main part of the office where they found and pried open the strong box, taking $221 in bills, and leaving the silver.

Four Injured In Accident On Hiway 50

Don Schupp Family Of Kansas City At Bothwell Hospital

Four persons were injured in an accident at the Gasoline Alley intersection, West Highway 50, about 9:15 a. m. Saturday, when an International truck and a 1953 Plymouth sedan collided. It was the second serious accident at this intersection within a two months period, the other being on Jan. 13.

Injured are: Elmer Don Schupp, 39, of 2640 Spruce Kansas City; his wife, Mrs. Laverne Schupp, 32; their 14-months old son, Richard "Dickie," and Mrs. Schupp's sister, Miss Catherine Wittman, 38, Otterville. They were taken to Bothwell Hospital.

Mr. Schupp suffered lacerations of the face, nose, and forehead, contusions on the back of both hands and on the left leg. He also suffered severe shock. Dr. C. Gordon Stauffacher treated him.

Mrs. Schupp received a fracture of the nose, laceration of both knees, bruises and sprains, numerous contusions and shock.

The Schupp's nine year old son, Dennis, escaped injury other than being shaken up. He was not hospitalized.

Mrs. Schupp and her sister were taken to the hospital in the McLaughlin ambulance, while Mr. Schupp and the baby were taken to the hospital in a private automobile. Dr. John Lamy treated Mrs. Schupp, her sister and the baby.

The accident occurred as Mr. Schupp was driving east on Highway 50 and the truck was headed in a southwesterly direction across the highway, on the Main Street Road. The truck was driven by Orel Shackelford, 36, route 3, Sedalia, and owned by the Plainview Farm of Lee Yeater and Son.

According to information given Sgt. E. F. Van Winkle, of the State Highway Patrol, Schupp made a momentary braking effort as he saw the approaching truck from his left. A red Mercury sedan, which was behind Schupp, in an endeavor to avoid crashing into the car, pulled to the right going off onto the shoulder, crossing the Main Street Road and heading through the Skelly service station drive. Schupp was unable to pull to the right because of the other car and the truck and Plymouth collided.

The bumper on the truck caught the left side of the Plymouth near the left front door, and the entire left side of the car was ripped open. The car began spinning around and the back part of it was damaged. As the car went into a spin, not overturning, the occupants were tossed out of the car on the gravel drive of the service station.

The occupants of the Mercury, after remaining at the scene for considerable time, drove off and headed east. The State Patrol did not learn their names.

Nixon Disputes Charges

Says 'Irresponsible, Unfair Probes Help Those Who Oppose Work Against Reds'

WASHINGTON, March 13—(AP) Vice-president Nixon declared tonight that irresponsible and unfair congressional investigations are helping those who oppose action against communism.

Nixon disputed Democratic charges that the Eisenhower administration has surrendered to McCarthyism."

The vice president was due to make a nationwide radio-TV address at 10:30 p. m. EST, but the Republican National Committee released a summary of his address in advance.

The summary made no mention of Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) nor any direct reference to the Wisconsin senator's controversy with Secretary of the Army Stevens or other Eisenhower officials.

But the vice president called for "proper and fair procedure" in dealing with the threat of internal communism.

He declared in the summary that Republicans are fighting communism "because it threatens to destroy freedom, but when we fight communism with unfair methods we help to destroy that very freedom."

Nixon chose to speak from notes in answering charges of Adlai E. Stevenson, 1952 Democratic presidential nominee, at Miami Beach, Fla., last Saturday night that the Republican party has become "half McCarthy and half Eisenhower." Stevenson said Eisenhower himself has embraced "McSarthyism" in an effort to retain Republican control of Congress.

The National Committee had passed over McCarthy and picked Nixon to reply to Stevenson.

The committee said Nixon would not necessarily follow word for word the statements in the summary but that they represented his views.

Some Democrats and even some Republicans have charged McCarthy with irresponsible actions as chairman of the Senate's Permanent Investigating Committee. In this connection the Nixon summary said that "When those who conduct investigations in the Communist field are irresponsible they give ammunition to those who oppose any action against communism."

Without direct reference to McCarthy, who had been accused by Army Secretary Stevens of "abusing" an Army officer witness, the Nixon summary said that "Recently we have seen a striking example of the truth of this principle."

The summary put the vice president on record as saying that "Men who have done effective work in exposing Communists in the past have recently, by their reckless talk and their questionable methods, made themselves the issue rather than the cause they believe in so deeply."

"They have thereby not only diverted attention from the Communist danger, but they also have allowed those whose primary objective is to defeat the Eisenhower administration, to divert attention from its great and forward looking program."

Coupons May Be Used to Get Rid Of Dairy Surplus

WASHINGTON, March 13 (AP) — The government may use coupons in an effort to move surplus butter and cheese into American dinner tables.

Under one plan being considered by Secretary of Agriculture Benson, it was learned today, housewives would get a coupon with each pound of freshly produced butter and cheese bought at the grocery store.

Benson had said earlier this week that he expects to announce soon a plan to move 300 million pounds of butter and 312 million pounds of cheese before they deteriorate. The butter and cheese were bought by the government under the dairy price support program.

The secretary may disclose details of the plan at a news conference Monday. It was emphasized that the coupon plan was only one of several under consideration.

Peasants Undress Preachers, Beat Them

AVIGNON, France (AP) — A hundred peasants last night rushed two disciples of the "Universal Church," undressed them and beat them severely to see if a miracle would save them.

The two disciples had been preaching the words of Geroges Roux, a postman who says he is the new Christ. He claims powers to cure people with prayers only, providing they keep their door closed to all members of the scientific world.

The disciples of the "New Christ" twice tried to enter Pope Pius' bedroom in Rome during the past fortnight to cure him of his gastric ailment. They were expelled each time. They had predicted the Pope would die on Feb. 25 without their intervention.

Rev. Melvin K. Wasson of Sedalia Will Go to Nigeria, Africa, as a Missionary

The Rev. Melvin Kenneth Wasson, native of Sedalia, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Wasson, 1614 West 16th, and his wife were appointed missionaries to Nigeria this week by the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission board. They were among nine young people named for foreign service.

Mr. Wasson was graduated from Smith-Cotton High School and attended Central Business College in Sedalia. He received the B. S. degree in pharmacy from the University of Kansas City, and the B. A degree from Ouachita Baptist College, Arkadelphia, Ark. At present he is a student at Southern Baptist Theological Seminary at Louisville, Ky.

Since 1952 he has been a pharmacist at the Jewish Hospital in Louisville. Positions previously held include pastorates of Prosperity Baptist Church, Ramsay, Ark., and Rowlette Baptist Church, of Rowlette, Ky. From 1943 to 1946 he was in the U. S. Navy, part of the time in the Pacific theater.

Mr. Wasson said he was won to Christ by a fellow sailor while he was in the navy. "He talked to me about Christ and what a personal Saviour he could be," he told the board. "I lived in agony trying to make a decision . . . Finally . . . I surrendered myself completely to Christ. It was a dynamic personal encounter with my Lord."

He said he became a ministerial student while attending Ouachita and felt called to mission service about the same time. "I do not feel that I could be happy serving in the States unless I found that it is not God's will for me to go abroad," he said.

Mrs. Wasson, the former Lillian Strickland, was born near Nashville, Ark. She received the B. A. degree from Ouachita College and attended the University of Louisville, Louisville, Ky.

Her working experience includes two years as teacher in a rural school near Louisville, secretary to a psychology professor while a student at Ouachita, and a summer as Baptist Training Union worker in Arkansas.

Mrs. Wasson told the board she became a Christian during a revival meeting. She said she felt called to mission service while she was in college.

Mr. and Mrs. Wasson have one son, Melvin Kenneth Jr., almost two.

Negro Community Council Working On Hospital Plan

The Negro Community Council of Sedalia met in regular session on Friday, March 12 at 7 p. m. at the residence of it's president, Carl Abbott, with seven members present. It came to the attention of the council that the Sedalia division of the American Red Cross was preparing for its annual drive. In view of the very commendable record of the Red Cross as a very worthy service organization the council voted to support the effort with a contribution of $10.

A discussion then followed on the continued lack of adequate hospital facilities for the citizens of the Negro community. After a thorough discussion of the problem, it was then voted that the Negro Community Council would actively support and work for the admittance of all cftizens to the Bothwell Hospital. The council is forever working to aid in the achievement of the best possible community.

Flat Creek Baptists Hold a Singspiration

A program of poems, songs and a piano solo was presented Friday night at the monthly Singspiration of the Flat Creek Baptist Church. The service opened with the singing of "Amazing Grace", followed by prayer and scripture reading.

Miss Grace Schneider was in charge of the program and following the closing song those present went to the church basement for a period of recreation. They played several motion games and refreshments were served.

The next meeting will be on April 16.

12 Annual S-C PTA Variety Show And Style Show Thursday-Friday

The 12th annual Variety and Style Show, sponsored by the Smith - Cotton Parent - Teacher Association, will be held Thursday and Friday of this week in the high school auditorium.

This show is always popular and the theme, "Roberta", which has been selected, is expected to make this one of the best variety shows presented. The operetta background will provide a fitting setting for the men, womer and children modeling the spring fashions from local stores.

From the tiniest tots on up there will be the latest in styles, colors and material in hats, suits, coats and dresses for the Easter parade. Dressy clothes for parties formal clothes for evening wear, cocktail and afternoon parties, the casual, comfortable sportswear the business clothes, street clothes, or attire for any time of day or evening will be shown.

The style show will offer complete outfits for whatever occasion may present itself, graduation, June weddings, vacations. Any activities the spring may bring will be found in this array of attractive clothes.

McLaughlin Brothers, who provided the setting for the first show 12 years ago, will again have a colorful background for the exclusive dress salon and there will be two mannequins by Flower's.

The Smith-Cotton PTA is ready to stage another great show, but this time they want the people to know for what the money will go. Students selling tickets have had inquiries and the PTA is glad to tell the many things for which this money is spent.

It provides books, clothing, dental and medical care, as well as hot lunches for students who otherwise would be unable to attend school and complete their education. It is the little extra lift when needed most that has helped many of them over a temporary rough spot when the going seemed hard and the only apparent solution in the eyes of the students was to quit school and go to work.

According to Mrs. L. W. Duly, chairman of this year's show, a few of the many projects accomplished the past year by the PTA are student - aid, $262.30 and books, $72.83. This does not include books no longer used and donated by students out of school, this is for new books and supplies purchased this year. There are dental bills still outstanding, material purchased for those in the sewing classes when needed, or for manual training classes. Clothing is collected, cleaned mended if necessary, and turned over to Mrs. John Murrell, school nurse, for distribution.

Clothing is bought, such as shoes, and other money is turned over to the cafeteria to help defray the expense of student hot lunches. Many of the students pay for their own by working part time, but there are not enough jobs to go around and the PTA helps make up the deficit. The PTA hopes to some day be in a position to assume the entire responsibility for the hot lunch program.

Last fall curtains were needed for the stage of the Little Theatre and the PTA purchased maroon corduroy curtains, getting the material locally and having a local person make and hang them. The cost was $240.36. It has greatly added to the beauty and improved immeasurably the appearance of the Little Theatre, which is used by everyone in the community and surrounding trade territory.

This year there is even more of a need for money, due in some extent by cut backs and layoffs by a number of firms and industries. making the need for student-aid greater. With the success of the show, the PTA hopes to meet all of the needs.

Mrs. Lloyd Kennon is president of the Smith Cotton PTA and has always worked to put the show on even during the years when she has had no children in school. So have Mrs. A. J. Gregory and Mrs. Lloyd Kennon, and they are working at it again this year, along with many others.

Many of the students at the high school are rehearsing for the operetta, "Roberta", under the direction of Mrs. Carl Schrader and Miss Lois Gordon, and all of the students are out selling the tickets for 35 cents and the class selling the most will receive an award of $10.

Playhouse Cast Is Readying 'Night Must Fall' for April

The play, "Night Must Fall", to be presented April 6 and 7 by the Community Playhouse, is well underway and the organization is glad to welcome back into the fold its outstanding character actor, Mike Bogutski.

Mike, who has been in service two years, has been back just about two months and the first thing the Community Playhouse did was to pick out a play which has suspense and takes expert acting then put Mike in the leading male role.

Perhaps because he does the parts so well he always gets such roles, for this is the third one in which he has played a part of this kind. The other two are "Arsenic and Old Lace" and "Angel Street."

He also played in "The Man Who Came to Dinner" and "The Blythe Spirit".

In "Night Must Fall", Bogutski will take the part of Dan. He comes into a household of an old lady just at the time there has been a murder in the neighborhood. The old lady grows very fond of Dan and treats him as she would a son, but as the play develops, he is the murderer. He seems like such a nice person, she thinks, but he murders her, too, and in the last act is on his way to the electric chair.

When Mike came back from service he brought with him a bride and so, when he went to Community Playhouse meetings, he always took Barbara along. Barbara likes it, too, but she just sat there during rehearsals and looked on. She didn't have a part, but she was so interested. She took in everybody's part. Then for some reason or other one of the girls who was in the play dropped out and everybody looked at Barbara. Would she be interested? She would. "It is only a small part", said Mike. "But she is in it. She is the old lady's nurse."

The Playhouse group is working like mad again and having more fun getting ready for another play. The closer they get to the time for the play the harder they will work, but that is the part they like and they like to feel they have presented a good production with each player, after it is all over, satisfied in his or her own mind, that the cast did a nice job.

Shepley Is Named Washington U. Head

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Ethan A. H. Shepley, 57-year-old lawyer and civic leader, yesterday was appointed chancellor of Washington University in St. Louis. He is the first graduate of the school to be named to the post.

Pilot Grove Woman Conducts Small Fishing Lure Business

Mrs. Clarence Lang, wife of the MKT depot agent in Pilot Grove manufactures fishing lures that may very well be favorites with fishermen all over the Midwest area — and she does it in a small shop located in her home.

Her success is reflected by the fact that she retails the lures throughout Missouri, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Texas and has representatives in other states who are assisting her to get sales started in Michigan, Indiana, Kentucky, North and South Carolina and other states in the southeast. One evening last week she shipped 47 dozen of the lures to Oklahoma and Texas.

The lures are made of a liquid rubber mixture poured into molds, and the molds are then heated and opened to yield lures in the forms of life - size shrimp, flat fish, crawfish, popping bugs, small crabs, grasshoppers and frogs.

The shop, an extra room at the rear of the Lang home, used to be the workshop of her husband, but he put up a separate building three years ago, and this left the room a perfect spot for Mrs. Lang's home industry.

There is a lot of skill involved in making the molds for the lures. Mrs. Lang acquired her skill several years ago when a factory was set up briefly in Pilot Grove to manufacture the lures on a large scale. The business lasted only one summer, but that was long enough for Mrs. Lang to work there and learn how to make the molds.

The Kansas City firm which built the factory then hired her to make the lures by herself in the spring of 1952, but this year she is starting on her own. Assisting her is Miss Mildred McCarty, also of Pilot Grove.

Since she is now in independent business, Mrs. Lang has been able to reduce the price of the lures sharply in some cases almost in half.

The rubber mixture for making the lures comes in a powder form and is mixed with water. The top half of the mold has a hole in the top which leads to the hollow center, and through this is poured the liquid rubber. A great many molds are filled at one time, then placed in an old refrigerator which has bene converted into an oven and there heated at about 115 degrees Fahrenheit. The size of the lures determines the length of time they must remain in the oven, the larger lures taking more time than the smaller ones. A small cricket must heat for an hour and a half, while a frog must heat for three hours.

The lures are then removed carefully from the molds, trimmed with scissors and put aside to await painting. This is in addition to color which has been mixed with the liquid rubber. The final painting has two functions. It gives the lure a high gloss and more detail in marking and it preserves the lure.

Each of the lures carries a hook beneath it, either a single one or a triple hook. The hooks are placed in the molds before pouring, so that they are partly covered.

The flexibility of these rubber lures adds to their attraction since they will appear to move thei legs and feelers in the water.

Mrs. Lang is confident the lures will sell well, and her skill at producing them makes it seem probable.

Meanwhile, Lang has set up a small business in the separate shop building he erected three years ago. Working for him there is Harry Wilson, a young man who has a knack for turning out custom-built furniture, storm windows and other carpentry items. Customers ask most for lawn furniture and picnic tables.

The shop has its quota of power tools — a drill press, band saw, circular saw, shaper and joiner — and a full set of hand tools.

Barbara Will Leave Porfirio Rubirosa

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York World-Telegram and Sun said today that Barbara Hutton Rubirosa has informed members of her family she will leave her husband, Porfirio Rubirosa.

The newspaper said it learned the Woolworth heiress made her decision to leave her husband of less than three months after a heart-to-heart talk.

Charles Ventura of the newspaper said the rift has been widening for weeks and started a few days after their surprise wedding last Dec. 30 when Rubirosa, a Dominican diplomat, escorted a succession of beauties to Palm Beach Fla., night spots.

Miss Hutton had been married four times previously. Rubirosa has been married three times.

Deceptive

The frog-mouth, an Australian bird, sleeps during the day in an upright position, thereby resembling a tree limb and making itself inconspicuous. The bark-colored feathers of the bird help to carry out this deception

Work Is Started on SAFB Hospital and Dental Clinic, To Be Completed In Fall

Two Buildings, Latest Type Of Equipment

The Sedalia Air Force Base hospital, being constructed at a cost of more than $860,000, and a dental clinic at a cost of $87,000, are about ten percent complete. Work started several weeks ago and should be completed this summer and fall. The completion date on the hospital has been set for Oct. 1, and the dental clinic for July 18. These two buildings will provide the latest advancements for treatment and efficient operation.

Maj. Patrick Pomphrey, representing the Air Force surgeon general in Washington, is medical construction liaison officer for the program and assists the contractor and project engineer in gaining the maximum benefit from the tax dollar.

At most bases the dental clinic and hospital are in the same area, but Sedalia's new clinic will be centralized near the living and working area of the airmen to reduce time away from duty. The hospital is located in the northwest corner of the base, away from the noise of the runways and hangars. It is also located near where the new entrance to the base is located on the west side, which enters into Knob Noster State Park.

Besides being conveniently located away from noise and other such activity, the hospital has a beautiful site near a wooded section of the state park. It is an ideal location, the surroundings being conducive to the rapid recovery of patients.

The dental clinic has a prosthetic laboratory to produce dental appliances that formerly were sent to a centralized laboratory away from the base, with resulting delays in processing, shipment and longer time off the job for the patient.

In the 4,500 square feet at the clinic there are ten treatment rooms in addition to the laboratory, along with a waiting room. The building is well ventilated and lighted, contains dressing rooms for the duty personnel and a library, with material on the latest techniques and clinical problems. There is also a conference room in conjunction with the library where the doctors can hold conferences and discussions.

The hospital will contain 45,000 square feet of space, which building is classified by the Air Force as a 50/100 bed hospital. In other words, the hospital at the present time will accommodate 50 beds, but is so constructed that if the need arrives for an increase it can be converted into a 100-bed hospital. However, equipment being installed in the hospital, such as the laboratory, x-ray, surgical, dining facilities, etc., are large large enough to handle 100 bed patients in the future, by just adding the actual bed space.

Following World War II this method of construction was started. It is a big factor in saving money. Previously, when hospitals were built and later a larger one needed, it was necessary to reconstruct and build new buildings.

The new hospital will be air conditioned. Contrasting colors are used throughout the building and large window walls are in the main lobby and military waiting room, all of which adds to a modern and cheerful condition for the patients and personnel. Not to mention a promotion of fast recovery and better care for the patient. The design of the building provides a smooth flow of patients to minimize cross traffic.

Also in the new building will be a contagious disease ward which is isolated to prevent contact with other patients. Sanitation and safety are of prime importance in the new hospital and stainless steel is widely used for easier clean,ng, as well as a safety measure. The surgical department has explosion proof switches and static conductive flooring.

Latest improvements in new gadgets for the hospital, which are extremely necessary, are to be installed. Included will be up to date equipment for use of standard and emergency electrical outlets for iron lungs. There is piped oxygen, piped air and piped vacuum. A telephone jack is near each bed for use with portable telephones, so friends and relatives can reduce anxiety by speaking with the patients.

The latest of communication systems, between the patient and nurse on duty, will be installed. This system replaces the old "buzzer" method to call attention of the nurse. Instead, the intercommunication system is so arranged the patient can call the nurse almost in a whisper, a microphone picking up the voice and coming out through a loudspeaker at the nurse's desk. The system is so sensitive that it can pick up the breathing of a patient and is valuable in checking on the condition of a disturbed case. Should the patient want merely a drink of water, it isn't necessary for the nurse to leave her more important duties. She can notify an attendant to take it to the patient.

Emergency cases are taken to a special room near the x-ray and surgical sections. After release, the patient is moved to the emergency and recovery room offering piped oxygen and vacuum at each bed, plasma and full time nurses.

When on the road to recovery, the patient can enter a single or double bed room or a 4 to 8 bed ward. Each room is well lighted and cheerful to avoid the depressing and drab background associated with many hospitals. Colorful drapes may later be contributed by civic clubs and groups.

All possible methods and developments for more efficient operation and the latest in equipment have been included to insure that medical facilities at Sedalia AFB can return patients once more to the service of the Air Force.

Lincolnites At Church Meet

LINCOLN — Among those from here who attended the Baptist workers conference at Warsaw last week were, Inez and Lizzie Davis, Mrs. Roy McCain, Mrs. Grace Swearingin, Mrs. Ira Foster and the Rev. and Mrs. E. O. Farier.

Cpl. J. C. Hutsler, who for the past year was stationed with the armed forces in Germany, landed in the states one day last week and was sent to Fort Knox, Ky., where he will soon receive his discharge. Cpl. Hutsler spent Sunday here with his wife, Dorothy and Johnnie.

Mrs. Hutsler's mother, Mrs. Martha Hale, Lincoln telephone operator, who recently underwent surgery at the Menorah Hospital in Kansas City, is improving satisfactorily and plans to be home within a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Labahn and son Ray, Overland Park, Kan., were weekend guests of Mrs. Labahn's mother Mrs. S. O. Stratton. Other guests enjoying a contributive dinner at her home were her sons and their families, Mr. and Mrs. Oren Moor and Peggy Dee, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Moor, Warsaw and Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Labahn, Springfield.

H. H. Balke left the latter part of the week for a visit in Los Angeles, Calif., with his son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Balke.

Mrs. S. O. Brill has returned home after spending the winter in California with her daughter and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. John Love, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Ransdall and Ethel Brown, attended a grocers' meeting in Versailles Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Love were dinner guests Sunday of Mrs. Love's mother, Mrs. Addie Hoard and her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Hoard, Fairfield.

Mrs. W. C. McFarland, Mrs. Lee Lane, Dean and Lonnie and Mrs. Billie McFarland and Cathy spent the day Tuesday near Lexington with their daughter and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Kenny and children.

Mr. and Mrs. McFarland and baby Cathy, were dinner guests Sunday at the home of Mrs. Velma Ragar in Kansas City.

John Wilson, of the state of California, arrived in Kansas City Wednesday night where relatives from here met him. He came to attend the funeral of his nephew, Tommie Lee Martin.

Mrs. Ray McCubbin who has been quite ill, the past several months and who recently entered a clinic in Kansas City for observation and medical treatment is much improved and is convalescing at the home of her sister in a nearby Kansas town.

Herman Vogler Jr., was rushed to a hospital in Clinton Tuesday night for an emergency operation following a sudden severe illness suffered at his farm home west of Lincoln that night.

The Baptist Women's Missionary Union held an all day meeting at the church in Lincoln Thursday, March 11. Leaders of the program were, Mrs. Ira Foster and Mrs. Ruth Beyers.

Fred Kreuger, who recently underwent major surgery at the Wetzel Hospital in Clinton, was dismissed Saturday of last week and has returned to his home. He is improved.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Mothersbaugh and Margaret, and Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Mothersbaugh, Keith and Janet, Windsor, were dinner guests Sunday in the G. C. Swearingin home at Warsaw and also callers that afternoon in the William Swearingin and the Dr. H. B. Lynch homes.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Hansen and daughter Connie, Springfield, visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Hansen, Lincoln and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rank, Calhoun, over the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Vogler and Lonnie, have moved back into their home after spending several weeks with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Means and Sue, while the interior of their residence was being redecorated and repaired; this being made necessary as the result of a fire which threatened the destruction of their home recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Martin and their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Tommie Lee Martin, arrived early Wednesday morning after spending the past few days in Denver, Colo., where they were called by the critical illness and death of their son and husband, Tommie Lee.

The regular meeting of the Lincoln Rebekah Lodge, No. 822 met in the lodge hall Wednesday night.

HE'D BETTER BEHAVE—Don't rub your eyes—it's true. Pretty Elvie Paulsen lifts her 150-pound husband, Pilon, above her head with the greatest of ease, during a musical act in Hamburg, Germany. The muscle-packed glamor girl also seems to be taking things in stride as she carries on a telephone call while balancing her husband on her lower leg. Elvie claims she gets her strength by eating three spoons of chopped shark's tail for breakfast. However, she's not strong, or fast enough, to be in two places at once. This is a composite picture of two of her most difficult poses.

MoPac Shop Notes---

Ed Payne, Pipefitter, Ends 50-Year Career With MoPac

Ed Payne, pipe fitter for the Missouri Pacific for over 50 years, has retired from service. Style Allows Her a Career, Babies, Too

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

NEW YORK — Nowadays having a baby need be only a slight interruption of a young woman's business career, says Elsie Frankfurt, of Texas.

Elsie, the young and vital maternity dress tycoon, voiced these sentiments recently at the Harvard Business School, where she was the only woman in a seminar of 80 members of the Young President's Club. When a speaker said most executives considered women in business temporary, Elsie retorted:

"That's only in story books. A baby means only a couple of months away from the job today."

"More and more women are going into every field of business and the professions every day, and most of them do it because they have to. They can't afford to sit at home any more, even when they have children. The high cost of living and paying taxes makes it a necessity to have two breadwinners in many families today."

With her two sisters, Edna and Louise, Elsie runs one of the country's largest and most successful maternity dress companies in her home town of Dallas. The girls decided to manufacture these long - neglected garments when the two married members of the trio found they couldn't find the kind of dresses they wanted while awaiting birth of their own babies. (Edna has three children, Louise two.)

Now they turn out 100,000 maternity garments a year, ranging from bathing suits and shorts to suits, dresses, slacks and formal gowns. Elsie, as president of the firm, keeps an alert eye on all departments of the business, including styling.

Though she is considered a genius in modern business methods, Elsie looks like a frivolous debutante, loves pretty clothes, and dazzled her male classmates at the Harvard seminar by wearing a different outfit every day and every evening of the session. Says she proudly:

"I didn't repeat once."

Today, says Elsie, most women want to continue their usual activities up to the time their babies are born, and so provide themselves with a complete wardrobe of smart and flattering maternity clothes. Says she:

"Today's women have learned that it pays to look their best at all times, even when expecting the stork. Well - designed maternity clothes have enabled many women to keep on at their jobs almost until time to leave for the hospital —and that's a much healthier and happier situation than moping around the house ashamed to be seen."

Parent Education Program for PTA At Pilot Grove

PILOT GROVE — A parent-education program was presented at the regular meeting of the Pilot Grove PTA Monday evening, March 8, at the high school auditorium. Mrs. Robert Painter, parent education chairman, was in charge of the program and was assisted by Miss Lida Harris, principal of the high school.

A "Juvenile Jury," composed of elementary students, presented "Problems of Discipline." Taking part were: Richard Jeffress, Jeanette Stegner, Earl Wessing, Mary Deer, Donald Kempf, Linda Jones, Jimmy Shipman, Mary Lee Schlotzhauer, Shirley Thomas, Edward Meisenheimer, Patty Schupp, Billy Davis, Bonnie Bean, Barbara Nelson, Larry Varner, and Teddy Babbitt.

Mrs. Paul Meisenheimer conducted the business session. The nominating committee, Mrs. Maurice Phillips, Mrs. Milton Schlotzhauer, Mrs. Joe Twenter and Mrs. Jay Bean, presented the present officers for reelection: president, Mrs. Paul Meisenheimer; vice-president, Mrs. Houston Deer; secretary, Miss Lida Harris; and treasurer, Mrs. Phillip Day.

Mrs. Meisenheimer reported the Cooper County Council meeting will be held March 16 at the Central School in Boonville. A luncheon will be held at Holt's Cafe.

After the business meeting, a social hour was held. The members of the social committee were Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Brownfield and Mr. and Mrs. Houston Deer.

Patients Must Pay All Medical Fees

ST. LOUIS (AP) —The Board of Aldermen has authorized payment of medical fees by patients at city institutions. Patients now are charged only for bed or room occupancy.

Only patients who are able to pay are charged the fees.

The money to be collected from the medical fees, authorized by a bill passed yesterday, will be placed in a fund for medal and dental research.

Lester Whittle Gives Suggestion Used By Navy

Lester L. Whittle, SK3, Naval Air Station, Barker's Point, Territory of Hawaii, was one of two of the personnel to submit a usable suggestion for the Management Improvement Program put into operation at the station during February. The suggestion box is for the purpose of increasing effectiveness and efficiency in the operation of the station.

The suggestion by Whittle resulted in the lighting system at the fuel farm being converted, making it much safer and easier to issue fuel to the gas tanker trucks at night.

This was the first suggestion submitted to the committee by Whittle. He developed the idea while standing a watch at the fuel farm one night.

Editor Is Bopped In Eye After Printed Plea for Harmony

CHILDERSBURG, Ala. (AP)—Editor E. E. Rozelle of the weekly Childersburg News got bopped in the eye because of a plea for peace in his column.

An irate woman reader objected to a short page one item in which the plea was coupled with a reference to "two ladies engaging in a free for all hair-pulling contest," the editor said. The item appeared in yesterday's edition.

Rozelle gave this account:

He was at his desk yesterday when Mr. and Mrs. Charles Biles entered and Mrs. Biles made a remark about the "nasty, dirty paper you're printing."

Biles ordered Rozelle to remove his glasses. The editor declined. Then, Rozelle said, Biles hit him when he started to get up. The glasses were broken.

Childersburg Police Chief J. L. Ginright said Biles was placed under bond on a charge of disorderly conduct. The case was set for hearing in city court Monday.

The item about the hair-pulling contest wound up with a plea for harmony and goodwill because good citizenship week will be observed next week.

Husband Jailed For Marrying 12-Year-Old

HOLLY SPRINGS, Miss. (AP)—The marriage of a pretty 12-year-old girl to her 22-year-old next-door neighbor was revealed today with the jailing of her husband on charges brought by the bride's father.

George Hunsucker, the groom, was held in $5,000 bond, charged with perjury and contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Attorney Fred Swaney, who represented the Smith family in the case, said the couple lived together in a Collierville, Tenn., apartment for four days after their surprise marriage last Saturday.

Swaney told this story:

"The little girl disappeared from home. The mother became ill from shock about the girl and was in the hospital until Thursday night.

"The father wanted the girl back. He had heard rumors that she was married to Hunsucker. We checked the circuit court clerk's office in Holly Springs and found that Hunsucker bought a marriage license March 4."

Hunsucker, the attorney said, bought the license himself.

"The girl was not present," he said. "He gave the age of the girl as 18 in the clerk's office, and has been charged with perjury for this."

The lawyer said the couple was married by an Asaland, Miss., minister whose name was not disclosed.

Judge Personally Tries Mechanical Punchboard

ST. LOUIS (AP)— Judge Louis Comerford, faced with a hearing to determine the legality of a mechanical punchboard, tried out the device for himself at police gambling squad headquarters yesterday.

After his session with the device, Judge Comerford of the Court of Criminal Correction recessed the hearing until next Thursday.

The hearing is based on seizure by police of about $3,000 worth of the mechanical punchboards and equipment used in their manufacture.

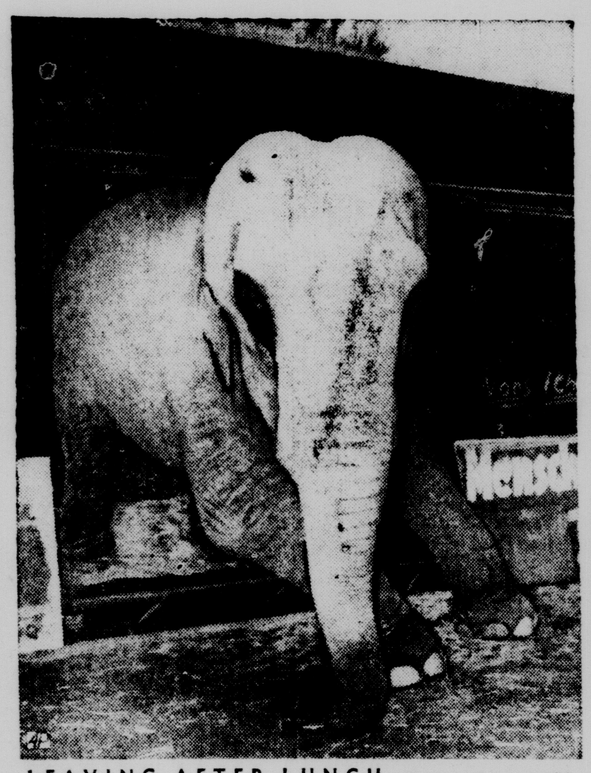

Robert C. Walters, operator of a mechanized punchboard manufacturing firm here, contends the device he has patented is not a punchboard as set out in statutes and not subject to confiscation by police.

Clever Blonde Bilks Two Banks of $92

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., (AP)— A clever blonde found a way to roll $8 in pennies into $100 cash.

She did it by passing pennies off as dimes in paper wrappers and collecting the difference from two banks.

One bank teller said the woman cheerfully complied when he told her she would have to put her name on each wrapper of the 12 rolls of "dimes" she wanted to cash. Police said she gave a fictitious name.

Men May Join Army And Pick Their Branch

Sergeant Brady R. Ray, of the Army Air Force recruiting station in the Sedalia post office building today announced that a limited number of openings, with one exception, are now available to men without prior service in the Army branch of service of their choice.

This is the first time non-prior service men have had the opportunity to make a choice of branch of service since 1948. Men enlisting under this program must agree to a four year enlistment period.

The Corps of Engineers is the one branch in which there is no restriction as to the number of men who may be enlisted. Those which have limited openings are: Signal Corps, Quartermaster Corps, Medical Corps, Adjutant General Corps, Ordinance Corps, Military Police Corps, Chemical Corps and Transportation Corps.

Cadillac

It Speaks a Universal Language!

It's the great 1954 Cadillac—and it speaks not only with great eloquence, but in a language which is known and understood wherever there are roads to travel . . . and people to behold.

First of all, it speaks of its owner—the minute its beautiful hood comes into view.

"Here is a man," it says—almost as plainly as the words are written here—"who has earned the right to sit at this wheel—by his industry and deportment and enterprise. Be he merchant or lawyer or businessman—or doctor or farmer or financier—the odds are great that he's a credit to his calling and to his fellow men.

And then, as it comes closer, it speaks its special message for 1954—the story of its own advancement.

Its beautiful silhouette—graceful, free-flowing and dynamic—announces a whole new era in automotive design . . . "expect me to be copied for years to come!"

And its smooth, silent, easy movement—a true symphony in motion as it glides past and on and away—says with clarity and eloquence that the world's standard for performance has been raised again.

It comes in addition to all the priceless fundamentals which make a Cadillac a Cadillac: unrivalled endurance and dependability—incomparable comfort and handling ease—and unbelievable economy of upkeep and operation.

Better come in—and let a Cadillac speak for you!

American Republics Back US

Dulles' Resolution Concerning Commie Infiltration Passes By Large Margin

CARACAS, Venezuela, March 13 (AP)—The American republics approved by an overwhelming vote today the resolution of U. S. Secretary of State Dulles calling for collecive action against Communist infiltration of the Western Hemisphere.

Only Guatemala—accused by the United States ob being under Communist influence — voted against the resolution at the 10th Inter-American Conference. The vote was 17-1 with 2 absententions —Mexico and Argentina.

Adopion of the resolution, to be known henceforth as the "Declaration of aracas," was a diplomatic victory for Dulles. He led the fight to have the Americas serve notice on Moscow that Communist infiltration of a country would be considered in the same light as a foreign invasion.

Dulles, in making a final plea for adoption of the resolution without change, said it would amount to an unequivocal "warning to alien depots." He said its purpose was to save the Americas from a threat originaing outside the Western Hemisphere. After the vote he was congratulated warmly by many of the delegates.

At the airport Dulles told newsmen the Declaration of Caracas was a "momentous" one. He added: "The fact that only one American naion voted against the declaration shows how necessary it was to take this step. We can now be sure the enemy will not move into the breach disclosed by the vote."

Guatemala's opposition to any part of the resolution and to virtually every condemnation of communism as consistent throughout the four hours of voting on various parts of the document.

Argentina's absentention was attributed to its policy of taking a "middle position" in the struggle between East and West. Mexico's acion apparently reflected its fears that the declaration might be used by some American republics as a pretext for intervention in the internal affairs of others.

MPS Will Appear Before Hearing On Gas Firm

WARRENSBURG (AP) — The Missouri Public Service Co., said today it would appear to testify March 15 at Topeka, Kan. before the Kansas Corporation Commission at its hearing into the sale and merger of the Missouri utility with the Gas Service Co.

The Kansas hearing was set prior to the expiration of a contract between Cities Service and the Missouri Public Service Co., under which the Missouri firm agreed to purchase 1,500,000 shares of Gas Service stock for $32,000,000.

Cities Service had been ordered to sell the Gas Service Co.

Officials of MPS said they hoped to receive approval of the proposed sale and merger so the firm can make a new bid for the Gas Service stock.

Meanwhile, in Kansas City, Ben S. Adams, president of Gas Service, said a statement of intention to sell the stock at public auction will be filed Monday with the Federal Securities and Exchange Commission.

Adams said he believed all SEC requirements could be met and the sale of the stock to investment bankers would be completed in time to permit the offering to the public by May 1.

The Gas Service Co., distributes gas to some 450,000 customers in Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Nebraska.

Iranian Police Arrest 'Most Wanted' Man

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Hossein Fatemi, Iran's "most wanted" man since last August, was picked up by police in a Tehran suburb today and jailed. Fatemi, a fiery nationalist, was foreign minister under Mohammed Mossadegh until the forces of the Shah deposed Mossadegh last fall.

Soon after Fatemi was brought to police headquarters an ardent pro-Shah backer tried to wrest him away and kill him.

Black-bearded ex-wrestler Shaban Jafari stalked through the building's main lobby toward the corridor where Fatemi was being held.

"In the name of Allah, hand this man to me so that I can break him into little pieces. Long live the Shah. Down with Mossadegh and his followers."

The police were adamant and Jafari stomped out.

33 Killed As British Liner Crashes

SINGAPORE, March 13 (AP)—A British Constellation airliner bound from Australia to London skidded, somersaulted and burned in landing on Singapore's main airport today, killing 33 persons. At least three Americans and one Canadian were listed among the dead.

Eight of the crew survived. Rescue workers, mainly Europeans spending Saturday afternoon at the nearby Singapore swimming club, hauled them out after firemen put down a blaze that black smoke 300 feet in the air.

One of the victims was a crew member, a steward. The other 31 were passengers.

They included:

Grant F. Olson, 48, a vice president and director of the W. A. Sheaffer Pen Co., of Fort Madison, Ia. He was in charge of advertising and export.

Flying a clear sky, the plane came in for a landing on Kallang Airport, skidded along the runway for about 20 yards, and then tipped end-over-end onto the grass about 100 feet away. There was a loud explosion followed by the towering flames and smoke.

Investigators began to dig into the wreckage for clues to the crash. One rescue worker said it appeared the Constellation's landing gear might have struck upright posts of an old pier on the edge of a stream at the end of the runway where the crash occurred.

Demos May Wreck Ike's Tax Bill

WASHINGTON, March 13 (AP)—Two top House Republicans said today the Eisenhower administration's giant tax revision bill may be wrecked by Democrate efforts to add an $100 increase in individual income tax exemptions to it.

Speaker Martin predicted President Eisenhower will veto the bill rather than accept the added loss in revenues.

Rep Daniel A. Reed of New York, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, called the Democratic drive for higher tax exemptions "a politically-motivated attempt to destroy the pending tax revision bill and the excise reduction program."

"If successful," Reed added," "the Democratic strategy may well mean no tax relief this year."

Martin and Reed spoke out as some key Republicans conceded (privately) they face an uphill fight in the House next wee kto try to stave off the Democratic tax-cutting push in this congressional election year.

There already was at least one open defection in the Republican ranks. Rep. Edith Nourse Rogers of Massachusetts announced she would vate for any move to send the tax revision bill back to committee for inclusion of higher income tax exemptions.

In a letter to President Eisenhower, Mrs. Rogers said the argument that the government cannot afford increased exemptions is "wrong, misleading to the public in general, and unjust to the American people as a whole."

"If the budget cannot be balanced," she said, "attention should be focused on the core of the problem, namely, the millions of tax income wasted and squandered loosely in areas all over the world."

Mrs. Rogers has introduced a bill increasing exemptions from the present $600 to $1,000.

Both sides were preparing for a close, bruising battle along party lines when an 855-page general tax overhaul hits the House floor next Wednesday or Thursday.

Held in $2,500 Bail After Telling FBI Of Plot to Kill Ike

NEW YORK, March 13 (AP) — A Puerto Rican Nationalist, arrested while phoning the FBI of his plans to kill President Eisenhower, was held in $2,500 bail today for a hearing March 25.

Asst. U. S. Atty. Peter Brown said the man, Jose Rivera Colon, 30, had been an inmate of mental institutions and has a record of previous arrests.

Colon, an itinerant paint sprayer, was arrested last night in a drugstore phone booth after the call was traced.

Firefighters Look For Improvement In Fire Danger

KANSAS CITY, March 13—(AP) Missouri's firefighters looked for improvement in the forest fire danger tonight with lower temperatures, subsiding winds and higher relative humidity.

"I think we're getting the upper hand now," reported William Towell, assistant state forester.

But foresters and volunteers still were working round the clock fighting fires, patrolling burned out areas looking for new outbreaks or scanning skies for signs of smoke.

More than 25,000 acres have been reported burned in various parts of the Ozarks, tinder dry from long drought. The combination of high winds and low moisture content of the air made the forests doubly vulnerable to fires.

However, today with a higher relative humidity and subsiding winds, the situation improved. Towell reported that fires broke out today in all but one of the 10 protection districts in the state; but all were small ones.

One of the bigger fires, on a 9,000 acre game refuge in northern Lawrence County was reported under control late today after burning over about 1,000 acres. It destroyed two cabins and made driving hazardous on U. S. 66. This fire began shortly after noon Friday.

Between 300 and 500 deer on the refuge escape the flames. They were driven out of the danger area into the northeast corner of the refuge.

Earlier today Towell blamed malicious fire bugs for 10 separate fires in the Deer Run district near Ellington. He said they were set by people "who knew just what would happen under the weather conditions."

Jefferson Barracks Suggested as a Site For Medical Agency

ST. LOUIS, March 13 (AP)—Jefferson Barracks has been suggested as the possible new site for the Joint Services Medical Procurement Agency.

Letters stressing advantages of the barracks site have been sent to the Department of Defense in Washington by St. Louis County Suprvisor Luman F. Matthews and Aloys P. Kaufmann, president of the Chamber of Commerce of metropolitan St. Louis.

The procurement agency, now located in Brooklyn, is seeking a site which will permit expansion and dispersal of facilities. It currecently employes about 100 military personnel and 200 civilians.

The city in 1951 acquired from the federal government a 252-acre tract and 22 buildings at Jefferson Barracks for a proposed hospital for the chronically ill. Lack of funds held back the project. Transfer of the property to the county is now in progress.

Iowan Is Charged In Death of Woman

HANNIBAL (AP) — A charge of manslaughter was filed today against Blinn D. Gallup, 24, Keokuk, Iowa, in the traffic death Wednesday night of Ruth Dabnet, 55-year-old Hannibal Negro.

Prosecuting Attorney Harry J. Mitchell took the action following a coroner's jury verdict that the victim was struck by a car apparently owned and driven by Gallup.

Gallup surrendered to Hannibal police Thursday after hearing a radio news report describing the car which struck Miss Dabnet. In a signed statement, police reported, he said he could not recall what had happened after leaving Canton, Mo., Wednesday until he arrived at the home of his mother, just west of here.

Bargain To Build 'A' Plant

Negotiate With Duquesne Light Co. To Build, Operate First Nuclear Plant

WASHINGTON, March 13—(AP) The Atomic Energy Commission announced tonight it is negotiating an agreement with the Duquesne Light Co. of Pittsburgh for the construction and operation of the nation's first full-scale central station nuclear power plant.

"It is not expected," the announcement said, "that this first plant will produce electric power at costs competitive with power from conventional fuels. The project has been undertaken in order to gain more design and technological experience than could be obtained otherwise, such as from a smaller plant and to provide firm cost estimates for the future."

The AEC said the Duquesne company's proposal, one of nine submitted, was the most favorable to the government. Under it, the company would:

1. Furnish a site in the greater Pittsburgh area for the entire project and build and operate a new electric generating plant at no cost to the government.

2. Operate the reactor part of the plant and bear the labor costs thus entailed.

3. Assume five million dollars of the cost of research, development, and construction of the reactor portion of the plant.

4. Pay the commission at the rate of 48.3 cents per million BTU's (British thermal units) of steam used in the turbines for the first year; the rate increasing annually until it reaches 60.3 cents in the fifth year.

5. Waive any reimbursement by the government of costs incident to termination of the contract.

AEC Chairman Lewis L. Strauss estimated that the company's proposal, including revenues from the sale of steam generated by the reactor, would reduce by 30 million dollars the expenditures the government would have to make for construction and the first five years operation if it undertook the full cost of the project itself.

The announcement said Westinghouse Electric Corp. has contracted to build a reactor for the plant which is expected to produce sufficient heat to generate a minimum of 60,000 kilowatts of saleable electricity, in addition to meeting the plant's own needs for power.

The actual capacity may turn out to be somewhat greater than this minimum, the AEC said.

High Point to Invite Quisenberry to Party

The High Point 4-H Club met Friday, Feb. 12, at the High Point School with David Fender, president, presiding. The meeting was brought to order by repeating the 4-H pledge and the Lord's Prayer.

The High Point 4-H'ers decided to invite the Quisenberry 4-H Club to a skating party which will be held April 5.

Plans were completed for a "working day" which will be March 20. All members of the club will participate.

The meeting adjourned and games were led by Dennis and Lanny Houk.

The High Point Extension Club served refreshments.

The next meeting will be held on April 5th at the school.

Unemployment Has Reached 3,671,000

WASHINGTON (AP)—National unemployment, continuing its rise, reached 3,671,000 in February, by the latest government count.

It's anybody's guess whether the key March figure—published next month — will show the decline hoped for by President Eisenhower.

The President said some weeks ago that if the March jobless total fails to drop he will consider government action, including possible tax relief, to buoy the economy.

The Census Bureau reported yesterday that unemployment, as measured by a new sampling method, rose 584,000 in February.

Another sampling method, which Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks said the Census Bureau is abandoning, showed February unemployment up 1,026,000 to a total 3,385,000.

The 3,671,000 new-sample jobless figure compares with 1,788,000 for February 1953, the lowest post-World War II total, and 4,684,000 for February 1950, the highest post-war count. February employment was put at 60,051,000—up 298,000 from the previous month.

There were substantial discrepancies between the two sets of figures — for instance, the new sample reported an 885,000 February increase in the civilian labor force while the old sample showed a 1,354,000 increase. The new sample indicated a 120,000 decline in non-farm employment but the old one registered a 47,000 increase.

Both methods involve checks at 25,000 households, but the new sampling is taken over a much wider area than the old.

Whatever the reason for the varying figures—and the Census Bureau said it couldn't give any right now—it appeared unemployment had climbed anywhere from 2,000,000 to 2,500,000 in the four months since October, when 1,162,000 were reported as jobless.

Murrow Reports Dulles Member Of School Board

NEW YORK (AP)—CBS commentator Edward R. Murrow says Secretary of State Dulles was a member of the board of trustees of the Institute of International Education in 1935.

On his regular news commentary last night, Murrow replied to criticism made Thursday night by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis), who connected Murrow's institute activities 19 years ago with what he termed "a Moscow University summer session."

Murray said:

"Now here are the facts about that Moscow summer school . . . I was the assistant director of the institute. . . This organization dealt with the exchange of students and professors between this and foreign countries . . .

"It was largely financed at that time by the Carnegie Corp. and the Rockefeller Foundation.

"Among its board of trustees were such as John Foster Dulles, John Basset Moore, Thomas W. Lamont . . . and others equally distinguished.

"The Russian authorities abruptly, and without satisfactory explanation, cancelled the proposed summer school before it began, and most of the prospective members spent the summer traveling in the Soviet Union.

"No effort was made to revive the venture, and the advisory council was therefore dissolved."

Apartment Blaze Takes Life of 1-Year-Old

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A one-year-old child was killed and her brother and sister were burned when fire broke out in their two-room basement apartment here last night.

Dead is Diane Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Smith, Negroes. She apparently died of smoke suffocation.

Her brother, Ronnie, 3, suffered first and second degree burns and Rosina, a 5-year-old sister, was treated for slight burns of the forehead and released.

Battalion Fire Chief Harry Nester said the fire was apparently caused when one of the children played with matches. Officers said the mother had gone downtown at the time of the fire.

The Ewerts Are a Family of Artists Whose Works Will Be Shown at Art Festival Here

A family of artists is the Ewert family. Right now only Dr. and Mrs. J. O. Ewert are at the pretty little home southwest of Sedalia, but the house is full of pictures and many things that Jimmy and John Jr. have made, which are constant reminders of the boys. Some of their pictures are on the wall of Dr. Ewert's office, 412½ South Ohio, too, where the doctor and his wife spend their busy daytime hours.

The Ewerts came to Sedalia in August, 1952, from California, principally because Dr. Ewert wanted to get back to Missouri, near Clinton where he had grown up. He wasn't born in Missouri, he was born in Minnesota, but his family had moved to Clinton and he grew up on a farm near there, a farm they later sold for $100,000.

The doctor went to California, when he was 21, to take a premed and a medical course. That was how he happened to meet Mrs. Ewert, because she went to California, too, from her home in Mount Pleasant, Mich. She wanted to take a nurse's course and she had an aunt there and that was the reason she went so far from home for the training.

So it was in California that the interest in art started, after the two little boys, who were born three and a half years apart to the Ewerts, were old enough to take an interest in things.

It was long before they were old enough to go to school that Dr. Ewert planned a study time in the evenings. Sometimes it was reading, another night spelling, another arithmetic, and sometimes drawing.

The boys liked drawing which at first was done with crayon, and the mother found she liked it, too. Although he wouldn't let his pictures be shown, Dr. Ewert sketches just for the fun of it along with his family and he is talented enough to make likenesses of anybody or anything he might want to sketch.

The family lived at Loma Linda, near San Bernardino, and Jimmy, the older of the two boys, went from crayons to making plaques of plaster of Paris, which he put in a paper plate. He then carved the pictures on it and painted it. The next thing was wood carving and water colors. He didn't start to school until he was eight years old and then made three grades in one year.

Jimmy tried pastels and when he was 14 he began to beg for oil paints. His father bought some oils and, not wanting to go to the expense of buying a canvas, his mother gave him an old window shade. But if she thought Jimmy was going to ruin a canvas, she was underestimating his ability in art. He took a Christmas card and beautifully reproduced the scene on the window shade. That was enough. She bought canvas and Jimmy painted, "The Yucca," which now hangs on the wall in the living room of the home. Then he made a pastel of the Golden Gate bridge and started on a large painting which turned out to be a beautiful autumn scene.

By this time Junior was making pictures, too, all in pastels and water colors, and so was Mrs. Ewert. They had been encouraged by a woman from Washington, who was attending art school in California, to go ahead with oils, so they did. Mrs. Ewert felt she would like to see what she could do with oils herself, so she bought herself a canvas, had it framed and started to work painting a picture of the red wood trees. It was such fun, she found. Why if you didn't like what you were painting you could just paint right over it.

The family always enjoyed doing things together. They were usualy all into it whenever any one of them started something.

The doctor felt it would be well to start making things of wood, too, so he started in with the boys when they were little, buying small tools and teaching them how to build things. When Jimmy was 12 he bought him an electric motor, a shapper and lathe. The next Christmas he bought the boys a power saw, drill press and an electric band saw. The boys took an interest in the shop and Jimmy made lawn furniture, kitchen stools and step ladders. In fact, he did so well that he started selling step ladders and kitchen stools. He made a cabinet for the music, book shelves and his own picture frames.

John Jr. made things, too, a lamp for the waiting room of the office, a magazine rack, and a miniature ox cart out of Washington apple boxes. He went a little further. He took a course in mechanics and he made the trailer they used when they came here from California. He is now interested in radios, gets old parts and puts them together. He has already made three and sold them.

But Jimmy goes in for mechanics, too. The bought an old car for $75 that had two Ford wheels and two Chevrolet wheels and wouldn't run. He put it together in the school shop and they found the only thing lacking was one little bolt. Jimmy painted it red, put a lot of chrome on it and he was the envy of every teenager in the school. They called it the "Little Red Rod" and he sold it at a profit when he left California.

Right now Jimmy, who is married and has a four months old baby, is stationed at the Madigan Army Hospital, Fort Lewis, Wash. He is still working making things of wood. From Philippine mahogany used in crating boxes he carved a large rose in the center with a design around it. He is also interested in photography.

But the paintings made by all the family are still at home and Mrs. Ewert is going to center them in the Art Festival, which will be held April 16, 17 and 18, at the public library.

This is the second annual Art Festival and is sponsored by the Beta Tau Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, which also sponsored the very succesful Art Festival held last year.

MRS. J. O. EWERT is shown with painting done by her and her two sons, Jimmy and John Jr., which she plans to enter in the Art Festival to be held at the public library April 16, 17 and 18, sponsored by Beta Tau Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi. (Padgett Photo)

STATIONED IN CALIFORNIA—A-3c Sylvan Ray Demand, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roderic Demand, Smithton, is now stationed at Parks Air Force Base, California, where he is enrolled in the Air Force Defense School. He will learn protection and defense of Air Force bases, law enforcement and Air Force law.

Store Sales Takes Sharp Upward Turn

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Department store sales took a sharp upward turn during the week ending March 6 in the Missouri section of the Tenth Federal Reserve District.

The overall figure, based on reports from Kansas City, St. Joseph and Joplin, was up eight percent as compared the corresponding week a year ago. The district as a whole, however, was off five per cent.

50 Years Ago Ty Cobb Began Baseball Era

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. (AP) — Fifty years ago, right about this time, too, baseball clubs in the South Atlantic (Sally) League received letters from a Georgia country boy asking for a tryout.

Only the Augusta club bothered to reply. For this gesture William J. Croke, owner, and Con Strouthers, manager, deserve an extra niche in baseball history.

It was their promise of a trial that flushed Tyrus Raymond Cobb out of the bushes and started probably the greatest player of them all on his way to immortality.

Ty Cobb was a lanky youth of 17 when he wrote those letters in 1904. He paid his own way from Royston. His professional debut was such it would have present day writers doing rhetorical handsprings. In four times at bat, he hit a double and homer and scored two runs.

Those were parlous times in baseball. Young Cobb was released after playing two games. The regular whose place in the outfield he had taken signed up and took over.

Cobb hooked on with the Anniston, Ala., club of the Southeastern League. When he batted .370 and stole six bases in 22 games, Augusta's manager, Strouther, sent word he would sign him back on if he returned.

In finishing out the season with Augusta, Ty looked like a dud. He hit only .237 in 37 games.

The year 1905, however, was to prove the start of the most spectacular career in baseball. Andy Roth was the new manager at Augusta. He and Cobb feuded from the start.

Eddie Cicotte, pitching for Augusta, beat Savannah 2-1 in the season's opener. Cobb cost Cicotte a shutout. He was eating popcorn in centerfield, started too slow and a hit got past him, enabling Savannah to score its lone run.

Manager Roth threw a fit. He sold Cobb to Charlestown for $2. But as soon as he was told of it, owner Croke cancelled the deal. And two months after the season was under way, he boosted Ty's salary from $90 to $125 monthly.

The Detroit Tigers held first purchase option on any Augusta player, a favor accorded because Cicotte had been loaned to the Sally League club for the 1905 season.

It took a lot of sales talk to get Cobb into a Tiger uniform. Detroit owner Frank J. Navin was more interested in Clyde Engle, who played both infield and outfield. After repeated recommendations by his own manager, Bill Armour; Cicotte the pitcher, and Sally League umpire Bill Byron, later a famed National League arbiter, Navin gave in. He paid $500 for Cobb's contract, according to Ty's version of the deal today.

Cobb, then 18, made his American League debut in Detroit on Aug. 30, 1905. Straw was still sticking in the rookie's hair, so to speak. The great Jack Chesbro was pitching for the New York Highlanders, now the Yankees.

Chesbro looked down his nose at the awkward appearing youth, quickly got two strikes on him. Cobb lined the third pitch into centerfield. It was a double and drove in a run—his first time at bat.

Cobb played 41 games and finished out the 1905 season with a plate average of .240. That puny effort was his last and for 23 consecutive years thereafter he hit better than .300.

The Georgia Peach retired after 1928 with a lifetime batting average of .367, still a league record. Three times he hit over .400, also an American League mark. When he quit he held a share in or owned outright 90 major league records.

The Royston sandlotter who pleaded by letter half a century ago for a professional trial turned out to be quite a neat investment, especially for the Detroit Tigers.

Cobb, 67, has long since retired. A millionaire now, he is enjoying the sunset years of life out this way. He maintains legal residence in Glenbrook, Nev., and also has a spacious home in suburban Menlo Park, south of San Francisco.

Homan Chosen Member All-CMC Cage Team

Conference Track Meet to be Held In Sedalia; Add Baseball in Meet

Ray Homan, spark of the Smith-Cotton high school basketball team was selected by the coaches of the Central Missouri Conference as a member of the All-Conference 1953-54 team. The CEMO officials met at the Tiger Hotel in Columbia as guests of Hickman High School Saturday.

The Jefferson City Jays collected the lions share of honors on the first team landing Leroy Howser and Jay Carpenter, with Charles Sullivan of Hannibal and Chris Bristow of Missouri Military Academy, filling out the team.

Two other Sedalia players picked up votes for the All-Star position, but not enough to make it, they were Kenneth Buhlig and Lanny Benson.

Jim Bollinger, Hannibal, was elected president of the Conference and Ralph "Stub" Dow, Smith-Cotton, vice-president. Leo L. Schmitt, principal of Hickman High School, Columbia, was chosen as secretary-treasurer.

The annual spring track meet was taken up for discussion and the officials selected Sedalia as the 1954 meeting place. The group gave Sedalia its first Conference track meet in several years, honoring the opening of the Jennie Jaynes Memorial Stadium site.

This will be a combination meet with the preliminary track events being run in the afternoon, and the finals under the lights at night starting at 7 o'clock. Also the Conference golf tournament will be played in Sedalia, using the Sedalia Country Club golf course.

The meet is expected to attract the largest attendance the Conference has enjoyed in several seasons.

Something new was added. The Conference voted to include among its activities baseball for the first time. However only four teams are in the conference high schools. They are at Jefferson City, Columbia, Missouri Military Academy and Sedalia.

The rules for this year calls for at least four games being played in the conference, to figure in the standings. There is a six game schedule, each team playing the other three two games. The reason for the four game rule is that one, possibly two games might be rained out and could not be played.

Should the full schedule be played it is the same as a double round robin.

Dates for the baseball games are to be set.

No action was taken upon the possibility of inviting two other schools into the Conference, bringing it up to a possible eight school conference instead of the present six schools of Columbia, Hannibal, Kemper Military Academy, Missouri Millitary Academy, Jefferson City and Sedalia.

Sooners Scoop Victory in Big Seven Swim Meet

AMES, Iowa, March 13 (AP) — Oklahoma and Iowa State engaged in another record smashing spree today as the powerful Sooners ran away with the Big Seven Conference swimming meet.

During the two-day session four national collegiate records and 10 Big Seven marks were shattered.

Iowa State's Mike LaMair zipped through the 100-yard breast stroke finals in 1:01 to shave one tenth of a second off the national college mark he set in the preliminaries this morning.

And the Cyclones, Jim McKevitt —the meet's only triple winner— did the 120-yard individual medley in 1:11.9, also a tenth of a second faster than his national record time in the preliminaries.

Oklahoma finished far ahead of the field in team points with 154, compared with 119 for Iawo State. Kansas had 26, Nebraska 23 and Colorado 20.

National collegiate standards were set in the first half of the meet yesterday by Oklahoma's two fine speedsters, Graham Johnston and Lyn Meiring.

Johnston's time of 18 minutes, 39.9 seconds in the 1,500-meter free style bettering the 20:41.8 mark set by Bryon Canning of Washington State in 1950.

Meiring fixed a new national college mark of 2:09.4 in the 200-yard back stroke, shaving four tenths of a second off the previous record he set in the preliminaries yesterday morning.

Wins $150,000 Louisiana Derby

NEW ORLEANS, March 13 (AP) —Joe W. Brown's entry of Gigantic and Bobby Brocato ran 1-2 today in the 29th running of the $150,000 Louisiana Derby, closing feature of the Fair Grounds, 81st season.

Gigantic won the mile and one-eighth feature in 1:53 1/5 over a track classified as fast. The son of Halledon-Dorothy B Jr. beat stable mate Bobby Brocato to the wire by one length.

Little League Examinations This Saturday

Physical examinaions are to be given all boys who have registered for the Little League. Examinations will be held at the National Guard Armory, Ninth and Ohio, starting at 9 a.m. Each boy must take with him his birth certificate.

All boys who have not registered, but who are interested in playing may do so by contaeting Bob Wall, player agent, at Sage's Shoe Department. This can be done anytime between Monday and Saturday morning.

A number of the boys who played last year have failed to register and they must do so to keep in Little League. Registration is for all boys regardless if they played in any previous year.

Rookies May Face Jinx Others Have

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Willie rookie award winners Harvey Kuenn of Detroit and Junior Gilliam of Brooklyn fall victim of the same sophomore jinx that trapped freshmen stars of other years?

Will 20-game winner Harvey Haddix of St. Louis and pitchers Bob Buhl, Ruben Gomez, Fred Baczewski, Johnny Podres, Don Larsen, Dave Hoskins, Marion Fricano and Bob Turley suffer the same second year fate that befell Joe Black and Harry Byrd last year?

Will Jimmy Greengrass, Tom Umphlett, Bill Renna, Don Bollweg, Ray Jablonski, Rip Repulski and Billy Bruton suffer the same sort of decline experienced by such recent rookie-of-the-year winners as Walter Dropo, Roy Sivers, Willie Mays and Gil McDougald?

For some unaccountable reason, rookie award winners in recent years have flopped on their faces in their second seasons. Black, who won 15 games and saved at least 15 others for Brooklyn in 1952, won only six and fared miserably in relief the next year.

Byrd, a 15-game winner for the Athletics the same year, lost 20 the next. The Giants' Willie Mays and the Yankees' Gil McDougald, who captured rookie honors in 1951, dropped 38 and 33 points, respectively, off their batting averages in 1952. So did the average of Sievers, Walt Dropo and Sam Jethroe, previous award winners.

These dire forebodings don't appear to faze the 1953 rookie hotshots. To a man, they expressed no concern over the feared sophomore jinx.

Haddix, the little Cardinals lefthander, said he still is not sure whether he is a sophomore or not this year.

"Until the closing days of last season," he said, "I considered myself a rookie. But in voting Junior Gilliam the top rookie last year, the writers explained that I was a sophomore since I had pitched 42 innings the year before. So, I won 20 games in my 'sophomore' year, which really was my first full season in the majors. But, sophomore or not, I feel positive I'll have another big year in 1954."

Not all rookies have been thwarted by the sophomore jinx, however. Many first year players not only hurdled the second year successfully but even improved their record over the first year. Christy Mathewson, for instance, lost each of his three starts with the Gianst in 1900 but became a 20-game winner in 1901. Babe Ruth, the pitcher, followed a sensational 18-6 1915 season for the Red Sox with an even better 23-12 year in '16.

Ty Cobb batted only .240 in 1905, his first year with the Tigers, but he hit .320 the next year. Rogers Hornsby jumped from .246 in his first season with the Cardinals in 1915 to .313 the next year. Tris Speaker skyrocketed from .220 to .309, Max Carey from .258 to .302, Eddie Collins from .273 to .345; Goose Goslin from .250 to .324, Pie Traynor from .281 to .338, and Nap LaJoie from .328 to .363.

Peter Reiser, Paul Waner and Eddie Roush won batting titles in their second season. Reiser jumped from .293 in 1940 to .343 in 1941. Waner rose from .336 to a league leading .380 in 1927. Roush zoomed from .267 in 1916 to a top .344 mark the next year. Jim Bagby won 25 games in his second year after winning 16 for Cleveland in his rookie season. Cy Young rose from nine to 27 victories in his sophomore season. Walter Johnson went from five to 14. Red Faber from 10 to 24. Dizzy Dean from 18 to 20. Bill Lee from 13 to 20. Eddie Plank from 17 to 20. Dick Rudolph from 14 to 27 and Flint Rhem from eight to 20. Carl Hubbell went from 10 victories to 18 and Carl Mays from four to 17.

Suggs Leads in Women's Titleholder's Golf

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 13 (AP)—Little Louise Suggs sagged into a momentary tie with Patty Berg today, but pulled away on the last eight holes to take a three stroke lead in the Women's Titleholders Golf Tournament.

Miss Berg, six strokes off the pace and in third place at the start of the third round, pulled into a tie with he top money winner of 1953 after 46 holes, with he help of an eagle on No. 8.

Then with Babe Zaharias blowing to a five over par 41 on the front side, the little Atlanta slugger and the chunky St. Andrews, Ill., veteran settled down to a private tourament of their own.

Patty was two under men's par with a 34 going out, and came in with 39 for a 73 total. Miss Suggs' three-round total was 220, Patty's 223.

The Babe, playing out of Tampa, soared to an 80 today—10 strokes higher than the women's competitive course record she set yesterday—and dropped from second to fourth with 226.

Sports Scraps

(By D. Kelly Scruton)

SEDALIA'S Babe Ruth League is well underway for organization, but as yet it seems not to be catching on to those young ball players from the age of 12 through 16 in accordance with the registration cards being returned. This program is strictly for these young ball players and much work is going into the project for these boys to fail to participate.

Registration cards were obtainable at the three high schools, Smith-Cotton, Sacred Heart and Hubbard, as well as at the Sedalia Democrat. If returns at the high school are no better than those returned to the newspaper it appears as if the League will be "overflowing" to the tune of hardly two teams.

It may be possible the parents do not understand the registration cards. These cards are merely to get the boys registered and to assure the organization, the sponsors, supervisors and such the parents will not hold this group responsible for any accident which might occur at play. The same type of registration is held for the Little League.

The registration assures the organization the parents are willing for the boy to play baseball.

Something else of importance, which the parents should be glad to know, each boy must undergo a physical examination before being permitted to play or even being assigned to a team. This examination is the sole responsibility of the Babe Ruth League, and the findings of the doctors as to each boy are given the parents.

Should your boy have some defect which the doctors believe might result in injury in play, the parents should cooperate with the League officials and be glad to learn of this defect and not complain their boy is being kept from playing because of this.

These examinations are for the safety of the boy, not becaus anyone wants to keep him from playing baseball.

Like the Little League, it is a great program and should be accepted as such.

—O—

IT was with interest, I learned the past week that Smith-Cotton High School does not support a golf team and a tennis team. As I delved into it I also learned that the school has no budget for such sport activity, which I think is a shame. Maybe I should say the School Board didn't make any appropriation for it, then on the other hand maybe nobody asked for a budget for the two activities.

We all know football is the big sport of the school and deserves plenty of support for several reasons: one good one at present is that football carries a goodly portion of its own financial way, and will increase as Smith-Cotton gets better teams and fills the new stadium at each game.

Basketball is another sport, but hardly carries its own way financially far be it. However there is some revenue at the games through activity tickets and a few paying customers at the gate.

Golf, tennis and track will never be the paying sports as football and cannot expect to do so, but they are just as important to some of the students as football or basketball is to others.

With the recreational area at Liberty Park being improved and new tennis courts in the making, some attention should be given those students who would or might take up the sport if the school will carry it. Then the golf players should be given a little backing as there are several youngsters in school who I know might go out for the school team if the school wanted it.

If we are to have activity on the tennis court, some interest must be kept up in the schools, if we expect to get interest in the public golf course, we must stir up interest in the younger players. These players are the future professionals, and who knows Sedalia might produce a real champion out of our own crop of children.

—O—

IT is interesting to note the Central Missouri Conference has selected Sedalia for the spring track meet this year — the date, May 4. Incidentally included in this meet will be the tournament of golf to be played on the Sedalia Country Club golf course.

As I understand it the program calls for the golf meet being played in the afternoon at the Country Club while the preliminaries of the track meet will be held at the Jennie Jaynes stadium. That night the finals will be held under the lights.

Coaches of the CEMO praised Sedalia's recreational area and unanimously accepted the Smith-Cotton invitation to hold it in Sedalia this year.

It is the first conference track meet to be held in Sedalia in many years — resumption of such activity due to the new stadium and recreational area.

Springfield Bears Win Third Place In NAIA Tourney

KANSAS CITY, March 13 (AP) — The Springfield (Mo) State Bears, edged out of their bid for a third straight bid for a title in the semi-finals tonight turned on Arkansas Tech of Russelville 75-61 for third place in the National intercollegiate (NAIA) basketball tournament.

The Leathernecks of Western Illinois, Macomb, and the St. Benedict's Ravens of Atchison, Kan., met for the championship before a sellout crowd of about 10,500.

Springfield — officially Southwest Missouri State—had a comparatively easy task in beating the Arkansas team as forward Art Helms came up with 28 points to lead both teams in scoring.

Springfield went out in front 24-17 at the first quarter, led 43-22 at the half and won as it pleased. The Missourians had won 13 tournament games in a row before being ousted by Western Illinois 78-75 in the semi-finals last night.

E. C. O'Neal, Arkansas Tech's great little forward from County Line, Ark., paced the losers with 15 points. O'Neal scored a total of 109 points for his five games in the tourney.

Springfield had a decided advantage in its floor shots, scoring on 28 of 79 shots for a .543 per cent. Arkansas Tech made 25 of 93 for .264 per cent.

Sparta Over Morehouse To Win Class B Title

COLUMBIA, Mo., March 13—(AP)—Don Gideon's jump shot with 30 seconds gone in a sudden death overtime gave the Sparta Trojans a 58-56 victory over Morehouse and the state Class B high school basketball championship tonight.

Rice Owls Win Consolation Title Over Colorado

STILLWATER, Okla., March 13 (AP)—The Rice Owls snapped to life after a slow first quarter to run over Colorado 78-55 tonight to win the consolation title in the western regional NCAA basketball tournament before a sellout crowd of 8,200.

The Oklahoma Aggies, representatives of the Missouri Valley Conference, and the at-large entrant, Bradley, were meeting in the second game of the doubleheader for the regional NCAA crown.

Colorado jumped into the lead but Rice caught up early in the first period and made eight points in two minutes to hold a 12-6 edge halfway through. With Tom Harrold hitting five points and Rice again cooling off, Colorado once more took the lead and at the end of the first period the score was 16-14 in what looked like the start of a close game.

The teams stayed neck and neck until the middle of the second period when another eight-point flurry in three minutes gave the Owls a 30-32 edge and they left at the half leading 36-34.

At the end of three quarters Rice ran its margin to 62-44.

Troy Takes 3rd Place In Class B Tourney

COLUMBIA, Ma., March 13 (AP)—Troy overcame a 15-point halftime deficit to take third place in the state Class B high school basketball tournament with a 54-47 victory over Alton tonight.

Sparta and Morehouse were to play for the championship.

Alton was in front 16-8 after the first quarter and 25-10 at halftime. Then Aroy started hitting and finished the third period trailing only 31-35. In less than a minute of the last quarter Troy went ahead to stay.

NFL Winning Fight to Get College Stars

NEW YORK, March 13 (AP)—The National Football League is conducting such an effective "stay-at-home" campaign this year that the threatened war with Canadian teams over American players has become a mere skirmish.

A new, aggressive policy undertaken by the NFL, fresh from a favorable federal court decision in its anti-trust case, has paid huge dividends.

Its aim is to convince the cream of American college gridders of the advantage of playing on an NFL club.

A year ago the National League members, fighting a defensive action against Canadian pro football's ambitious "importation" policy, had signed only eight of their 1953 draft choices. This year they already have 55 signatures from rookies.

In March 1953 Canadian teams had lured three No. 1 draft choices away from the NFL-Oklahoma's Heisman Trophy winner Billy Vessels from Baltimore, Texas end Tom Stolhandske from San Francisco and Alabama halfback Bobby Marlow from the New York Giants.

A year later NFL teams already have come to terms with these first choice draftees—Philadelphia (Notre Dame fullback Neil Worden), Washington (Kentucky back and end Steve Meilinger), Pittsburgh (Notre Dame's Heisman winner Johnny Lattner), New York (College of Pacific end Ken Buck), Baltimore (Baylor quarterback Cotton Davidson) and Green Bay (Notre Dame tackle Art Hunter). The Canadians haven't been able to win a single first choice draftee as yet.

Thumbs Down On Plan to Televise Exhibition Games

ST. LOUIS, March 13 (AP)—The 16 major league club owners have turned thumbs down on a plan to telecast spring exhibition baseball games to major league cities.

Their decision, reached in meetings at Miami yesterday, was so unexpected that stations in at least two major league cities—Chicago and Milwaukee—had telecast portions of today's game between Chicago's White Sox and the Philadelphia Phillies before the ban was brought to their notice.

All of the major league cities were affected by the ban, but stations in at least three—New York, Cleveland and Philadelphia — had not planned to carry the five-game telecast schedule set up by the American Broadcasting Co.

Most of the stations, including KSD-TV in St. Louis and WXYZ-TV in Detroit, were advised of the cancellation last night. Spokesman for both stations said they were advised of the club owners' unanimous ruling in telephone conversations with ABC officials in New York.

In Chicago, however, WBKB-TV had telecast two innings of the game before receiving a cancellation. Milwaukee's WOKY-TV, had telecast three innings of the game before the blackout was put into effect.

K-State Ends Spring Football Practice

MANHATTAN, Kan., March 13 (AP)—The Kansas State Wildcats finished their spring football practice season today with a lively intra-squad game in which the Purples beat the Whites 32-7.

Coach Bill Meek noted that in 1952 and 1953 February offered better weather than March and April, so he started practice this year on Feb. 8 and is through before some other Big Seven schools are even started.

Today's game was played in a strong wind, snow flurries and 30-degree temperatures, but Meek said he considered the early start a good idea because weather interruptions have been few.

Eldon Zeller made tow touchdowns, Bill Dittmer, Kenny Long and Doug Roether each one for the Purples. Bernie Dudley scored the Whites' touchdown.

Regains Championship In International Snipe Regatta

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP — Ted Wells of Wichita, Kan., beat out a flock of hometown sailors to regain his championship in the International Midwinter Snipe Regatta yesterday.

This year the finish was Wells, Whitney and Seavy.

Softball Assn. Postpones Meeting Until Friday Night

The Sedalia Industrial Softball and Athletic Association meeting which was scheduled for Thursday night has been postponed to Friday night, March 19. It was necessary to change the meeting date due to the caucus meeting which will be held at Jefferson School that night.

All team managers and representatives are urged to be present at this meeting as matters of importance is to be brought up for discussion.

There is every indication the Association will be able to open with a sixteen team schedule.

Valdes Hoping For A Shot At Marciano

NEW YORK (AP) — His prestige dimmed by a lacklustre victory over James J. Parker, big Nino Valdes of Cuba today planned a European invasion to bolster his chances for a September title shot at heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano.

In fact his prestige was dimmed so much that Chairman Bob Christenberry of the New York State Athletic Commission said Valdes' check for $5,000 was being returned. The Cuban posted the $5,000 about three weeks ago as a challenge for Marciano's title.

"Off last night's fight we can't consider him a worthy challenger," said Christenberry, but added, "Things can change by the time Marciano meets Ezzard Charles in June."

The 29-year-old Cuban champion and the world's No. 2 heavyweight contender will first fight Belgian Karel Sys in Antwerp in April, according to Manager Bobby Gleason.

Valdes scored his seventh straight victory by outpointing the Canadian-born, Paterson, N. J., Parker at Madison Square Garden last night. The decision was unanimous but Nino failed to impress the crowd of 4,173 and televiewers across the nation.

The officials voted for Nino, 7-3, 6-3-1, and 7-2-1. The Associated Press had Valdes in front, 7-3.

"I hurt my right hand in the fourth round," said Valdes, "otherwise I knock him out in the sixth or seventh round."

OCU's Short Was Best Man Wichita Went Up Against

WICHITA, Kas., March 13 (AP)—The Wichita University Wheatshockers—who wound up a 27-4 basketball season by losing in the first NIT round in New York City —say Arnold Short of Oklahoma City University is the best man they went up against this season.

And they picked another high-scoring player of their own—Cleo Littleton, three-time All-Missouri Valley forward—as their most valuable player.

Short's 26 votes paced the all-opponent team selection today. It also included:

First team — Dick Boushka, St. Louis (24); Dick Nunneley, Tulsa (23); Bob Mattick, Oklahoma A. & M. (18); Cary Shivers, Houston (14).

Second team — Jerry Koch, St. Louis (13); Al Bianchi, Bowling Green (12); Guy Sparrow, Detroit (11); Bob Carney, Bradley (8); Mal Duffy, St. Bonaventure (7).

The Shockers unanimously tagged Oklahoma A. & M. as "best team faced" in a campaign in which A. & M. nosed out Wichita to repeat as Missouri Valley Conference champion.

They awarded top sportsmanship honors to Portland (Ore) University, with OCU, Tulsa, Bradley and A. & M. pressing Portland.

Miceli in 10-Rounder With John Lombardo

CINCINNATI (AP)—Joe Miceli, the New York welterweight who has knocked out all three of his 1954 opponents in five rounds or less, tonight will battle John Lombardo of Mount Carmel, Pa., in a scheduled 10-rounder.

The 25-year-old Miceli is a slight favorite in the fight, to be televised nationally over the ABC network starting at 8 p.m. CST).

The New Yorker KO'd Bud Smith three weeks ago in the same mus hall here. He has a record of 41 wins, 16 losses and 4 draws. His dangerous left hook has piled up 22 knockouts, while he's been stopped three times.

Lombardo, 24, has lost 10 of his 41 professional matches. Lombardo said he is banking on the combination of his solid right with a continuous rushing attack.

AAU Tourney Opens Monday With 26 Teams

DENVER, March 13 (AP)—Some of the marathon features are missing but the quality looks higher in the 47th annual National Amateur Athletic Union opening Monday at Denver's auditorium, site of the meet 19 of the last 20 years.

The AAU has trimmed the field to 26 teams—compared with as many as 54 in previous years — and has shortened the tourney one day. The six-day meet will be climaxed with the championship finals next Saturday night.

Long dominated by the Phillips 66ers of Bartlesville, Okla., the tourney was won the last two years b ythe Peoria, Ill., Caterpillars.

Those two teams are the pre-tourney favorites but only a shade back are the Denver Central Bankers and the Akron, Ohio, Goodyear Wingfoots. Peoria and Phillips tied (10-4) for the championship of the National Industrial Basketball League, the AAU's top circuit. Denver and Akron (9-5) were only a game back deadlocked for third and fourth place honors.

Denver, playing on its home court, will be especially dangerous for the favorites. The Bankers have won all 13 home games this season. The Phillips and Peoria teams divided their four-game series in the regular campaign.

Phillips is the only one of the top NIBL teams to beef up for the tournament. They added Arnold Short, Oklahoma City University's third highest major college scorer in the nation. Short has a better than 29 point per game average.

Outside the "big four" are several other title threats. Top among these are the Phib Pacs (Navy Amphibs) from San Diego, Calif., Seattle Buchans, San Francisco Young Men's Institute, Milwaukee Allen Bradley, Los Angeles Kirby Shoes and San Diego Grihalva Motors.

Seattle Buchans with a good regular season record have picked up some top collegiate talent from the Pacific Northwest including Ed Hallberg and Ken Wegner of Oregon, Dwight Morrison of Idaho and Don Tripp of Washington.

Grihalva has Jack Stone, former Kansas State star, Ken Leslie, former all-NIBL player with Oakland, Calif., and Glendon Anderson, former AAU all-tournament team choice.

San Francisco's Y. M. I. entry included Rip Gish and Jim Walsh, former Stanford standouts; Mike O'Neill, another former all-NIBL player with Oakland; Jim Loscutoff, 6-8, 250 pound ex-University of Oregon great.

Los Angeles' Kirbys feature Denny Robert, 6-9, veteran, and Ray Luschinger, 6-6 standout on Los Alamitos Naval Air Station, runnerup last year.

Iba Says Most Serious Threat to Basketball Is Coaches, New Rules

STILLWATER, Okla. March 13 (AP)—Hank Iba, coach of the fifth-ranked Oklahoma Aggies, said today the most serious threat to basketball is "crazy coaches wanting new rules for publicity's sake."

Iba, whose team plays Bradley tonight in the finals of the NCAA regional tournament, made his remarks at a luncheon of coaches and sports writers.

"The game of basketball is growing in popularity," he said. "We have a game now that is good for the players, the schools and has public appeal." He cautioned rulesmakers to go slow before making changes that might hurt the game."

Iba agreed with Kansas Coach Phog Allen, who criticized holding the current tournament on the home court of a competing team, that a neutral site would be fairer for everybody.

But he said the site couldn't be decided at the last minute, and nobody knows very far ahead of time who will be in the playoffs.

City Bowling Tournament Starts Monday

The 5th annual City Bowling Association tournament for men opens the team division event Monday night. All twelve Monday night teams have entered, led by the defending champions, Dugan's Paint and Wallpaper. Dugan's 3041 score last year earned them the top honors and awarded them individual as well as a team trophy. Other strong contenders rolling on Monday nights are the Anderson Appliance team, Johns Auto Supply squad, the Connor-Wagoner Inc. quintet, and the Kegelers representing Griesedieck and Miller High Life. Since this is a handicap tournament all teams have a fairly even chance to win. The team events will continue through Thursday and Friday nights.

Individual events are scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, March 20 and 21. Eddie Boysel and George Arquitt fired a 1265 total last year to win the doubles crown; Ben Bennette scored a 700 to win the singles; while Jim Ryan's 1700 was tops in the scratch all-events (nine games) department. All four will be back this year to defend their laurels. An extra event has been added this year; that is an all-events crown compiled on a handicap basis. This was added to encourage low average bowlers to enter the all-events race. All matches are open to the public.

Sam Hindsman Named NIAA Coach Of Year

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Sam Hindsman, basketball coach of Arkansas Polytechnic was named the National Intercollegiate Athletic Association's coach of the year at an awards luncheon yesterday.

Hindsman was selected for the honor after piloting his team to a successful season despite an auto accident which in January claimed the life of one player and seriously injured three others. The team led the nation's NAIA representatives in scoring for the season with an average of 96.4 points a game.

In his six seasons at the Russellville college, Hindsman's teams have won 148 games and lost only 14.

S-C Music Students Make Good Showing In Marshall Contest

By Norman Griswold

The annual Marshall High School Music Festival contest was held in Marshall the past Friday with a large number of Smith-Cotton High School music students participating.

Twenty-three SCHS musicians returned to Sedalia from the contest with "I" rating. Those who received "I" rating include: Marilyn Kelley, piano; Dick Shoemaker, voice and piano; Dale Lewis, violin; Gene Watts, trombone; Shirley Kirkpatrick, violin and voice; Marcia Rissler, piano; Ann Marquess, piano; Cay Carrell, piano; Judy Hammond, voice; Barbara Black, voice; Elvera Kroncke, voice; Judy Case, voice, Chester O'Bannon, voice; Donald Hofheins, voice; Jim Dunham, voice; flute trio, composed of Willis Rosenthal, Sue Heckart, and Bonnie Lazenby, Kenneth Buhlig, trumpet; Carlyle Hume, trumpet; Charles Roberts, trumpet; and Willis Rosenthal, flute. Other members of Smith-Cotton's music department who presented solos or participated in groups were: Bob Walch, Nancy Vaughan, Janet Ragar, Valgene Hayworth, Gene Buchanan, Larry Owen, Joy Cunningham, Ada Durill, Bernice Bacon, Nan Ferguson, Sandra Gates, Elaine Bohon, Beverly Carl, Dorothy Dey, Jim Satterwhite, Karen Crosslin, Barbara Arnold, Pat Korando, Joyce Witt, Mary Peters, Carolyn Heck, Dean Hinken, Barbara Leiter, and Norman Griswold.

The group left Sedalia by bus and automobile at 7 a. m. Friday for the all-day affair and returned to the city at 4:30 p. m.

Numerous other central Missouri high school music students participated in the contest. Presentations which were judged besides solos were bands, orchestras, and choral groups.

George Wilson and Rodney Polson, of the music department at the University of Missouri, and Frank Lidral, music instructor at the Central Missouri State College, were in attendance at the contest and served as judges.

Many of the Smith-Cotton students with the higher ratings will be going to the annual state contest which will be held in Columbia.

Smith-Cotton students who acted as accompanists were Ann Marquess, Judy Case, Marilyn Kelley, and Willis Ann Rosenthal.

The group was accompanied to Marshall by Mrs. Geraldine Schrader, Smith-Cotton High School music instructor, and Mrs. Gib Owen.

Sacred Heart Proud of Good Ratings in Marshall Festival

By Barbara Lamy

Sacred Heart music groups and soloists who participated in the Marshall Music Festival in Marshall Friday were quite proud of their good ratings. The glee club was given a "one" for its performance of the following numbers: "Joshua Fit the Battle of Jericho" by George Strickling; "On the Trail" by Fred Grofe; and "Torrents in the Summer" by Edward Elger. Members of the single quartet— Beverly Couhig, Alphonsine Miles, Betty Hula and Josephine White—rated a "two" for the following songs: "My Lover Is A Fisherman" from Tales of Hoffman and "Lovely Night" by Offenbach. The double quartet, harmonizing on "Swing Low Sweet Chariot" by Robertson, received a "three plus" rating. Members composing the double quartet are: Eulalia Anton; Bill Couhig; Gerald Horst; Dorothy Pfeiffer; Bob Rialti; Carolyn Steffen; Ralph Viccars; and Martha Weimholt.

For her excellent solos of "O Rest In the Lord" by Mendelssohn and "Let My Song Fill Your Heart" by Charles, Alphonsine Miles received a "one". Solists given "two" ratings were the following: Eulia Anton, Bob Rialti, Janet Riley, and David Wasson.

Kathy Copas With Talent Show Here Wednesday Night

Kathy Copas, the pretty blonde daughter of Cowboy Copas, of Grand Ol' Opry fame, will add glamour to the evening entertainment when a lineup of top talent from Nashville appears on the stage of the Liberty Theatre Wednesday night.

Kathy's first personal appearance on the road was Feb. 10, 1952 when she was featured with Cowboy Capos in Kansas City and received an enthusiastic response from her listeners.

The Kansas City Times carried the following story the next day:

"Kathy Copas is playing hooky this week, and her father says it's all right. The father is Lloyd (Cowboy) Copas, a tall singer on the Grand Ole Opry. Copas, Kathy and other hillbilly entertainers presented three shows yesterday to capacity crowds.

"Kathy is 16, demure-looking and the possessor of an engaging Southern accent. Kathy joined her daddy for some duets, including "You'll Never See Me Cry," "Copy Cat," and then she sang as an encore a solo entitled, "Anytime." The afternoon show was the first appearance for Kathy, who has been on radio and television in Nashville about a year. She is a junior at Litton High School there and Copas said her grades average 98. "She can make up that school work in no time," he said.

"Kathy has recorded on King label with her father and their latest release, a duet called "Copy Cat," is a current best seller and because of repeated requests by audiences everywhere Cowboy Copas decided to include Kathy on his tours when possible.

Four Sedalians Are Enlisted In Marine Corps

The enlistees are: Peter W. Hodges, son of Mrs. Mary A. Hodges, 614 Wilkerson; James S. Caton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Caton, route 2, Sedalia; Earnest V. Buso, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Buso, 409 East Harvey; Elbert "A. J." Taylor, who resided with his brother, T-Sgt. Lelmon E. Taylor, USAF, of 618 West Seventh.

Hodges, graduated from Sacred Heart High School in 1952 and later attended college for one year. He was then employed by the MoPac Shops.

Caton attended school at Smithton. Prior to enlisting, he was employed by Poundstone Skelly Service Station.

Buso attended Smith - Cotton. Prior to enlisting, he was employed by the Pepsi-Cola Bottling Co. Buso's father is in the Army and is presently stationed at Ft. Knox, Ky.

Taylor had previously served nearly three years in the Army.

They will receive recruit training at San Diego, Calif. Upon completion of recruit training, they will be given a ten - day leave before being assigned to a Marine Corps school, post or station.

At Anniversary Of Parkhursts

By Mary E. Tevebaugh

HOUSTONIA — Dr. and Mrs. C. L. Parkhurst Sunday attended the 50th wedding anniversary of Mrs. Parkhurst's cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Orr near Shackleford. The Parkhursts visited with a number of relatives they had not seen for a number of years.

Mr. and Mrs. Shelton Rissler attended the auto show in Kansas City Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Lowery and daughter Elaine returned Friday from a two and a half months trip to California. They stayed at San Jose.

Weekend guests in the Amon Rhinehart home were Mr. and Mrs. John Ertel, St. Louis; Mr. and Mrs. Russell Rhinehart and daughter Debby, Kansas City.

Mr. and Mrs. Neitzert, Knob Noster were Sunday guests in the D. F. Rhinehart home.

Mrs. Clyde Lee and baby left for Austin, Tex., where she will join her husband A/B Clyde Lee.

Mrs. Dave Sanders spent several days in Kansas City visiting her sister, Mrs. Lewis Newall.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Gregory and son Robert attended a birthday dinner for a cousin Lewis Davis Sunday in Mission, Kan.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hartman and daughter Linda spent Sunday in Kansas City with Mr. and Mrs. Bill Turner.

The Rev. and Mrs. W. B. Hollinsworth, Humansville, spent several days with Mrs. G. H. Tevebaugh and Miss Mary E. Tevebaugh. On Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Hollingsworth and Miss Tevebaugh attended the Sedalia district WSCS executive meeting at Mrs. Parke Green's near Sedalia.

Patrick Sells Bull

A Brown Swiss breeder L. I. Patrick, Sedalia, has recently sold the bull Le-Hi Symboy 117988 to W. F. & Warren Nolting, Florence, according to a report from Fred S. Idtse, secretary of the Brown Swiss Cattle Breeders' Association, Beloit, Wis.

Nurses Association Holds Tag Days For New Members

Tag days for the tenth district of the Missouri Nurses Association to enroll all registered nurses in the membership of the state group, will be held March 16 through 22. The membership promotion committee is in charge of the campaign.

To become a member of the state association, registered nurses join the district organizations. There are two types of memberships, one for regular members and an associate membership for those who work less than 30 days per year at their profession.

Membership in the state group also gains membership in the American Nurses Association.

Slogan of the campaign is: "Join Mo. S.N.A. today and aid your profession in every way".

Army Barracks Burns, Soldier Is Killed

TRIESTE (AP)—Six U. S. soldiers were burned—one fatally—yesterday in a fire that broke out in a barracks they were cleaning at nearby Banne.

The dead soldier's name is being withheld pending notification of kin. The other five men were not seriously burned, an Army spokesman said.

W. A. Ziegel Severly Injured In Wreck Friday

William A. Ziegel, 73, was severely injured about 6 p.m. Friday when his 1946 International pickup truck overturned on Highway 65 about a mile north of the city limits.

Mr. Ziegel, who resides at the Milner Hotel, was headed south on Highway 65 and started to pass a large trailer-truck, in doing so he apparently lost control of the truck and it went to the east side of the pavement, hit the enbankment and rolled over. Two fence posts were ripped from the ground, the fencing knocked down, and the truck badly wrecked.

He was taken to the Bothwell Hospital in the Ewing ambulance where he was treated by Dr. Carl Siegel. He suffered a laceration of the lower lip, bruises, slight abrasions on both sands, and shock.

Harold Adams, 312½ East Fifth, Sedalia, and Jesse Ballew, Kansas City, reported they were headed north and saw the truck pull out to go around the big trailer. Adams said he pulled off the highway onto the shoulder to let the truck pass in between him and the big truck. He said the car suddenly swerved after passing him and hit the ditch and enbankment.

Sick's Cupboard Finds a Home At First Station

Sedalia's Sick Loan Cupboard has found a home.

The "adopted child" of the Citizens Health Committee, to provide sick room necessities for the ill of this community, will have headquarters at Fire Station No. 2.

Fire Chief John Lueck has accepted the committee's request for the fire station to be the central point for distribution of the equipment which will be made available.

Now the call is for the equipment, with some of the things needed including: bed pans, baby bottles, bed boards, crutches, elastic bandages, electric pads, food warmers, hot water bottles, rubber sheets, tonsil pans, urinals, wheel chairs, and similar needs.

Those who have some of these things which can be contributed to the Cupboard may call Mrs. Cline Cain, Mrs. Jerry Harlan, Mrs. Robert L. Hogan, Mrs. Pete Seigel, Mrs. A. A. Studebaker or Mrs. Abe Silverman.

Alcholics Anonymous Program at 2:30 Today

An Alcholics Anonymous program will be held at 2:30 p. m. Sunday in the Courthouse Assembly Room and will be open to the public. During the one-hour meeting, members of the organization from outside Pettis County will give addresses on problems in the organization's work.

About Town

Mr. and Mrs. I. C. Evans, route 3, have returned from Atlanta and Thomaston, Ga., the latter being Mrs. Evans' hometown. Enroute home they stopped to visit Mr. and Mrs. Tom Biggers, a district storekeeper for the Missouri Pacific, whose son, the Rev. Ray Biggers, stayed at the Evans' home during weekends when he was attending Central College in Fayette and preachings in three churches in the community, the two principal churches being the Dresden Methodist and Pleasant Green.

Mrs. C. O. Goodknight, Sedalia, has been spending the winter months with her children, visiting first her son, Charles Goodknight and family, Joplin, and at present her daughter, Mrs. A. J. Meierotto, Kansas City. Before returning home a little later this spring she will visit her daughter, Mrs. Ralph Gates and family, Clinton.

Here from out-of-town to attend the funeral of Mrs. Charles J. McEniry were: Robert McEniry, son of Topeka, Kan., Miss Mary McEniry, St. Louis; Mrs. John Eusterman and Mrs. Stanley Simmonette, Mankato, Minn., and Miss Betty Reid, Kansas City; Mr. and Mrs. Emmett McGinley, Isabel McGinley, Miss May Halligan and Mrs. Mabel Knutson, Kansas City.

Small Operators Of Trucks Shift Type of Licensing

A survey recently completed reveals that the schedule of truck license fees, which became effective in Missouri on July 29, 1952, has forced many truck owners, especially the smaller operators, to make changes in their licensing practices in order to stay in business.

Some truck owners are registering more of their vehicles at lower gross weights, have reduced the number of vehicles registered, are licensing more "local" and fewer "beyond local" vehicles, are registering some of their vehicles only the latter part of the year, while a few have moved to other states where truck licenses are lower.

These changes are indicated in a survey just completed by the Missouri Bus and Truck Association in order to learn what effect the higher schedule of truck license fees enacted by the legislature in 1951 has had on truck operations after the new rates have been fully effective for more than a year.

U. G. Lewellen, manager of the Missouri Bus and Truck Association, in commenting on the results of the survey, pointed out that revenue from truck licenses during the 1953 calendar year totaled $9,499,999.95, more than double the $4,719,167.20 revenue from this source during the calendar year 1951, the last full year at the previous tax rates. Other fees from buses and trailers brought the 1953 total to $10,662,139.34. Although the 1951 Road Study Committee sought a total of $12,000,000 from commercial vehicles, the Senate reduced the fee schedule on "local" licenses and broadened the definition of "Farm Local" so more vehicles could license at reduced rates.

These figures do not include the additional highway taxes paid by the trucking industry in gasoline taxes or use taxes, he said. On July 29, 1952, the license fees on "local" trucks, which includes certain farm trucks and other traveling within a radius of 25 miles from their base of operation, were increased moderately, but "beyond local" license fees were increased as much as 500 per cent.

Several Hundred At Conservation Meetings Friday

At the conservation program sponsored by the Sedalia Garden Clubs, Friday night at the First Baptist Church, Jack Reed, conservation education advisor of the Missouri Conservation Commission was the speaker. The meeting was attended by between 400 and 500 persons.

The meeting was opened by Mrs. J. W. Boger, president of the Sedalia Garden Club Council. Invocation was by the Rev. T. W. Croxton.

Mrs. A. H. Bratten sang, "Where A Garden Grows," after which the meeting was turned over to Mrs. Robert Phelan, chairman of the Sedalia Garden Clubs' conservation committee. Mrs. Phelan introduced Mr. Reed, who made a short talk on the preservation of resources and wildlife in Missouri. He then screened the film showing the beauty of nature and told the story of how the little bobwhite fought for existence. The film, "Bobwhite Through the Year," began with a farmer burning brush, which destroyed the nest and eggs of the little bobwhite. Then she built another nest by the fence, but the farmer plowed too close. Then next a skunk ate her eggs. But she finally found a safe place and raised her family. Then came the fall and finally the winter, with ice and snow, when the bobwhite and other birds have difficulty in finding food.

Mr. Reed told the group that the burning of brush always destroys wild life cover and also the cutting of brush permits the rains to wash away the land. He urged farmers to keep a little section of their land for birds.

About 240,000,000 cans of low-sodium foods—principally fruits, vegetables, meats and fish—will be canned during 1954 for persons who must watch their diets.

Administrative Assistants Get Briefing on Camp Plans

Twenty-nine administrative assistants from the 35th Division's units all over the state — Hannibal, Chillicothe, St. Joseph, Jefferson City, Springfield, Warsaw, Marshall and Mexico — attended an administrative school at the Armory Thursday to bring them up to date on the new enlistment record forms and the new forms for physical examination.

They were also briefed on some field training plans for this summer's stint at Camp McCoy, Wis., July 17-31. The briefing included information on motor movements, firing range breakdowns and the housing assignments.

Officers from the Kansas part of division headquarters will fly in to Sedalia early Monday morning for a conference on field training. Attending will be Maj. Nobel Drake, of the division headquarters at Topeka, and Maj. Dale Paige, of the division artillery headquarters, also at Topeka.

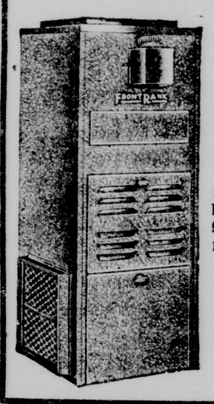

Col. Robert B. Holt, division advisor, Lt. Col. James M. Blue, adjutant general, and Maj. Herman A. Myers, assistant adjutant general, will go to St. Louis Tuesday night for a conference with the commanding general's staff officers of the 102nd Infantry Division of the Reserves on coordinating field training programs at Camp McCoy this summer. The 102nd will be at the camp at the same time as the 35th division.

Maj. Gen. John C. McLaughlin, commanding general, conducted a command in inspection Wednesday night of Battery C. He was accompanied by Maj. James Wescott, battalion commander at Mexico and Maj. Charles Gage, executive officer at Mexico.

What's In a Horse's Name?

MIAMI (AP) — Saragossa is the name of a young colt now at Hialeah. The horse's monicker was selected by Mrs. Dodge Salone, mistress of Brookmeade Stable. The sire, Goya, was named for the famed Spanish painter who studied in the town of Saragossa.

Old Building, Partially Destroyed By Fire In February, 1951, Is Still Used For Gymnasium, Industrial Arts, Music;

SECTION TWO

Mrs. Jewell Stevinson directs advanced band class.

Students Appreciate New Facilities, Bright Rooms

The new Stover School has the distinction of being only the fourth of its kind to be constructed in the United States. It combines modern lines and economy.

Building it was a necessity. A large part of the old schoolhouse was destroyed by a fire in February of 1951, and the citizens voted through a bond issue for $27,000. The state matched this with $25,000, the maximum permissible under law for that size district, and the insurance on the old building made up the rest required. The new building was built for approximately $65,000.

This is the second year of the new school's existence. Although the area was reorganized in August, 1951, the new district carried on the building plans.

Stover School, designed by Glenn Drew, Poplar Bluff, and built by the Clinton Construction Co. of Sikeston, contains eight classroms, office space and a furnace room. It measures 63 by 120 feet. The low cost of construction also includes equipment.

What makes Stover School one of four unusual schools in the country is that tilt-up construction was employed. That is, the walls were made by pouring concrete on forms laid flat on the ground, then later raised into place. This was one chief reason for the low construction cost, approximately two-thirds that for a conventional building.

The school has radiant heating. Instead of radiators or hot air vents, the rooms have hot water pipes running beneath the floors. The pipes are connected in the furnace room with an old steam boiler converted to use with the new system. Instead of producing steam which goes through the pipes instantly, resulting in sudden changes in temperature and much heat waste, the boiler now maintains a constant supply of hot water which is fed as needed through the pipes. This permits a steady temperature level and reduces heat waste. The temperature level is controlled by a network of thermostats, including one outdoors which automatically steps up the heat on especially cold days.

That the system really is efficient can be proved by the fact that it has a fuel bill only one-third that of a building of equal size heated by steam. Its installation cost no more than a steam system. The modern architecture of the schools means that it has more window area than a conventional building, but the efficiency of the heating system makes up for what little extra heat is needed because of this. The ceiling is insulated, but the outside walls are not.

The building was the third of its kind at the time it was put up, but since then another building of the same type has been erected at High Point. The first such building went up at East Prairie, and it was followed by one at Canalou. A fifth one is now under construction at Tina.

Stover School has 125 high school students and about 100 grade school pupils. The reorganized district has 15 other schools within it serving another 250 grade school pupils. The district is under the direction of Superintendent E. E. Porter, and the school in Stover has David Wilson as its principal.

The gym and auditorium in the old school are still intact and are used by Stover School. There are two frame buildings beside it which are used for music classes and industrial arts. The old building is in the center of town, while the new one is atop a hill on the other side of Highway 52, so that a school bus is always busy shuttling pupils back and forth between classes.

The reorganized district, District R-I, has eight buses and its own maintenance garage. In charge of the garage full-time is Paul Fajen, who states that it has been estimated that in the past year of operation, the revision of the transportation system has saved the school about $3,000. Formerly the buses were repaired at separate garages.

Two of the buses are used as "feeder" buses. They travel to the farthermost corners of the district and haul pupils to pick-up spots closer to the school. Five other buses then visit these pick-up spots and take the students to the school. The eighth bus is used between the old and new buildings in Stover. The buses go south to the Lake, north four miles below Florence, west in Benton County and east about four miles. It's a large district, since it was reorganized from 25 old districts.

Playground equipment gradually is being moved in as the area around the new school is cleared. During lunchtime, the students clamber over the equipment, play volleyball or warm up for the coming baseball season.

The music department seems to be popular, too. The school has two bands, one advanced and another for beginners. Together they number 42 members. The glee clubs have 45 members, and an equal number compose the

by Frances Sagaloff at Sage's

Having that well groomed look requires much more time and thought than meets the eye. First of all you must think cleanliness and tidiness. Your diet must be balanced so your skin, eyes and hair will radiate. Your hair should be dressed along the current style but not extremely so, unless it is becoming to you and your way of living. The make-up you wear should bring out your natural coloring and beauty. Your figure must be watched through diet or exercise and many times both. After all these points have been checked your wardrobe comes next. Know what styles you can wear and what colors do most for you. Grooming yourself is like painting a picture. You should start from the beginning and add to and change what is wrong, so that the complete picture will be breath taking not because it is loud or gaudy, but because it harmonizes. Your costume jewelry, your perfume, the very tone of your voice is important. Spring and summer is the most feminine seasons of the year — start now to build a real you and make yourself that well groomed woman, we all dream about.

A PRETTY TRIO

Music Club Has Annual Piano Concerto Program

A large and appreciative audience attended the piano concerto program, commemorating the last 10 year period in the 60th anniversary of the club at the Heard Memorial Club House on Wednesday, March 10, at 2 p. m.

Mrs. E. F. Yancey, president, introduced Mrs. J. W Watts, chairman of the day, who opened the program by telling of the 109th anniversary program of the Steinway Piano Co., which was celebrated by a concert given in Carnegie Hall on Oct. 19. She also gave reminiscing events of the Helen G. Steele Music Club during the past ten years, especially the happenings in the piano department of the club.

Mrs. George Lovercamp, the co-chairman of the day, was then introduced. She gave an appropriate quotation from Charles Landon. "Music is God's best gift to man, the only art of heaven given to Earth, its the only art of Earth that we take to heaven. But music, like all our gifts, is given us in the germ. It is for us to unfold and develop it by instruction and cultivation."

She gave interesting highlights of lives of some of the composers whose works were used on the program. Before each number was played. Mrs. Lovercamp gave an interesting and original poem appropriate to the selection and rhyming the name of the performer in verse. The program as a whole was well organized and the theme, which was "War to Peace" — Winter to Spring", was carried out in a unique way.

The entire program was performed by local members of the club, as follows:

"Taps", H. Eugelmann, Mrs. M. O. Stevens, Mrs. O. F. Gorrell, Mrs. Lovercamp and Mrs. Watts.

"April Showers", Silvers, Mrs. Lovercamp and Mrs. Watts.

"Rainbow Concerto", Kimes, 1. Heroic Reds and Greens, 2. Capricious Pastels, 3. Mystic Blues and Purples, Mrs. Oliver Steed and Mrs. Del Heckart.

The hostesses of the day were: Mrs. D. R. Edwards, Mrs. William Hurt, Mrs. Robert Mullen, Mrs. John Rundelett, Mrs. Joe Ruddick and Mrs. E. V. Walker.

Mrs. John Petty read the names of 80 persons who came into the club during the period of 1933 to 1943, and who are still members.

The following members attended a luncheon before the program at the club house in honor of their coming into the club, and were introduced at the club meeting by Mrs. Petty: Mrs. Jack Howard, Mrs. Estel Thompson, Mrs. E. E. Brummet, Mrs. M. P. Shy, Mrs. H. L. McFarland, Mrs. Elmer Adams, Mrs. Ross Bothwell Mrs. J. E. Hurley, Mrs. W. B. Rissler, Mrs. J. W. Boger, Mrs. J. A. Lamy, Mrs. Ernest Gillespie, Mrs. R. J. Neighborly Neighbors Study Family Relations

"Family Relations and Community Improvement" was the main topic discussed when Neighborly Neighbors Extension Club met March 11 at the home of Mrs. James Renison. Mrs. Harper led the discussion.

Six members answered roll call with, "A Way to Help Children Build Good Characters."

Mrs. Woodrow Grimes, Longwood, and Mrs. Edgar Werneke, Nelson, were welcomed into the club as new members.

During the business meeting, the club voted to have a community family night on April 20.

The next meeting will be April 8 at the home of Mrs. Tom Conway.

Charles Mitzels Quietly Mark 60th Wedding Day

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mitzel quietly celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary, Sunday, March 7, at their home in Pilot Grove.

Mrs. Mitzel is a daughter of the late H. T. and Mary Blanton Grigsby, and was born at Landmark, near Fayette. Mr. Mitzel is the son of the late F. W. and Cora Simmons Mitzel, who lived one mile north of Pilot Grove.

The Rev. R. G. Flummer, pastor of the Methodist Church performed the wedding ceremony, March 7, 1884, at the bride's home. The home of the bride, at the time of her wedding, was on Third Street in Pilot Grove, almost directly across the street from Mr. and Mrs. Mitzel's present home.

After their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Mitzel lived for 17 years on a farm one mile north of Pilot Grove, known now as the Raymond Vollmer farm. During these years, three children were born.

Corinne was born in 1898 and spent her early years in Pilot Grove, and later attended Howard-Payne College in Fayette for two years, majoring in Bible. She continued her work at the University of Missouri. She was united in marriage to Henry Grathwahl of the Billingsville community. She taught a class in Sunday school until her death in 1938.

Their son, Roy, was born Aug. 30, 1900, and married Helen Sly, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ed Sly of Belle Aire. Roy and his wife have three children and are at present living in Chicago, where he is connected with the central office in the United States of the International Harvester Company. Roy spent 22 years in promotion work for this company in South America, and is rated second highest in position with the company.

Mr. and Mrs. Mitzel's second son, Harold lives in Denver, Colo. He has one son, Harold Eugene, who lives in New York City. Harold is a veteran of World War II and served 2½ years overseas.

Mr. and Mrs. Mitzel have four grand-sons, and two great grandchildren, Claudia and Howell Mitzel of New York City. One grandson, Pvt. Bobby Mitze., is stationed at Camp Chaffee, Ark.

Besides trying to operate a farm, Mr. Mitzel taught rural school for 12 years. "At that time, the pay was not very much," Mr. Mitzel said, "But I was happy to get $50 a month, and saved some at that, which helped to educate our children."

After spending 17 years near Pilot Grove, they moved to a farm in the Belle Air community. Mr. and Mrs. Mitzel at once began their work in the church, where Mr. Mitzel was the superintendent of the Sunday school for 32 years.

Mrs. Mitzel was president of the Missionary Society for ten years, and never missed a meeting. "A good record, don't you think so?" asked Mrs. Mitzel. But Mr. and Mrs. Mitzel were only following the path they had followed in their courting days. Mrs. Mitzel recalled that Mr. Mitzel called on her each Sunday night and together they attended church. As an afterthought, she added, "I forgot Charles did take me home from prayer meeting sometimes on Wednesday nights, too". Mrs. Mitzel said Mr. Mitzel 'courted' her for four years before they were married.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mitzel

Eleven years ago they retired from farming and moved to Pilot Grove, where they have continued their work in the Methodist Church.

The Rev. Carl Opp, pastor of the church, paid homage to the couple at the morning services, Sunday, March 7. He spoke of the faith, love, and fidelity these two Christian people — of their religious life, and how it bears influence upon others.

Because of the love and respect people have for Mr. and Mrs. Mitzel, they have received over 145 anniversary cards from Pilot Grove, other towns, and from seven states. They have had calls from their sons, gifts and a basket of beautiful spring flowers.

As Mrs. Mitzel, at 81, continues her housework, with Mr. Mitzel, 85 aiding her, and living their quiet, simple life, their Christian influence will be felt throughout the community.

There are several living who attended the wedding 60 years ago. They are: a sister of Mrs. Mitzel, Mrs. W. E. Roberts, Chicago; a sister-in-law, Mrs. Edward Grisby, Livingston, Mont.; Mr. Mitzel's brother, James Mitzel, Belle Aire, and Mrs. R. L. Evans, Boonville.

Mrs. Scotten Leaves For State DAR Meeting

Mrs. C. E. Scotten left Saturday for Jefferson City to attend the 55th annual Missouri state conference Daughters of the American Revolution, which is being held at the Hotel Governor Saturday through Wednesday. Mrs. Scotten is a member of the state board.

Other members of Osage Chapter will attend on various days of the conference, and a number of them will be at the conference banquet Tuesday evening, at which Dr. Edward Gates will speak on "Giving America Away."

Mrs. Clemmons to Talk To First Baptist WMU

Mrs. C. E. Clemmons, state director of the community missions of the Baptist Women's Missionary Union will be the guest speaker at the First Baptist Church at 2:15 p. m. Thursday. A nursery for small children will be available.

Goodwill Chapel WSCS Has a Dinner Meeting

The WSCS of Goodwill Chapel met Thursday, March 4, at the home of Mrs. John Hansen. Mrs. Martin Schupp was the assisting hostess. A contributive dinner was served to ten members.

The devotional topic was, "Sowing Seeds of Love," with Mrs. Newt Siegel as the leader.

The lesson study was "Latin Americans Along the Mexican Border," with the leader being Mrs. C. E. Leiter. Others taking part were Mrs. John Hansen, Mrs. A. J. Hopkins, Mrs. Ellis Garrett and Mrs. Leigh Allcorn.

The business meeting was presided over by Mrs. C. E. Leiter.

Striped College PTA Program Given By Male Members

Striped College PTA met Friday night, March 5, at 8 p. m. with the men taking charge of the meeting. The following men served as officers: Fred Staley, president; Ted Dabner, secretary and treasurer and Don McQueen, program chairman.

The meeting was opened with singing "Faith of Our Fathers." Mrs. Don McQueen, chairman of the nominating committee, reported that the present officers would again serve for the following year. It was announced that the mothers and teachers tea is to be April 13.

The meeting was then turned over to Mr. McQueen who introduced the following program: songs by boys of the school; clarinet solo by Bonny Schupp; several guitar and harp numbers by Charles Hickam, and A. E. Messenger, magician. Pictures were shown by Martin Schupp. They were taken in Japan by Emmett Fairfax, who is with the armed forces there.

The meeting was then adjourned with refreshments being served. The next meeting will be April 2.

Mrs. Banning Hostess To the Maplewood Club

The Maplewood Better Homes Club met Tuesday, March 9, at the home of Mrs. Walter Banning with Mrs. Luther Landis as assistant hostess.

Mrs. Bob Edmondson introduced Mrs. Alberta Garrett, who urged all to visit and use the books at the Boonslick Library in the Courthouse.

Roll call was answered with current events by 19 members present.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Bob Edmundson with Mrs. J. W. Rissler as assistant hostess.

Western Horsemen Plan Dinner and Drill Today

The Western Horsemen of Sedalia enjoyed a wiener roast Thursday night at the drill grounds, 16th and Center. A very large crowd was in attendance.

The highlight of the refreshments was the serving of delicious old fashioned coffee, made over the bonfire.

A chicken dinner will be served this afternoon at the drill grounds. If the weather is warm, drills will be practiced. If the weather is cool, the dinner will be held at 3:30 at the drill grounds.

If you are one of the girls who think crisp blouses and slim skirts are perfect for the end-of-winter-but-not-yet-spring season, be sure to hunt for something at a notions counter to keep your blouse from slipping up when you reach.

Plain cuts keep longer than chopped meat, so always use chopped meat as soon as possible after purchase.

Pink and Blue Shower For Mrs. H. Weathers

Mrs. Glen Breckenridge and Mrs. Buddy Whittall, Hughesville, entertained with a pink and blue shower Monday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Harvey Weathers and new son, Howard Eugene.

Refreshments were served to the honoree, Mrs. Weathers, Mrs. Jay Weathers, Mrs. Otto Bailey, Houstonia, Mrs. Bill Yancey, La Monte, Mrs. I. L. Knight, Mrs. Robert Knight, Roberta and Carlotta Knight, Miss Jessie Funk, Mrs. Walter Raebe, Mrs. C. S. Arnold, Mrs. Milton Lee, Mrs. E. E. Rhine, Mrs. I. L. Rhine, Mrs. Jerry Conaway and Mrs. Harold Conway.

Those who sent gifts, but were unable to attend, were Mrs. E. T. Bennett, Sedalia, and Mrs. W. P. Nicholson.

Ed Sullivan Finds Tastes All the Same

NEW YORK, March 13 (AP)—Ed Sullivan, between Sunday performances on his Toast of the Town on CBS-TV, makes at least 40 trips around the country each year.

In talking to those who see him on their video screens, his No. 1 discovery has been:

No one part of the country, New York or otherwise, has any monopoly on good taste—"the level of appreciation is identical."

Meanwhile, Sullivan reports he has found a growing concern among TV viewers over the problem of keeping programs clean, of avoiding bad taste.

But he says he doesn't believe federal or other censorship will be needed and that viewers themselves will do a good job of policing TV with irate letters and telegrams to the sponsor, agency, the show and the network "if anything is out of line."

And the sponsor will not long keep a performer who is guilty of bad taste, he says, "just as you wouldn't permit an insolent or obscene clerk in a store."

There's a particularly heavy obligation on TV to keep its shows clean, says Sullivan, "because we come into homes uninvited, while when you go to a movie or a play, you have a pretty good idea in advance what you're going to see."

Sullivan's show completes its fifth year for the present sponsor (Lincoln-Mercury dealers) with the March 28 show and reaches its sixth anniversary on the air June 28.

Pert, pretty Nancy Crompton, whose ballet spins are a famliar sight on the video screen, says if you want to keep busy on TV one talent isn't enough — so she has become a singer as well.

"I studied singing when I was growing up but hadn't been studying the past four years until I found I needed it for TV," she relates. "I'm not good yet, but I have possibilities."

CBS' answer to NBC's early morning show "Today" starts Monday with an equally simple title "The Morning Show."

Where NBC has Dave Garroway as master of ceremonies, CBS will have Walter Cronkite who heretofore has been primarily a newscaster and commentator.

The news chores will be handled by Charles Collingwood and musical features and entertainment will fall principally to Bill and Cora Baird and their marionettes. Like "Today," the morning show will be telecast from 7 to 10 a.m., with the eastern zone seeing only the first two hours and the midwest only the last two.

Writer Finds Actress, Writes 'Lili' for Her

The petite writer, famed for such vigorous outdoor films as "King Solomon's Mines," decided she wanted to do a screenplay about a waif.

"At the time all our great screen stars were strong women such as Bette Davis or Barbara Stanwyck, domineering the men. Yet many of the great silent stars were the waif characters like Mary Pickford and Janet Gaynor."

She got the idea for a screenplay from a Paul Gallico short story and then looked around for her waif.

"I had just about decided on Pier Angeli when I saw some rushes for 'An American in Paris.' Here was a girl with a face like a chipmunk. I started writing for her."

Intra Mural Tournaments Set For Play During This Week

By Barbara Lamy

The classes of Sacred Heart High will match their abilities at competitive sports Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week in the annual Intra-Mural Basketball and Volleyball Tournament.

Any Sacred Heart student, athletic or not, is invited to join this exciting sport rivalry and will be given a chance to get off the bench and show what he can do with the ball.

The schedule for the boy's basketball games is as follows: Monday: 3:15 p. m., the sophomore class versus the junior class; 8 p. m., the senior class versus the freshman class; Wednesday: 3:15 p. m., the finals; and Thursday: 8 p. m., for third place.

The girl's volleyball games are scheduled as follows: Tuesday: 3:15 p. m., the junior class versus the sophomore class; 8 p. m., the senior class versus the freshman class; Thursday: 3:15 p. m., finals; and 7 p. m., for third place.

Admission to the games will be only five cents in the afternoon, ten cents at night or twenty-five cents for a season ticket.

Disney Has Come Long Way to $5 Million Film

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Walt Disney has come a long way from the days when he turned out Mickey Mouse cartoons for a few thousand dollars.

His latest movie, "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea," has a budget of five million dollars. The story is from the old Jules Verne fantasy and stars Kirk Douglas, James Mason, Peter Lorre and Paul Lukas.

Alan Ladd, fresh from his triumph in "Shane," and Shelley Winters co-star in "Saskatchewan," starting today at the Fox Theatre. Filmed in Technicolor in the grandeur of the Canadian Rockies and ideally suited to panoramic screen presentation, "Saskatchewan" is the story of a northwest mountie and the renegade woman he claimed. J. Carrol Naish is featured in the supporting cast.

Missourians Pay Over a Billion In Income Taxes

By tomorrow midnight's tax deadline Missourians will have paid a large part of the $1,039,680,000 it is estimated will be their share of the record-breaking $38 billion the federal government expects to collect in individual income and employment taxes in fiscal 1954, it was reported by Missouri Public Expenditure Survey today.

The Survey estimate was based on Missourians bearing the same proportionate share as last year, the Survey said, when 1,459,606 Missourians filed returns and collections were $1,019,412,000.

Individuals earning less than $5000 a year will pay more than a third of total income taxes, the Survey said, emphasizing the importance of government fiscal affairs to the average man.

Since high taxes are caused by high expenditures, the Survey said the only safe way to reduce this tremendous tax load is to reduce federal expenditures.

Noting that it is hard for taxpayers even to comprehend the huge sum they will have to cough up, the Survey said the total to be collected from Missouri individuals in the fiscal year ending June 30 will exceed total cash receipts from the Missouri farm products marketed in 1953, which was $1,014,899,000.

Reports Net Profit For 1953 Operations

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Public Service Co. reports a net profit of $1,677,182 for operations last year, the second highest figure in the firm's history.

The figures, reported in the firm's annual report yesterday, compared with the record $1,735,732 net profit during the war year of 1943.

John C. Baine, president, said the 1953 profit was $316,305 higher than the 1952 figure. He said this increase in profits was due largely to a decrease in public liability insurance and maintenance costs and an increase in non-operating revenue.

Baine said the firm initiated more service improvements and ride promotion programs last year than during any other recent year in the firm's history.

Headlining an all-new show from the WSM Grand Ole Opry are favorites Cowboy Copas and his daughter, Kathy, who are to appear on the stage of the Liberty Theatre Wednesday night. 'Mister Roberts' Can Be 'Cleaned Up,' Made Acceptable for Movies

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Folks have long wondered how the stage hit "Mister Roberts" can be cleaned up for the movies. Producer Leland Hayward has the answers.

The lusty play was about the tedious life aboard a ship in the backwash of the Pacific war. The officers and sailors spoke a salty language—to be expected in such an environment. Many of the big laughs of the show were ignited by the use of profanity.

But Hayward, who produced the play and will repeat that function in the movie version, says it's no problem.

"We played the show in many parts of the United States with no profanity at all," he remarked. "Boston was one place, New Orleans another. In both those places the laughs were just as big as they were when profanity was used."

Last Western Star Gallops Thataway

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The last cowboy star in the movies has galloped thataway.

Rex Allen, who made 23 horse operas for Republic, has left the studio. He was the last exclusively Western star under contract to a film company, and his departure marks the end of an era. In previous years at least half of the studios had cowboy stars who turned out regular series.

Producers blame the death of the program Western for theaters on the abundance of oaters on TV and the competition of big-budget Westerns.

"There will be an Oscar for the guy who sets the chairs straight on the set and the guy who sails miniature sailboats on the studio pond to make it look like real pirates, but none for the comics who keep studios from going bankrupt," moans Lou.

Reminded that Robert Strauss was nominated for a comedy role in "Stalag 17," Costello replied:

"Strauss is a character actor who can play comedy roles. He is not an out and out comic. There's a difference.

"Jerry Lewis deserved a nomination for 'The Stooge' but Jerry is a comic, not an actor, so he was ignored. I propose that the academy make a special award this year to Martin and Lewis."

That proposal comes as a surprise to Hollywood since Abbott and Costello and Martin and Lewis were considered bitter enemies only a few months ago. The feud stemmed from the fact that Costello once had Dean Martin under personal contract, even shelled out $900 to have Martin's nose bobbed by a plastic surgeon.

Martin later teamed with Lewis to become a comedy sensation. Lou went out to Ciro's when they first opened there.

"I'd forgotten about the contract by then," he recalls, "but after the show Lewis, whom I had never met, came up and was very friendly. Martin walked right past me like he had never seen me. So I sued him for the contract."

The feud lasted until a few months ago, when Lou's illness prevented his going on television Comedy Hour. Martin and Lewis stepped into pinch hit. All was forgiven.

McCarthy Attacks Usually Based on Personal Revenge

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—If you trace the attacks of Senator McCarthy against most of the major targets he has aimed at, you will invariably detect an underlying motive of revenge—a motive reminiscent of totalitarian tactics in Europe before the war.

McCarthy attacked Senators Tydings of Maryland and Benton of Connecticut because one questioned his charge of 205 Communists in the State Department; the other introduced a resolution asking for a probe of McCarthy.

McCarthy now seeks to defeat Sen. Margaret Chase Smith in Maine because she initiated the declaration of conscience which she reflected on him. And of course the running feud with Secretary of the Army Stevens came after Stevens refused admit that Fort Monmouth was riddled with Communists.

But the most brazen recent case of McCarthy vindictiveness was against the former Assistant Secretary of War, John J. McCloy, now head of the Chase Bank, which is not exactly a Communist institution.

McCloy has been out of government for some years after a distinguished career not only in the War Department but as head of the World Bank and as high commissioner to Germany. Nevertheless, out of the clear blue, the senator from Wisconsin suddenly accused McCloy of destroying records of Communists in the U.S. Army.

The charge was so untrue that McCarthy had to retract it publicly. But he still accused McCloy of writing a wartime Army order, which, McCarthy claimed, permitted Communists to be commissioned in the U.S. Army.

Reasons for Revenge

But while the public has read of McCarthy's attack on McCloy, they don't know the motives behind that attack. It dates back to a famous speech made by President Eisenhower at Dartmouth last spring in which the President condemned book-burning. McCarthy bitterly resented that speech—obviously aimed at him.

And since the speech was extemporaneous, McCarthy was determined to find out who had inspired it, even sent an investigator all the way to Hanover, N. H., to see who and what the inspiration was.

Actually, the inspiration was accidental. Here is what happened. McCloy, too, was receiving an honorary degree from Dartmouth, and before the ceremonies, was talking to N. Y. Attorney Joseph Proskauer about the books which had been burned at U.S. Information libraries abroad at the demand of Senator McCarthy.

Catching only a fragment of the conversation, President Eisenhower leaned forward and asked: "What's this, what's this?"

"I was telling about the burning of State Department books abroad," McCloy replied.

"Oh, they're not burning books," Ike interposed.

"I'm afraid they are, Mr. President," McCloy replied. "I have the evidence."

He then went on to tell the President how he, as an American official in Germany, knew firsthand the tremendous achievement of State Department libraries.

"Eighteen million Germans read those books in 1952 alone," McCloy explained. "Probably as many Germans studied the principles of our founding fathers as did Americans, thanks to those books.

"And the value of those books was that they were uncensored. They criticized you and me, and Dean Acheson and anyone else in government. The Germans knew they were uncensored and that was why they streamed into our libraries leaving the Houses of Kultur empty.

"These were books sent to American boys right after the war, books which their parents and friends wanted them to read. There was nothing subversive about these books."

Eisenhower Is Moved

President Eisenhower listened intently. Then obviously moved he delivered impromptu the stirring Dartmouth speech on book-burning. It electrified the nation and was hailed by the American press as Ike's first crack-down on McCarthy.

McCarthy was so furious that next day he pulled wires at the White House to keep the speech from being broadcast over the Voice of America and also persuaded the President to issue a statement that the speech was meant as no reflection on him.

Nevertheless he deeply resented it. And when word came back from his investigator in Dartmouth regarding the happenstance by which McCloy had inspired the speech, McCarthy actually went to the unusual length of investigating everything McCloy did. He sent two investigators to Germany to dig into McCloy's records as high commissioner. There they even probed the records of the car pool to see how many times Mrs. McCloy used her official limousine to buy groceries.

But nothing damaging turned up.

Stymied, McCarthy then launched his accusation against McCloy for allegedly destroying records on Communists inside the War Department. And when this boomeranged as untrue, the persistent and revengeful senator from Wisconsin claimed that McCloy had arranged for commissions to be given to American Communists during the war.

Actually, McCloy had argued inside the War Department that Japanese-Americans, German-Americans, members of the Fascist Silver Shirts and American Communists all should be allowed to fight for their country if they were found to be loyal; and that the test should not be membership in one of these groups or organizations but individual loyalty to the U.S.A. He argued first that it was unfair to other Americans to let these men off from combat duty; second, that if they showed unquestioned loyalty to their country they should have the same chance in the Army as anyone else.

As a result it was finally decided to send Japanese-American troops to the European theatre where they would not be called upon to fight against a Japanese enemy; and to send German-Americans and Communist veterans of the Spanish civil war to the Pacific where they would not fight against Europeans. The decision resulted in some of the finest citations for heroism going to some of these men, including the American-Japanese 442nd "Go-for-Broke" Regiment.

The decision, incidentally was not McCloy's alone, but was concurred in by the general staff and Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson, a distinguished patriot who also served as Secretary of War in the cabinet of Herbert Hoover.

West Will Learn

By Bruce Biossat

The Western powers and Russia went to Berlin to negotiate about Germany and Austria, and in those fields nothing was accomplished. In that sense, the conference was a failure.

But the West never seriously expected action on Germany and Austria. What it really went to Berlin to find out was whether the many surface signs of a change in Soviet attitudes had any basis in fact.

Foreign Minister Molotov gave them a clear answer, and it was no. Whatever alterations have occurred since Stalin's death in the Russian mood and tactic, the fundamental Kremlin strategy is unchanged.

We understand thoroughly now that the Soviet Union, for all its talk, does not intend to do anything to ease world tensions generally or to settle specific problems in Europe. The Kremlin is bent on holding every inch of soil it presently dominates, from Bulgaria northward to East Germany.

The only terms on which it would agree to take the Red Army out of Germany and Austria are those which would insure that those countries would thereafter be political puppets of the Soviet Union with the Red Army standing not far off.

Such an insistence is totally inconsistent with any professions of peaceful purpose. It is consistent only with the obviously unaltered Russian strategy which calls for world domination.

But if we learned this hard lesson at Berlin, the Russians learned something, too. They heard once again that the West, its deep yearning for real peace and order notwithstanding, has not the slightest intention of falling into any Soviet trap. Britain, France and the United States are no less determined than Moscow that it shall be "thus far and no farther."

So what the Berlin meeting did, in essance, was to reinforce the status quo, to make more rigid, if that is possible, the hard lines of demarcation between East and West.

For those who may have hoped for real accomplishment, this outcome is discouraging. But for those, including the Western participants, who saw the meeting as a testing place of attitudes, it was not a total loss. As Secretary of State Dulles said, each side made itself clear. He believes there is now less likelihood of misunderstanding, of stumbling accidentally into war through ignorance.

A strictly secondary aspect of the session was the agreement to meet at Geneva, Switzerland, on April 26 in a Far Eastern conference to be attended by Red China, North Korea and other belligerants of the Korean war.

This was a mere procedural accomplishment, but it did get the West and the Communists past hurdles they were unable to surmount at Panmunjom. Both sides made certain concessions to achieve this result, but affords no assurance that Geneva will succeed where Berlin failed.

So long as there is even the remotest hope that Korea might be unified and peace brought to Indo-China, a Far Eastern conference is in order. And, at the very least, the West will learn whether Communist startegy is an unalterably rigid in Asia as Berlin showed it to be in Europe.

Opinions of Husbands

By Ruth Millett

If you really want your husband to look good to others, study these ways in which one wife builds up her husband and another wife runs her husband down.

Two women's husbands are going through a period of working long hours. But Mrs. "A" with her talk about Jim's conscientiousness and his enthusiasm for his work makes him sound quite a guy. While Mrs. "M" and her talk of Al's never having any time for her and the children and how tired she is of never getting to go anywhere makes her husband sound like a poor bargain.

Two women's husbands have remained close to their families. Mrs. "A" talks with pride of how much her husband's family mean to each other and what good times they have together. Mrs. "B" makes her husband's family seem like a trial and tribulation to her and makes her husband sound like a mama's boy for not breaking his family ties.

For Richer or Poorer

Two women's husbands make about the same income. Mrs. "A" makes the money go as far as she can but doesn't harp on her economies or talk about all the things she wants that they can't afford. The result is that their friends think the "A's" are doing all right financially. But Mrs. "B" is always talking "poor mouth' and advertising her economies and saying wistfully that they need this or that but can't afford it.

Two women's husbands lack the knack of the handyman and both wives have to hire someone to do the odd jobs around their homes. Mrs. "A" says without resentment that Jim's talents just don't lie along that line or that he works hard during the day and she tries to make things easy for him at home. But Mrs. "B" is forever telling her friends that she is married to a man who takes no responsibility for doing anything around the house. So her friends see him as lazy and shiftless.

Whether you know it or not your opinion of your friend's husbands doesn't depend nearly so much on how many faults they have as on how their wives minimize or magnify their faults—or find fault where there really is none.

What kind of picture are you painting of your husband when you talk about him?

Manners Make Friends

Even though your employer doesn't forbid the women in his office to smoke at their desks it isn't a good idea for a woman who is constantly meeting the public to smoke at work.

A chain-smoking woman just doesn't make the best impression in a business office.

'Give Me Some Men, Some Stout-hearted Men...'

Missouri History...

A General From Missouri Led America In World War I

From a Linn county farm to the nation's highest military post, this Missourian rose to save his country in time of peril. Do you know his name?

1. Where was his boyhood home?

A. He was born near Laclede in 1860, son of a section boss on the Hannibal and St. Joseph railroad. At 18 he obtained a certificate to teach in a nearby school for $35 per month, saving his money to pay his way through two summer sessions at the State Normal School at Kirksville.

2. When did he begin his military career?

A. He was ambitious for a college education and when he heard that examinations for West Point were to be given at the old courthouse at Trenton, he applied. The nation gained a future great general when he came out first in the examination, with a one - point lead over his nearest competitor. At West Point the young Missouri cadet attained the highest military honors awarded and graduated with the class of 1886.

3. How did he first win notice?

A. His first job as an army officer was a tour of duty in the Southwest, where he pursued the Indian leader Geronimo. He was a military instructor at the University of Nebraska during 1891-95. He served with the cavalry in the Santiago campaign in Cuba in 1898 and gained the nickname "Black Jack."

Later, he tired of a Washington desk job and asked for transfer to the Phillipines, where he led successful expeditions against the insurgents and Moros, 1900-1903. For his distinguished work in the Moros campaign and as observer in the Russo-Japanese war, President Theodore Roosevelt in 1906 personally promoted him in rank from captain to brigadier general.

4. What work brought his greatest fame?

A. In 1916 he was in charge of United States troops sent to Mexico in pursuit of the bandit leader Villa. His skillful management of the delicate international situation with Mexico brought him fame. In May, 1917, he was selected to command the American Expeditionary forces in Europe. Given the rank of full general, his successful leadership of the American army during 1917-18 was a potent factor in bringing disaster to the Germans. He was U. S. Army chief of staff until his retirement in 1924. He died in 1948.

5. How is he honored in Missouri?

A. There is an 1836 - acre State Park named for him in Linn County, two miles west of Laclede, and the State Park Board also has purchased his boyhood home in Laclede and is planning to restore and furnish it as a memorial. A statue of him is being planned for erection on the capitol grounds at Jefferson City.

6. What is his name?

A. Gen. John J. Pershing.

By the State Historical Society of Missouri at Columbia, Floyd C. Shoemaker, secretary.

KILLS WITH CARE

THE STORY: Two "monsters" in a faked horror film publicity stunt, stabbed Police Chief Otto Drover. The only clue was a phone call which Jim Dunn, a private detective, and members of the Colorado City police force think may have come from Mr. Atwood, a banker. The call was received the morning before the murder. Meanwhile, Mayor Ed Stone has appointed Tony Hughes, a furniture dealer, temporary police chief.

BANKER ATWOOD was finally located in his suite of rooms in a small hotel directly across the avenue from his bank. A small, wizened man, with a hard fish mouth, if he was glad to see Early and Dunn, he hid it well.

Early performed a rather vague introduction mumbling something about the help Mr. Dunn was giving the Colorado City Police Department.

"It's too bad you weren't here," Jim went on. "You have a clear view of the front of the theater. You might have been able to give us some help."

Atwood was not a man to waste words. He saved a few by keeping still now.

"We're under the impression," Dunn struggled on, "that Chief Drover was on his way to see you when he was killed."

"What gave you that impression?"

"The telephone conversation you had with the chief."

"What about it?"

That was a hard question to answer. Jim felt it would not do any good to ask directly for information. Only by pretending some knowledge he did not have could crowd this banker into any admission. Crowding Atwood was not an easy chore, certainly nothing to be undertaken casually.

"It upset Otto Drover," Jim said at last.

"Don't see why," Atwood said. "Drover was upset at the wedding reception. He left to keep an appointment. With you, wasn't it?"

"Went to the wedding myself," Atwood said. "Took my lunch hour to go. Didn't have time for the reception. But Otto could have talked to me at the wedding."

Jim remembered the crowds and doubted that.

"Your bank is in the Holt Block. Drover was killed walking north. He could have been on his way to see you."

"He could have been on his way to a good many other places," Atwood pointed out. His red-veined eyes moved swiftly back and forth between the two visitors, but would not focus for any length of time on either. He finally found a corner of the room which was of great interest.

"Then you don't think Drover was on his way to see you?"

"How could I know that?" Atwood asked cautiously.

"Your phone call to him," Jim said patiently.

"Oh, that." Atwood made a sound which he believed to be a laugh but which sounded more like a hen announcing the launching of an egg.

"Does the term 'four G's' mean anything to you?"

Atwood's negative shake stopped abruptly.

"Dollars mean something to me of course. I'm a banker."

"Mr. Atwood, we're investigating the death of Colorado City's Chief of Police. Otto Drover was a friend of yours. We have come to you for help."

"Haven't any to give," Atwood said.

IT was 10 minutes after 9 the following morning when the hospital and a disapproving Dr. Pardon released Nancy Drover. Jim had waited some time in the lobby before the girl came out of the slowly moving elevator.

She looked much better, but still appeared to be in something of a daze. Jim took her arm, led her outside to a car he had borrowed. He was willing to wait, to let Nancy set any pattern for talking.

"Tell me, Jim, what you've found," Nancy said.

Dunn's eyelids felt as if they were made of a sturdy-quality emery paper. Too much coffee, too many cigarets, too much useless talk during the night.

"That won't take long," Jim said. "We made a few motions, had a big choice of guesses. We got nowhere."

"You take it easy for a while," Jim ordered. He decided this was his morning to be particularly stupid. Take it easy! In the presence of death, as in the case of love, real sincerity brought only stumbling words. It was the unfeeling people who could turn on the tap of nice phrases.

Jim stopped the borrowed car a short distance from the drive into the Drover garage.

Jim was out his side and around the car by the time someone had the door open.

"Nancy! Oh, my dear!"

He had not seen the young woman come out of the Drover house.

• • •

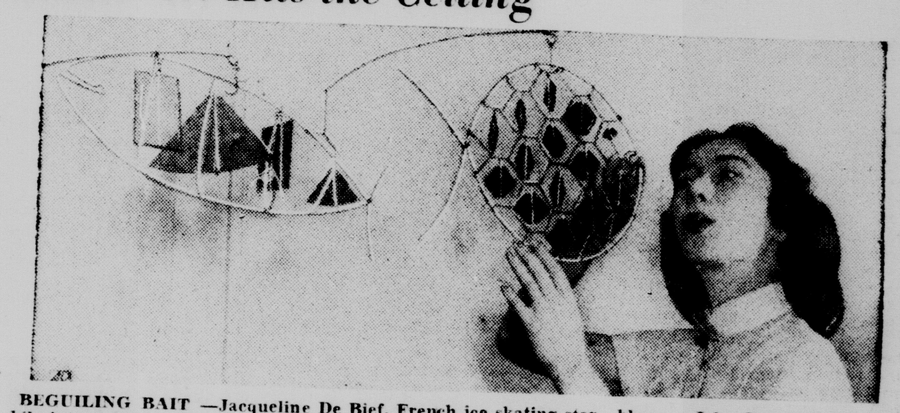

NANCY jerked up her head at the familiar voice. "Joan! Oh, Joan, I didn't want them to bring you back. Oh, Joan—I'm so glad you're here."

"Mark burgled the front door and let me in," Joan Richards said. She put her arm around Nancy's shoulders.

Dunn stood on the sidewalk and watched them walk slowly across the lawn to the Drover door. He knew he was completely forgotten for the moment, knew the arrival of her friend was a grand thing for Nancy. And he had to admit to a feeling of great relief. He had dreaded the next hours. He felt he could not bear to watch Nancy's dry-eyed pain when there was nothing in the world he could do about it.

Mobile Art Hits the Ceiling

BEGUILING BAIT—Jacqueline De Bief, French ice skating star, blows a John Lynch fish, mobile into motion. The second mobile, obviously not a sucker for a pretty face, swims away.

By Joy Miller
AP Newsfeature Writer

The distraught husband rushed into the kitchen.

"What's that thing hanging in the living room?" It tried to bite me when I came in."

"Now, now," said his wife soothingly. "You must have bumped into my mobile. I'm so glad you like it."

"But I didn't say . . ."

"I made it myself for $1.78," she said, modestly smoothing her apron, "and it looks almost like one at the art gallery that's priced at a thousand dollars."

"A thousand dollars?" His voice rose to a squeak.

"They're really the smartest thing in home decoration. And legitimate art, too." She faltered. "I should think you would be proud of me, instead of . . ."

"Oh I am, I am, honest I am, honey."

Just what is this thing that startled the unsuspecting husband?

The mobile is a series of shapes connected by wire arms and related through balance, form and color. It does exactly what its name says it should: move.

The test of a good mobile, however, is not that it moves, but that its movement is more interesting than a heavy wobble. The slightest brush against its airy design should set off infinite chain reactions.

Because it is three-dimensional, unlike any other art form except sculpture, it is often called moving sculpture. It is also related to other forms since the wires resemble the lines in drawings and the pieces often look like abstract figures in paintings.

The mobile as we know it today, was created in the early 1930's by Alexander Calder, American artist and sculptor... He is still constructing mobiles — so well that a Calder mobile costs upwards of $2,000. One of the same size, designed by men with an eye to mass production, can be bought for around $10.

At the recent important international exhibition at Sao Paolo, Brazil, Calder's mobiles were hailed as the most original, personal and "American" statement in modern art. He was given one of two rooms of honor, the other going to Picasso.

Besides home decoration, mobiles are used in business to display merchandise or just to attract attention. As toys, they are both fun and educational. As Christmas decorations, they have received perhaps their widest use.

The urge of both young and old to make their own is one of the most interesting developments. Kits which include materials and parts for several mobiles have hit the market; classes teaching children and adults to make mobiles are jammed at various art museums and public workshops.

John Lynch, who has been making mobiles since 1945 and has sold hundreds to stores and decorators, has an explanation. "In this modern age in which practically everything is done for us," he says, "people still like to do something for themselves."

Lynch even wrote a book, now in its second printing, called "How to Make Mobiles" (Studio-Crowell).

About using the mobile in home decoration he has some definite ideas. It can be hung anywhere there is enough room for it to move freely and not look closed in. For the best effect, it should in. hung at eye level or a little higher, generally to the side or corner of a room.

Mobiles are especially effective hung from the ceiling and in good design relationship to a painting, piece of sculpture or large plant. They can hang with nothing under them or they can hang over furniture such as cabinets, pianos, room dividers.

Lynch says the technique of making a mobile is very simple and used over and over again, whether in a mobile of 5 or 50 pieces. All the ingenuity should be used in the design, not in the mechanical process of putting the mobile together.

Further, Lynch insists, balance is not so important as the beginner might think. A mobile could be very well balanced and still be a clumsy composition. Composition is much more important than balance.

Above all, the mobile should look as much as possible as if it were moving through the air, not just hanging. A piece of paper tied to a string and tacked to the ceiling is not a mobile.

One of the mobile's chief appeals is that inexpensive materials, simple tools, little technical knowledge, but much ingenuity and imagination go into making the enchanting ornament.

About all the tools needed are pliers, wire cutter and scissors. If the pieces are to be painted, paints and a brush are required.

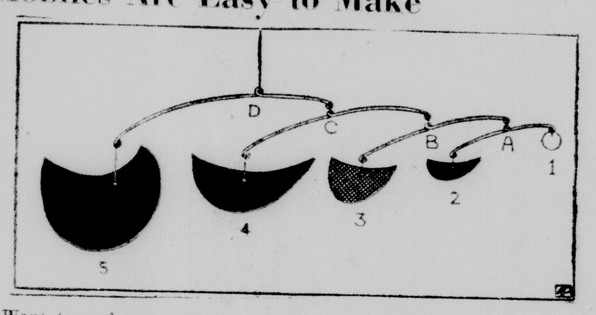

Basic materials, says Lynch, are cardboard, wire (No. 12, 14, 16 and 18 gauge galvanized iron wire is cheapest, easiest to handle) nylon thread and tin sheet metal.

But there is almost no limit to material that can can be used if it is not too heavy and will hold its shape: balsa wood, cork, plastic, glass, wooden beads, metal rings, metallic paper decorations like stars or notary seals, shapes cut from old tin cans.

After the mobile is completed is the time to paint the pieces. Lynch thinks it's good if one color predominates with one or two other for accents. Don't overlook white as a good accent. Shapes can be painted a different color on each side.

When you have finished your mobile, Lynch urges "set it in motion and it will come to life."

Mobiles Are Easy to Make

Want to make a mobile?

Here is how John Lynch, who has made thousands, says you can assemble a mobile of five pieces (pictured) out of cardboard, wire and string or thread:

1. Decide if you are going to use five simple, related shapes, or five complicated unrelated shapes; four simple and one complicated or other combinations. An uneven number of pieces achieves a more interesting effect.

2. Mark up and cut cardboard into chosen shapes. Let's use the simple shapes; one small circle and four crescent variations of different sizes, the largest about nine inches across.

3. Stick straight pin into top edge of one shape at about its balance point. Punch small hole about ⅛-inch below pin and tie piece of string through hole. Remove pin and do same thing with other pieces. (Rings cut from wire and shaped by pliers can be used instead of string to fasten pieces.)

4. Curve lightly four pieces of wire of varying lengths (say 12, 18, 24 and 25 inches) and make loops at ends with pliers.

5. Tie stringed pieces 1 and 2 to loops of arm A. (Lynch emphasizes starting at the bottom outside and working in and up so the top will not be out of balance.)

6. Find balance point of arm A by adjusting approximate middle of arm until pieces balance. With pliers bend wire to form loop at balance point. (Remember, balance loop should always be made above the arm, attachment loops below it.)

7. Tie loop of arm B to balance loop of arm A. Tie piece 3 to arm B's unattached loop. Find new balance point with string as before, make balance loop on arm B.

8. Attach piece 4 to loop of arm C, attach C's other loop to arm B's balance loop, find new point of balance, make balance loop in arm C.

9. Tie piece 5 to loop in arm D, attach other loop to arm C's balance point, make balance loop in arm D.

10. Attach string to balance loop, suspend completed mobile where will swing freely.

Labor Dispute Is Conducted In Congress

It involves pay raise demands of a half million postal workers and nearly a million other federal workers.

The postal pay issue—pitting Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield against a number of postal employe unions—is getting Congress' prime consideration.

This is different from most labor disputes, but no less intense. Federal workers can't strike against the government, so Congress will make the decision. Meanwhile, the lawmakers are being peppered with advice.

The basic scrap is this:

Summerfield is proposing a complete pay reclassification that would give varying raises to 400,000 out of the 500,000 postal employes and would cost 80 million dollars.

The unions want every worker to get an $800 annual raise, which Summerfield contends would cost 350 million dollars.

Furthermore, Summerfield says the nearly one million other federal workers would expect to get like raises and the cost then would mount to $1,100,000,000 a year—or $26 for each of the 42 million families in the country.

Moreover, Summerfield contends postal workers' pay already compares favorably with that in private industry and has kept up with rising living costs. He says the real need is to cure pay inequities between jobs.

The labor organizations maintain their suggested $800 annual raise is "a bare minimum" needed to bring postal pay in line with living costs. The last raise came in July 1951.

The unions also argue that workers now are handling a much greater volume of mail per man, that they are working harder, and thus deserve higher pay.

Summerfield is not proposing a general postal salary boost, but mainly a reclassification of jobs according to required skills.

The postmaster general says that if workers are paid more in line with the jobs they do, it would improve the postal service generally.

An example cited by the post office department: stenographers, file clerks, mail sorting clerks, and purchasing agents all are now classified as clerks and receive the same maximum pay—$4,070 per year.

Under Summerfield's plan none would receive a pay cut, but stenographers would be hired in the future at a lower rate and the highly-skilled purchasing agent would have an opportunity to boost his pay well beyond the present limit for clerks.

The department says Summerfield's plan would give clerks and mail carriers—the most numerous among postal workers—an average $100 annual raise. Nothing is proposed now for rural mail carriers and fourth class postmasters.

The labor groups complain some workers would get as little as another $10 a year, while the big raises—some totaling several thousand dollars a year—would go to supervisors and city postmasters.

The unions say they don't oppose job reclassification, but that a general salary boost should come first. Summerfield says this would only compound present job inequities.

Summerfield's plan would provide generally higher starting salaries, wider differentials between skills, and quicker advancement from minimum to maximum job pay rates.

mixed chorus. During a single day Mrs. Jewell Stevinson, music teacher, has two band classes, two glee club classes a music appreciation class and numerous solo practice periods.

This year there have already been clinics for the band, the chorus and the band and chorus combined. The band clinic was held at Eldon, the choral clinic at School of the Osage, and the combined clinic at Warrensburg, the last on Feb. 16. The music department will participate in its first tri-county contest March 20 at California, which will be attended by schools from Morgan, Miller and Moniteau counties. Mrs. Stevinson has hopes that Stover will qualify for the district contest at Warrensburg, and perhaps even the state contest.

If appearances have anything to do with it, Stover should go far. The Stover Lions Club will present two one-act plays March 26 in the school auditorium to raise money for band uniforms.

Judge, Clerk Donate Cash for Settlement

ST. LOUIS (AP)—"It would cost more than that just to get the jury up here."

That's what Circuit Judge Eugene Sartorius said when two lawyers, deadlocked only $12.50 apart in an out-of-court settlement on their clients' damage suit, asked the court to call a jury for the case.

Neither attorney was willing to budge from his position. Judge Sartorius and Deputy Clerk Harry Gemke pulled out their wallets and gave the pair the $12.50.

Next day the attorneys returned to announce they had reached an agreement in the case—and gave back the money.

Twenty Are Missing After Boat Capsizes

BOMBAY, India (AP)—The 857-ton Indian ship Janaki, carrying 3 passengers and 37 crewmen, capsized and sank three miles out of Bombay harbor today. Twenty persons are missing.

Police Capture Young Bandit In Wild Chase

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Police fired more than 30 shots during a wild, 14-mile chase yesterday, slightly wounding a 24-year-old bandit and his hostage.

Both received minor scalp wounds from police bullets.

The wounded bandit, captured at nearby Fenton after he signaled police he would surrender, identified himself as Howard J. Day Jr., Philadelphia.

His hostage was 26-year-old James J. Eichenauer, Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. installer who was forced to drive the bandit from the scene of a robbery at the Fred Rapp market.

St. Louis police, highway patrolmen and St. Louis County deputy sheriffs took part in the chase through southwest St. Louis and St. Louis County at speeds up to 70 m.p.h.

Eichenauer was forced to drive the bandit in his truck after Day's car stalled near the holdup scene. A St. Louis detective, first officer to arrive on the scene, walked up to a car intending to ask the driver if he had seen anyone of the bandit's description.

The man, who proved to be the bandit, pushed his gun in the officer's stomach and commanded: "Copper, drop that gun or I'll kill you."

The chase then started with City Patrolman Kenneth Kraus the first in pursuit. Kraus said he pumped bullets at the fleeing truck and said the bandit returned his fire. The officer gave a radio report of the chase to headquarters.

About $775 of the $1,000 taken from the store was recovered. Part of the loot was thrown along the road by the bandit during the chase.

Near Fenton, on state Highway 30, the bandit tossed out his two guns and held out his arms to signal he was ready to surrender. The truck was stopped and officers took Day prisoner.

Two Grandstands Fall During War Dances For Queen Elizabeth

CAIRNS, Queensland (AP)—Women and children fell to the ground when two grandstands collapsed today during ceremonial war dances performed for Britain's visiting Queen Elizabeth II and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh.

Many people were slightly injured, but no serious casualties were reported.

Cairns is the most northern point in Australia that the Queen will visit.

Forty-seven native islanders held their bows and arrows at the present arms position during the Queen's inspection of their guard of honor at a reception here this afternoon.

They had come from the Torres straight group 500 miles north of Cairns.

As the Queen walked along their ranks they chanted: "God be with you till we meet again."

Servicemen Get Their American Citizenship

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—Ninety-one U. S. servicemen of foreign birth were sworn in today as American citizens, raising the total to 195 this week.

Papers Missing At Washington Atomic Plant

WASHINGTON (AP) — Substantial quantities of secret documents, related possibly to hydrogen bomb production, reportedly are missing from the government's huge 400,000-acre atomic plant at Hanford, Wash.

Rep. Pelly (R-Wash) told newsmen yesterday the Atomic Energy Commission has confirmed informally that certain papers have vanished. Pelly, who said he first heard reports of this late last year, added that AEC did not tell him the nature of the missing classified material, but that he took it for granted it was "top secret."

Pelly said he had no indication the data was stolen by spies, but he asked for an investigation by the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee because, he said, "even if it's a matter of poor housekeeping it's a shocking situation."

The congressman reported Chairman W. Sterling Cole (R-NY) of the atomic committee has agreed to look into the situation and that an investigator probably will be sent to Hanford shortly.

MIG Attacks Navy Planes At Border

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — Two American Navy carrier-based planes were attacked by a Communist MIG near the Czech-German border yesterday. Czechoslovakia charged immediately that they had flown over its vital uranium-producing center at Jachymov, 35 miles inside the Iron Curtain and fired the first shot.

The Navy said one of the two American propeller-driven planes was damaged but both pilots managed to bring their aircraft safely down at Neubiberg Airbase in the American zone of Germany near Munich.

A Navy spokesman in London said an investigation into the shootings was ordered by the U. S. Sixth Fleet. He said first reports showed empty aviation ammunition cartridges were found on German soil after the attack. One American spokesman in Munich said, however, the planes had "inadvertently" crossed into Czech territory. Clouds covered much of the frontier area over which they were flying.

Bavarian police were the first to report the incident and it was hours before Army, Navy or Air Force came out with an official confirmation of the shooting.

Before they did, the Red government of Czechoslovakia already had announced over the Prague radio that it had lodged a formal note of protest with the U. S. Embassy charging the planes had entered its territory at Domazlice in the early afternoon and flew as far east as Jachymov—one of the Soviet world's most important producers of atomic energy raw materials.

The Czech broadcast said one of that country's jets intercepted the American aircraft and demanded that they follow it to a landing inside Czechoslovakia.

"However, the American planes refused to follow this demand and attacked the Czech plane," the Prague radio report claimed. "The Czech plane then used its weapons in self-defense."

The Navy said the two planes were on a routine training flight off the Essex-class carrier Randolph. The Randolph is attached to the Sixth Fleet, which is the backbone of the NATO naval defense system.

Skunk Is Rejected As a House Pet

TRENTON (AP) — When Mr. and Mrs. Allen Hazen of the Half Rock community northeast of here opened the back door of their home recently they saw a skunk visiting with their cats. They hastened to call the cats inside before disaster struck.

To their astonishment the skunk fell in line and would have entered the house if the door had not been slammed shut.

For several hours the animal waited outside. Then, finding some water drank long and thirstily and departed.

Local Letter Carriers Get Muscular Dystrophy Award

LETTER CARRIERS ARE HONORED—Sedalia Branch 139 of the National Association of Letter Carriers (AFL) has received a citation of merit from the Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America Inc. for the branch's work in the 1953 Letter Carriers March for Muscular Dystrophy. Displaying the citation here are, left to right: James Hall, chairman, Leonard Rehak and James Meyers, co-chairmen.

Branch 139 of the National Association of Letter Carriers in Sedalia has received a Citation of Merit from the Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America, Inc., for participating in the recent nationwide "Letter Carriers' March for Muscular Dystrophy," it was announced by Branch Chairman James M. Hall.

The letter carriers, on their own time, made an extra trip of their rounds gathering public contributions in the drive. The citation is "In recognition of distinguished service in the search for the cause and cure of the 'Unknown Killer' — muscular dystrophy."

More than $3,500,000 was raised by letter carriers in the drive nationally, with $1861.05 collected in Sedalia. While the bulk of money will go to research in medical institutions for a cause and cure for muscular dystrophy, 25 per cent of funds raised in the community will revert back to Chapters for direct aid to local victims of the crippling disease.

The citation is co-signed by William Mazer, MDAA president, and Charles H. Dillon NALC treasurer, who acted as general chairman of the Letter Carriers' March.

"Members of Branch 139, NALC, extend gratitude to every contributor in Sedalia and Pettis County who made the drive's success possible," Mr. Hall said. "It was only through their full backing of our efforts that we accomplished what we did. They deserve a full share in the honor bestowed on Sedalia letter carriers."

Malenkov Says Reds Oppoes A Cold War

LONDON (AP) — Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov said last night Russia "takes a strong stand against the policy of a cold war" because this policy is preparation for a "world slaughter" that would destroy civilization.

Campaigning over Moscow radio for a Parliament seat in next Sunday's one-party elections, Malenkov said:

"We stand for peaceful economic competition of the Soviet Union with all capitalist countries, including, of course, the United States. The Soviet government is consistently following the view that any controversial question of today, difficult as it may be, can be solved by peaceful means.

"It is generally recognized," he added, "that 1953 brought some easing of world tension." He said the Soviet government "stands for further reduction," and it is only a "myth" that she plans aggression.

A third world war, "with the existence of modern means of destruction, would mean destruction of world civilization," Malenkov declared.

He charged that the Western countries "approach a solution of important international issues as a close military group which values aggressive strategic considerations uppermost."

This, according to Malenkov, is the main point blocking better East-West relations.

Puerto Rican Caught While Telephoning Plan to Kill Ike

While FBI men talked to Colon on the telephone, his call was traced and police rushed to the drugstore booth to pick him up before the call ended.

Police files showed Colon had once been committed to a mental institution. The FBI said he told them he would kill the President "in the next couple of months."

Colon's arrest came during a grand jury probe of the shooting of five congressmen in Washington last week. The government says it believes the shootings were plotted in New York.

Before applying floor wax to a cloth, soak the cloth in cold water and wring it out. This will make the cloth less absorbent, saving you a goodly amount of wax.

with McCORMICK No. 8 PLOWS

The McCormick No. 8 Plow has long been the yardstick for measuring good plow performance. McCormick Plows can be depended upon to turn good furrows in all kinds of going. Their rugged construction and proven design withstands the strains of plowing behind modern, fast-moving tractors. Ample clearance under beams and between bottoms assures a thorough job of turning and covering heavy growths of stalks, weeds and green cover crops. McCormick Plows are easy to handle in any field and easy to adjust. They do the kind of work that particular plowmen like.

Come in and see the line of McCormick Plows in our store. We have them in sizes to fit all farms and power.

Christmas Tree Permanent

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—An unopened package beneath a brown and brittle — yet somehow gay — tree continues to wait for a Christmas that will never come.

Cpl. Richard Lopez wrote in 1950 to save the Christmas tree. "I'm coming home." He was drowned in Korea before he could start the journey. His mother, Mrs. Salvador Lopez, has kept the tree ever since. It now occupies a special room and will continue to stay there because, as Mrs. Lopez says, "He asked me to save his Christmas."

Tipton Rural Fire Fighters Organizing

TIPTON—A mass meeting was held in the Tipton High School gymnasium Monday night and at that time the rural people organized a Rural Fire Department so that they might protect the life and property of members from damage by fire.

A board of directors was elected and a membership committee was appointed by the acting chairman, John Dueber. The directors are: Thomas Veulemans and Walker Schmidt, elected for three years; John Dueber and Ora Griswold, elected for two years; Herman Knipp, Woodrow Newkirk and Roscoe Gibson, elected for one year.

The membership committee consists of all the directors and Roy Mowrey, Allee Thomas, Joe Koecher, Otto Orscheln, Andy Hartman, George Thiel Jr., Ed Kasper, C. P. Snorgrass, David Schaffter, Fred Price, Tony Koechner, Golden Martin and Raymond Dick.

A sum of over $1,000 was collected in memberships at this meeting.

The board of directors will appoint a fire chief, an assistant fire chief and fire fighters from people living in Tipton. These persons will drive and operate the fire fighting equipment.

The preliminary plan is that the organization will obtain a new pumper truck that will carry 500 gallons of water and have enough hose so that they may pump water one-fourth mile to a fire. It is hoped that an auxiliary pump will be obtained that can be carried or hauled to a pond or other water supply to pump the water to the fire in case the truck cannot be driven close enough to the water supply.

Everett Hall, fire inspector of MFA, explained to the group the operations of several such organizations throughout the state. Mr. Hall said that records had been kept on such organizations and that the water carried by the truck extinguished 440 fires from a total of 450 runs without additional water.

It was agreed to charge $35 membership for the first year into the organization. This money would be used to purchase the fire fighting equipment. For each succeeding year a maximum of $4 per year dues would be charged. A membership would be sold on each set of improvements that include a livable dwelling or upon each business within the area.

It was thought the equipment could work effectively within a 10-mile radius of Tipton, but that no definite boundary lines would be set. The effective distance would depend largely on the road conditions.

The City of Tipton has notified the organization that it will be necessary for the city to discontinue giving service to the rural area. It is therefor urgent that a rural department be put in operation within the shortest possible time.

After the fire equipment is obtained, the University of Missouri will send an instructor to Tipton to conduct a school in fire fighting technique. Members will be invited to attend this school at no cost to them.

It was decided at the meeting the churches, schools and other strictly public buildings would be protected by the equipment without these organizations becoming members of the association.

Blackwater Soldier Arrives In Germany

ANSBACH, Germany — Army Pvt. James Root, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Root, Blackwater, recently arrived in Germany for duty with the 70th Armored Field Artillery Battalion.

Part of the 18th Field Artillery Group, the guns of Root's battalion support Seventh Army units in field training and maneuvers.

Pvt. Root, a clerk-typist in Battery B, entered the Army in June, 1953, and completed basic training at Camp Chaffee, Ark.

For those who believe that steaks and chops just don't taste right unless they are charcoal broiled, there is now available a charcoal salt that's said to impart the flavor.

Sedalian Joins IX Corps In Korea

IX CORPS, Korea—Army Pvt. Andrew F. Shall, son of Mrs. Mabel Slater, 109½ Second, Sedalia, recently joined IX Corps in Korea.

The corps, one of three in the Eighth Army, coordinates an intensive post-truce training program for UN units under its control.

Pvt. Shall, a driver with the 8223d Army Unit, entered the Army last May and completed basic training at Fort Riley, Kan.

STEP INTO SPRING

Step into spring with a mood that's gay
With clothes as bright as a sunny day,
Fashions for around the clock hours,
Glorious colors that rival spring flowers,
Dresses with all of the new spring notes,
Wide skirts that flare from stiff petticoats,
Dresses that have that slim, tailored look
Like milady stepped from a fashion book,
Gorgeous materials, cottons, nylons and failles,
Rayons and silks in such lovely styles,
Beautiful suits of just every kind,
Look in your stores and see what you find,
Coats of navy, bright red, shades of brown,
Pastels and blacks in stores over town,
There are styles exciting in every detail
In the spring hats with flower trim and veil
There are gloves of all sorts and colors to buy
Shoes of all styles, with low heels and high.
And frocks for wee girls with ruffles and lace
The fashions for men are smart and genteel
And to the ladies have quite an appeal,
The colors are navy, gray and some tan,
Sport clothes or dress, clothes make the man
'Tis not the old saying, sure that is true,
Yet he's at his best in clothes nifty and new Touches of color are in shirts and ties,
And boys' togs are duplicates in half-pint size
The early flowers bloom, birds loudly sing,
It's that time of year, folks, so Step Into Spring

What's New for Spring?

Look Inside for a Fashion-filled Preview

Fashions from Sedalia For the Easter Parade

Bette Patterson is wearing a little Kute Kiddie Classic original navy coat, 100 percent wool with white faille collar with lace edge. Her matching navy bonnet also has the lace trim and she carries a little bag of the same material with a pink rose. She wears a tiny pair of white Nolan gloves, all from FLOWER'S.

Charles Lee Patterson has on a navy blue flannel suit by Calvin of New York. His two button coat has patch pockets and he wears a white Arrow shirt with little bow tie of navy and maroon, from MULLIN'S MEN'S WEAR.

Mrs. Patterson is in a navy Handmacher suit with separate white blouse. Her Ranleigh hat is of navy with white flowers and she wears Ranch mink furs. Her shoes are De Liso Deb and she is wearing white gloves. Like her little daughter, Mrs. Patterson's costume is from FLOWER'S.

Mr. Patterson wears a suit of navy blue needlepoint fashioned by Hart-Schaffner and Marx. His Dobb's hat is of pearl gray, from MULLIN'S MEN'S WEAR.

Mrs. Marvin Crutcher Jr., is wearing a R and K black and white checked taffeta coat dress with avocado lining. Her flowers and ascot are also avocado. This Easter outfit is from LOCKETT'S.

Francis Diefenbach is wearing the famous Townclad suit from PENNEY'S, tailored from premium quality Windsor worsted flannel, styled in the ever popular Drake model with two button single breasted drape, three patch pockets, long roll lapel and center rear vent for the style conscious young man and executive. It is of Gulfstream grey, the leading color for spring. The hat is imported Belgium fur felt in the smart new center crease style in light taupe color, styled with the new narrower brim of 2½-inch width, and trimmed with smart rayon satin grosgrain band in dark contrasting color. Complete satin lined and Aridex treated to resist water and stains.

Fashion-wise Girl Knows How To Raise Her Own Salary

As a tireless reader of self-improvement books, I can't wait to get my sticky hands on a new one called "How to Raise Your Own Salary," a tome which carries my nomination as the best book-title ever penned.

I haven't seen this book but somebody sent me a little summary about the contents of the book, but I understand it came right out and said flatly that the reason that bosses don't shower most of us with the raises of which we are so justly deserving is quite simply our own tactlessness.

Of course, everyone in my own organization knows full well that my efforts are really the one thing that holds the whole structure together. I've often wondered what would happen if some day, infuriated by an apparently persistent lack of recognition for my true worth, I just up and quit. Chaos, that's what would result, absolute chaos.

Meanwhile, Mr. Napoleon Hill, the author of "How to Raise Your Own Salary" (and I certainly would like to know his family's philosophy on the naming of a man-child) has caused me to wonder if perhaps my modest income can't be explained by the fact that it has always been a matter of principle with me to say right out what I think. The one thing people can't stand is frankness.

Mr. Napoleon Hill, according to this summary, maintains that raises flow in, irresistible and unsought, to those who are tactful. I think tact is a form of dishonesty, so more as a curiousity than anything else, I'm setting down specific activities which he considers show a lack of tact in dealing with others, although I must confess I don't see why any of these should have anything to do with the way one does his work.

Are you, asks Napoleon Hill sternly:

— Careless in the tone of the voice, often speaking in gruff, antagonistic tones that offend? (Not me, I whine.)

— Apt to speak out of turn or interrupt others who are speaking? (Not unless I have something to say much more interesting.)

— Overworking the personal pronoun? (Well, what's more conclusive than a personal experience?)

— Prone to ask impertinent questions, generally to impress others with your own importance? (Only when I think it's necessary for the good of certain people who think they are really something.)

— In the habit of going where you have not been invited? (I wouldn't think of it, except occasionally when I'm sure it's an oversight.)

— Irresistibly impelled to volunteer an opinion when not requested? (Only when it's necessary to be brutally frank.)

— Accustomed to using profane or offensive language? (Never, and I can prove I said only "Darn it," the time the staff rigged a pail of water over the door to pour on me when I walked in.)

— Habitually discussing ills and misfortunes? (I don't believe in dragging one's private life into the office, although I think my loyalty to the company in spite of my physical condition should have some recognition. And besides, wouldn't you think people would be interested in the other fellows symptoms?)

Personally, I don't suppose "How to Raise Your Own Salary" would do me a bit of good — people are just prejudiced against me because I'm a woman — but I'm going to insist that a number of people right here in the office read it. If they only knew it, they are standing in their own light, to be brutally frank.

Admission: 35¢ to all!

All the freshness of Spring itself will be found in the twelth annual Spring Variety and style show to be presented Thursday and Friday nights by the Smith-Cotton High School PTA. The show this year is patterned after that great musical "Roberta.'

Starring in the variety portion of the program will be the musical department of the high school whose numbers will be built around such fine musical scores as "Smoke Gets In Your Eyes," "Lovely To Look At,' "Roberta" and "I Won't Dance.'

The style show will include models representing the stores listed below who will present the very latest in Spring fashions for men, women and children. Proceeds this year, as in former years, will be used for student aid . . . to help worthy students who otherwise might not be able to attend school, or participate in portions of its educational program.

Bare Minimum In New Shoes

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Fashion Editor

American women can be as light-footed as they like this spring and summer, with mere wisps of shoes in new light-weight tropical leathers available in all colors of the rainbow.

The barefoot look is big news in the new shoe lineup, some high-style models consisting merely of a thin sole, dime-size spike heel and shoestring strips of leather. These will be worn not only with cocktail or evening gown, but also with ordinary daytime outfits.

The wide range of colors in new leather shoes sets a new record this year. More than 50 shades are being shown, including the harlequin colors such as parakeet, a deep turquoise, tangerine, a deep orange and coral. All the pastels are present in the lineup, from off - whites to shocking pink; in addition there are many tones of red, green, purple, blue, gray, gunmetal and bronze.

The open silhouette is popular both in high - heeled shoes and in flats for casual wear, so that the girl with beautiful feet is in luck this year. Since many of the new styles expose all five toes, a boom in pedicures is predicted. Toenail grooming will be just as important as fingernail care this season.

Though the new shoe styles look gay and frivolous, they require expert construction and top quality leathers to achieve correct balance comfort. The slender strips of leather which hold the shoe in place must be applied with engineering skill, and the leather itself must have sufficient strength and suppleness to do the job of an entire vamp.

PLAYTIME FOOTPRINTS ... Casual shoes run the full gamut this year from spectator pumps to soft flats, in high colors and supple leathers for every taste.

For women who insist on more coverage, there are plenty of classic pumps available, also, with closed toe and heel. These, however, usually are cut lower than formerly, for comfort and femininity, and are being shown in the new light - weight leathers and in colors to match any costume.

Ashmeads Attend Capping Service

PILOT GROVE—Mr. and Mrs. William Ashmead, Pilot Grove, attended the capping services at the St. Luke's Hospital School of Nursing, Kansas City, on Friday evening. Their daughter, Miss Sonya Ashmead, is a student nurse at St. Luke's, and is a member of a class of 63 student nurses who received their caps.

Miss Ashmead, after her graduation from the Pilot Grove High School, was one of a select group of girls from the Sedalia territory to assist in the nursing duties at Bothwell Hospital, Sedalia. It was there Miss Ashmead gained her experience and encouragement to make nursing her profession.

Five Persons Perish When Slum Apartment Goes Up In Flames

NEW LONDON Conn. (AP) — A dingy apartment in a blighted area went up in flames here early today killing five persons.

Sailors flocking to the scene from New London's night spots, closing at just about the time the fire broke out, aided firemen and policemen in catching men, women and children who dropped from second and third floor windows.

The three-story building, of brick and wood construction, is in an area that has been officially designated as blighted by a local development commission. The commission has recommended a slum clearance project, but no action has been taken.

Never build bookshelves over radiators or near windows where books get strong sunlight. Heat and sun will warp and fade your books.

Kiddies Cute In Gray Birthday Party Dresses

Susie Smith is the 4½ year old daughter of Major and Mrs. Francis H. Smith, 1609 Honeysuckle Road, and is wearing a Wilson Frock, made exclusively for YOUTH SHOP, 710 South Ohio. It is of sky blue organza, lace trimmed collar, embroidery and lace trim pockets. Her anklets are Trimfit stretchable nylon, small size 6 to 7½.

Cheryl Birch is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wray Birch and is wearing a little taffeta dress of light rose shade with white nylon blouse with puffed sleeves and collar with lace edge, from MONTGOMERY WARD. Her little white lace hat is trimmed with pink flowers and she carries little white gloves and a white bag with pink flower. Her little slip is of white organdy.

Ina Ray Behen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Behen, 218 South Grand, is in a sensational style girl's five-way convertible suit of navy faille from PENNEY'S. It has both a jacket and skirt as well as a jacket in addition the skirt is completely reversible, one side of solid navy faille to match the jacket and the other side a colorful eye-catching Roman stripe. Her shoes are ankle strap patent with mesh trim.

Kathy Garrett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Garrett, is in a Barbie Frock with blouse slip of white nylon with Peter Pan collar, edged in lace, and a green plaid nylon jumper with deep flounced ruffles, lace edged over the shoulders, from CONNOR-WAGONER. Kathy carries a white straw purse.

Noted Fashion Authority Gives Definition to Exciting Vocabulary for Spring

Phrases Give Clue to Key Of Fashions

By Betty Green
International Fashion Authority
Fashion Director of Independent Retailers Syndicate

The Language of Fashion changes with the Look of Fashion from season to season, bringing new words into your fashion vocabularies or giving new significance to familiar words.

Remember when "bustle", "guimpe", "hobble", "dust ruffles", were on the lips of every woman of fashion? Where are these words of yesteryear?

And, where are the fashion words of Spring, 1954? They're right below, as you read on. Better jot them down so you won't be speechless when you see the New, New, New, spring fashions in your favorite store.

SHAPE — We used to say "silhouette, — but, since the last Paris collections when Dior presented his "Dome" and "Cupola" silhouettes (2 brand-new words for your 1954 fashion glossary) we say "Shape" — and, usually the Shape is built-in with interfacing.

Coats don't flare; they Dome out. Toppers don't ripple, they Jut, skirts don't swirl; they Bell. Sleeves don't puff; they Arch.

Even slim sheaths are shaped to have — and to hold — their curves, and to give you some you never knew you had. Some dresses will actually stand by themselves, so crisply are their domed skirts interfaced.

EMPIRE — If we're going to keep this thing on a higher plane, we're going to pronounce it "Ampeer", as the French do. It refers to the era of Napoleon's First Empire . . . You'll recognize the Empire trend in seaming or actual belts just under the bosom, in snug boleros that define a high line, in skirts that rise high above the waistline — even in separate belts especially designed to curve up high.

PRINCESS — As night follows day, so must the word "Princess" follow Empire. Definitely, the Princess trend will leave you beltless! Its vertical lines from shoulder to hem are unbroken except by the high Empire seaming under the bosom. There will usually be a matching belt with the Princess dress you try on — but, if you're truly fashion - wise (and figure - controlled) you won't wear it. Princess dresses may be reed slim or domed out (notice we no longer say "flared").

Princess skirts are built up above the waist. Later you will find Princess silhouette swim suits.

TOPWARD — "Look up" for the width and the emphasis in Spring fashions. Empire types achieve top-interest with those high under-the-bosom seamings and belts. Arched sleeves give Topward width to coats and suits. Puffed sleeves in diaphonous fabrics inflate the tops of slim jumper dresses.

STANDAWAY — This is the word that describes the newest necklines, so add it to your lexicon of fashion.

You will find many, standaway necklines on spring coats, suits, dresses, blouses — and especially when you find out how becoming they are.

BANTAM WEIGHT — out of the fight ring — into the fashion vocabulary! "Bantam" now applies to fabrics, which for this spring are light as the proverbial feather. Suits are made of 7 ounce dress weight worsteds; Coats are made of lightweight suitings or of fleeces that have been reduced from about 17 ounces per yard to 13 ounces per yard. The less weight, the more style — and the longer wearing potential — so buy your spring costume by the ounce! Even jewelry subscribes to Bantam weights, with new metals that look bulky and feel airy.

SILKENED — This one word, "Silkened" is the key to both fabric and fashion trends. Fabric-wise, it describes the new blends of silk and worsteds, crisp and smooth, in alpaca weave. The French called it "Aleoulaine" (pronounce it A-Lee-O-Lane) when they introduced it last season — so, in case you see the word in spring ads, you'll recognize the trend. Look for "Silkened" wools (blends of silk-and-wool) in suits, in coats, in dresses. They're right for Easter, light for Summer.

PRINTS-PLUS — If we just said "Prints", we wouldn't be doing justice to the overwhelming tide of magnificently patterned fabrics that is sweeping over the entire fashion scene. So we've coined the new expression "Prints-Plus" for your 1954 Spring Vocabulary.

"Prints-Plus" describes the flambouyant Florals that are blooming everywhere in colors more brilliant than ever grew in a garden. Loveliest of all —the rose-patterned prints, some in a new dye technique that looks 3-dimensional without the aid of glasses. Prints-Plus on silk, on rayon, on cotton (especially on cotton) and even on wool are the surest way to turn your spring wardrobe into a floral wonderland.

COLORARA — "Color" is too mild a word for spring fashions. "Colorama" gives you some idea of what's in store (and in the stores) for you. Go adventuring with color! Combine pink and red (the biggest trend of all); Contrast blue with green; gather oranges and yellows — from the nasturtium; challenge true-blues with green-blues, such as navy with turquoise. Yes, you will want to break all the color conventions to create new color trends — and you'll take your cue from prints where you will find all the combinations above — and more.

COSTUME — The 1954 fashion meaning of "costume" in an integrated outfit composed of related parts. Your printed silk dress may match the lining of your silk coat; your printed blouse may match the lining of your wool suit jacket; your dress may have its own matching jacket (and this year it may very well be a bolero - brief jacket); your suit or dress may have an important matching cape stole; your fleece may be exactly dyed to match your worsted suit or dress.

You have that "put - together" look we used to associate with costly, custom-made clothes. You have the "Costume" look, the look of Fashion!

There, you've added ten words to your Fashion Vocabulary — and, in probing their new meanings, you have covered the entire fashion picture for spring, 1954.

When you apply these words to your own spring wardrobes, they will speak for themselves. They will also speak for you as a Woman of Fashion.

There are times when looking at yourself very carefully in a mirror is justified. You cannot expect to groom appropriately unless you know your face and body completely. And it takes a lot of looking to decide the exact shape of your face and head, body proportions, posture characteristics, etc.

If you have fine, fly-away hair, ask your stylist to give you a hairdo that takes this into consideration. A style that is becoming to you, but never stays in place, is hardly worth having. So caution your man to be realistic in his approach.

Never More Abundant Bevy of Beautiful Styles to Enhance Milady's Wardrobe

On with the new! Spring is here, and has set the fashion scene with a bevy of beautifuls to enhance milady's wardrobe!

New! Slim sheath dresses that are smarter when worn beltless — seamed and shaped under the bosom — for the Empress line — smarter and more lovely with contrasting color or fabric tops, and neckline interest . . . more fashionworthy than the sheaths of '53!

New! The "shaped" look of the regal princess! Here the fashion shape is most frequently built-in — often with the new stiffening "pellon". From the high-bosom . . . gently nipping-down into a "little" middle, and flowing into the "dome" of the skirt — this is the princess! This too, is new!

New! The skirt lines of fashion offer a distinctive variety that makes selection difficult — they're all so flattering! Back fullness — low hiplines, often pleated — and tunics: tunics with back fullness and low hiplines — are new, too!

New! Decidedly new, are the extremes of the costume themes — from the tiniest topping of boleros — to the full - length coat, those two — and all the variations on the jacket themes — add the ensemble note to slim or full dresses. Play it with gentle or bold harmony with print and plain, pattern with pattern, or pattern with plain!

New! Yes, the "relaxed" look of many suit jackets is new! A happy medium between fitted and box, these jackets outline the figure rather than closely-defining it. You'll see this "at-ease" styling over and over again!

New! Suit necklines are excitingly new — and cut low! The bare neckline look in suits is the "right" look — it invites low-cut blouses beneath, and grace-note fill-ins of soft, flowing scarfs . . . colorful clusters of flowers, and attention - compelling jewelry!

New! New! New! Cape Collars . . . detachable often, and smart on everything from dresses to coats —sailor collars; especially new on suits — shawl collars: distinctive on tapered or fitted coats.

New! New! New! Paris-inspired tailoring and detailing make the headline news of the season! A new arched shoulder treatment gives a subtle flattery to a fitted suit or coat . . . The short cuts of the coat picture; in demi-domes that are enhanced with wonderful tailored detailings, the belted box "coat-let" that gives a smart lean look, the short overcoat and the fractions of fashion — the 7/8th barrel and the 7/8th flare, the tunic coat and even the briefest shrug—all show new Parisian influences!

New and incoming for the seasons ahead! The straight linen coat dress with big pockets or none at all — sometimes loosely, back-belted. Brief and flared leather jackets (real or like-real) are to be lighter and brighter this Spring. Pastel suedes in all lengths — and elegant for every occasion, will take new importance in early season settings.

The "camels" came last season and are staying on for Spring into Summer activities — new; now they become gentle backgrounds for an entirely new range of colors such as turquoise, yellow, rusty browns, moss green and brightest white.

Colorful and new! The exciting blossoming of prints — in sheerest cottons to lightest wools, prints of every type are the headliners of the season.

Twinkling bright is the jeweled look of so much of Spring fashion! Never have dressy coats looked dressier! Cropped coats and long coats — in wools and in silks, take on new brilliance with dustings of glitter!

With the truly formal look in after - five fashions, coming to the fore, a new trend has been established for the cover - up fashion, and stoles, boleros and great coats take on a new opulence that makes these — "your very best for dress" wraps!

It is truly a wonderfully exciting fashion future that awaits you —it's a bright season of new and exciting wearables for every taste and every budget.

Charlotte Salveter Helps Plan Religion In Life Observance

Miss Charlotte Salveter, Sedalia, is a member of the personal conferences committee which has helped to arrange the observance of Religion in Life Week at Christian College, Columbia, March 14-18. Miss Salveter is the daughter of Henry Salveter, 1212 South Barrett.

The religious emphasis week is an annual occurrence, and this year will feature 12 outstanding religious leaders from all parts of the country. Special assemblies, seminars, vesper services, classroom discussions, religious book displays and personal conferences are among the activities that will highlight the week on the Christian campus.

You will get best results with your indelible lipstick if you follow the directions carefully in applying it. If you apply it hastily, you will find that it is not very indelible.

Miss Dorothy Lane In Capping Ceremony

Miss Dorothy Lane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lane, Knob Noster, was one of the student nurses who was capped at the Kansas City General Hospital No. 1, Friday night, when the hospital school of nursing held a capping ceremony at the hospital.

B. I. Burns, commissioner of hospitals gave the address.

Mr. and Mrs. Lane, daughter, Joyce, and son, John, attended the ceremony and reception.

Miss Lane graduated from the Knob Noster High School in 1953 and was the valedictorian of her class. Before entering nurse's training, she was a student nurse at Bothwell Hospital in Sedalia.

Public Library Notes—

'Playtown USA,' Recreation Film, Available for Showing

"Playtown U.S.A." is the title of a new film available at the Public Library, which is especially appropriate at this time for showing before groups such as service clubs, professional groups and civic organizations.

It is an outstanding, fast-moving human interest picture that does an excellent, well dramatized job of showing how a community can organize to promote community-wide, all-age, year-round recreation. "Playtown U.S.A." was produced with the cooperation and technical advice of a score of America's most outstanding professional leaders in the field of recreation, and it illustrates the need for publicly sponsored recreation by emphasizing the harmful results caused by the lack of readily accessible facilities for all age groups.

Filmed in beautiful color and entirely up to date, "Playtown U.S.A." will probably be much in demand by patrons of the library's film service. Those wishing to use the film should make early reservations.

"Tide Pool Life" is another color film which fits well into the present interest in the ocean, undersea diving, etc. This film shows the most common of the sea animals of the tide zone as found along the California shore. Further nature study is available in "Live Teddy Bears," the story of a family of Australian Koalas, showing their habits, characteristics, and life in Australian park and remote bush country.

Groups with an interest in our country's history will find "Thomas Jefferson" a dynamic and vivid portrait of the statesman, diplomat, farmer and man of letters who was author of the Declaration of Independence. His further career as governor of Virginia, Secretary of State, Minister to France and as Vice-President and President of the United States are included in this interesting motion picture. "The Flag Speaks," a short 19-minute documentary in color might serve as a companion film, or "Colonial Children," which shows in detail the furnishings, clothing, customs and typical events in a family's day, from the morning chores to the reading of the Scriptures by the fireside in the evening.

Scientific subjects of interest are "Airplane Changes Our World Map," presenting the new global conception of geography, and "Ears and Hearing," explaining accurately how the parts of the ear operate, and explaining three common causes of impaired hearing.

"Three Hymns," a color film, is planned for group singing, and includes "Sweet Hour of Prayer," "The Lord Is My Shepherd," and "He Leadeth Me."

Ready for a Joy Ride In All-Occasion Styles

Ready to try a brand new car are this foursome, wearing clothes that are right for any occasion. They are modeling for local stores. They are, left to right: from RUSSELL BROTHERS, John F. Hazell; CONNOR-WAGONER, Miss Janice Robinson; ELLIS', Miss Nancy Vaughan, and WILSON'S, Dr. Marvin Crutcher Jr. The car is a four-door Bel-Air sedan Chevrolet of ivory over turquoise from the MIKE O'CONNOR MOTOR CO.

Miss Janice Robinson is in a Printzess suit of imported linen in aqua shade from CONNOR-WAGONER. With it she wears a polka dot blouse of aqua. Her black Milan hat is trimmed in white with a black feather and her gloves are white doeskin by Dawnell. She carries a black faille purse.

Miss Nancy Vaughan is in a navy sheer Carole King dress with scoop neckline, over which she wears a Zelinka-Matlick pastel full length coat of Forstmann wool and rabbit hair from ELLIS'. It has the convertible sleeves that may be worn up or down. Her Milan straw hat is of navy and white, close fitting and she has matching accessories.

Dr. M. L. Crutcher is wearing a navy blue suit tailored by Capp's Clothing Co. It is a two button model with patch pockets, from WILSON CLOTHING, and may also be worn as a sport coat. He is wearing a sky gray Stetson hat with contrasting band. His shirt is the new Arrow Rodnor with pin collar and French cuffs. The tie is also made by Arrow in the new Dacron fiber.

Comfort and Naturalness Key Men's Styles for the Season

Along with the increased emphasis on comfort in other aspects of the American Way of Life, increased attention is being paid to comfort in our way of dress.

Men are carrying the banner for lighter, roomier, more airy clothing, and this is readily apparent in the new styles for Spring.

Developing the trend to lighter and lighter weights in fabrics, this Spring's suitings are six to eight ounces, as compared to the nine to eleven ounces of only a few years ago.

New fabrics for Spring fit the comfort requirement to a "C" and are smart looking as well. "Slub" yarns are used in a new way to give a textured look to fabrics, without producing a heavy, overdone effect.

Kitten - soft Cashmere is becoming more and more popular in softly tailored suits and sports jackets noted for their comfort and luxurious "feel".

Mohair is being blended with wool to make another of the leading Spring fabrics popular for its coolness and springly feel. Mohair doesn't "cling" during warm weather and allows the body to "breathe".

Wool burlap is a coarse, open-weave, airy sports coat fabric that will be seen more and more this Spring and Summer. This cool looking fabric has natural color variation. When dyed black, the fabric has a built - in slubbed look, for some of the fibers retain their light color.

Comfort and Color Team-up for Spring

A notable departure from conservative male dress is the use of black and white, and the brighter hues: brick red, gold and gay green jackets are wardrobe brighteners for a colorful Summer.

In spotswear, there is even more variation in color with coral, cocoa, lemon, copper, sage, flamingo and other vital colors leading the field.

Good Grooming--- Nightly Suds Best for Bras

Bras are hitting a new low this spring. Combining a minimum of fabric with an increased amount of elastic, they are engineered to fit comfortably and becomingly.

The new models are also prettier than ever. Some are trimmed with perky bows or touched with delicate embroidery. Fine cotton and nylon are used extensively.

The best way to prolong the life and beauty of these dainty garments is to wash them after each wearing.

Because more elastic is being used, the new bras should be given more gentle handling. When the garment is washed following just one wearing, it requires no more than a second's swishing in soapy water. Rinsing, rolling a towel to remove excess moisture and laying flat on another towel to dry take just another few seconds.

So, in the long run, nightly washing will be a time saver. There is no doubt that in avoiding the necessity of rubbing out dirt, it will be a material saver.

There is another point to be made in favor of washing such garments after each wearing. And that's that no well - groomed woman should want to tolerate anything but the freshest of clothing near her body.

The housewife who objects to sitting on beds is not so fussy as one might think. In addition to mussing the bedspread, the sitter weakens the mattress.

Boom In Black For Men Sets A Background

The fact that men's clothing this Spring will be more colorful is due, indirectly, to the fact that the girls have been working behind the scenes lo. these many years, for a dash more color in men's outerclothes.

Paradoxically, this color renaissance came about through judicious use of black usually a color associated with drabness. Now, style authorities say, black will be used as an imaginative approach to the problem of getting more life, style and color into all categories of men's clothing business, sport and casual.

Black offers almost countless opportunities for creating brightly contrasting color combinations, the Wool Bureau reports. Against a striking background of rich, jet black, stylists can present colors and shades which would be far too flamboyant if used alone or woven on paler backgrounds.

The success of black in connoting smartness and good taste depends, to a very great extent, on how it stands up after repeated wear, as well as washing or dry cleaning. Many articles of clothing, imperfectly dyed in black, soon assume purplish or greenish casts, and lose their look of luxury.

For this reason, the natural linen are preferred. These time-tested fibers are certain to bring out the best in black.

The "boom in black" is no passing fad, fashion authorities believe. For the forseeable future, they regard it as a staple item on the long list of essentials in the increasingly colorful wardrobe of the "average" well - dressed man.

Yessir, Baby ALWAYS Needs Shoes

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

"But surely Junior doesn't need shoes AGAIN. He just got a new pair last month!"

That's a bit of dialogue repeated regularly in most American homes, as harried parents try to stretch the budget to keep up with the startling growth of their children's feet.

It's also a fact that may as well be faced. From the ages of 2 to 6, children's feet grow a half size every four to eight weeks. From 6 to 10, you can expect to buy new shoes every eight to 12 weeks. From 10 to 12, shoes may last four months if you're lucky. From 12 to 15 the feet often are still growing at the rate of a size every four to five months. And even after 15, some youngsters continue to need a larger shoe size every six months.

IT HAPPENS IN EVERY FAMILY ... Little Susie just can't decide which of all these lovely new shoe styles she wants. Mama, and the long-suffering salesman are trying to be patient, realizing that fashion is just as important to little girls as to their mothers. Styles available for pint - size glamor girls this year include patent leather Mary Jane pumps, combinations in suede and calf, the popular moccasin types, sturdy ties and party suedes trimmed with glitter.

This may be a depressing prospect, but there it is. And doctors are constantly warning parents of the importance of properly fitted shoes for young and growing feet.

A recent survey showed that almost 80 per cent of American youngsters from 5 to 18 years of age suffer from some kind of foot ills ranging from weak arches to hammer toes. Doctors who took part in the study concluded that the feet of modern children are probably in worse shape than Grandpa's were when he used to hike three or four miles every day to the little red schoolhouse.

The greatest enemies of healthy feet, the medics emphasized, are outgrown shoes and hand-me-downs. They pointed out that more than 2-3 of children's foot troubles stem directly from — or are aggravated by — outgrown shoes. They also frowned on hand-me-downs, which force the soft bones of the unformed foot into the foot shape of the previous wearer. Presumably, even the greater use of hand-me-downs in Grandpa's day was offset by lots of walking.

Your boy or girl will be 12 before the general structure of the foot is formed, 16 by the time the bones start their hardening process and nearly 20 before the development of the big toe bone and vital weight - supporting heel bone is finally complete.

This means 20 years of shoes, from soft leather playpen trainers to schoolday oxfords and college prom pumps, which leave an indelible stamp on your child's posture, gait and general health. That's why pediatrists stress the fact that regular visits to the shoe store are as important as regular sessions wih the dentist.

You can't depend on Junior to tell you when his shoes are too small, either. The average child is able to force his feet into shoes that are a size or two too small without pain, because of the softness and pliability of his foot bone structure. Even though he feels no discomfort, constriction may be forcing his foot bones out of shape and laying the foundation for future foot ills.

At one school, ¾ of the pupils were found to be wearing shoes from a half to three sizes too small — yet only one child complained that his feet hurt. He was wearing size 4½A shoes on feet that measured 6½B.

Even if Junior doesn't outgrow his shoes every few weeks, he probably will wear them out almost as fast. A normally active child walks, runs, skips and jumps about 12 miles daily — and that uses up shoe leather.

How can you be sure that your child's feet are adequately shod Specialists lay down these rules:

2. Be sure the shoes you buy are correctly fitted in a reliable store.

3. For everyday wear, the children's shoes recommended by most doctors are laced leather oxfords, with supple uppers and flexible leather soles. They point out that the fibrous structure of leather permits the foot to "breathe."

Doctors also decry the current fad for flimsy soft - soled play shoes and sneakers for every day school wear. You wouldn't expect the mailman to start out on his rounds in a pair of house slippers. Yet many mothers allow their children to start out on a 12- mile day of strenuous play in flimsy play shoes which offer no more protection than bedroom slippers.

Specialists say that shoes which do not provide sufficient protection and support for growing feet result in weakening the arch structure, which in turn causes an inward - turning of the ankle bone. This affects both posture and gait, and is a sure forerunner of painful foot troubles in later years, when the bones calcify.

Mothers may get a picture of the condition of their children's feet by examining their shoes. If wear covers the entire sole area, with the greater wear evidenced along the margin of the sole, the shoe fits correctly. The heel, also, should be worn along the outer edge. If the front part of the sole shows excessive wear, the shoes are too short. If wear is heavier on the inner margins of heel and sole, this indicates a weak arch, with the ankle bone turning in and throwing too much weight on the inside of the foot.

The recommended shoe wardrobe for toddler or teen - ager consists of three pair of leather shoes —two for every - day wear and one for dress-up occasions. Specialists advise that children should not wear the same pair of shoes every day, but that wear should be alternated, giving the shoes a chance to air out between wearings.

The price paid for shoes does not necessarily indicate quality and good fit. You do not have to pay a premium for good leather and correct fit if you patronize a reliable shoe store.

Never buy a pair of shoes for your child without taking him along to try them on. You cannot go by the size of his current pair of shoes, as children's feet will grow two sizes in a few months, sometimes they will stay the same size for the same period. The only way to be sure is to have his feet measured for each new pair of shoes.

The feet should always be measured when the child is standing up, so that his weight is on the feet. Each foot should be measured individually for length, width and thickness through the arch. Correct length allows ¾ inch leeway between the longest toe and the end of the shoe. Correct width allows the upper leather across the top of the toes to be pinched slightly between the fingers. The heel base should be bought in a size that fits the larger of the child's two feet — often the feet are not the same size. The inside of the new shoe also should be examined for ridges or seams which might chafe or irritate young feet.

Don't be misled by the over-enthusiastic sales clerk who, in response to your insistence on correct fit for your child, informs you that new shoes need "breaking in." Shoes that fit correctly should be comfortable from the start.

Let your child walk around the store in the new shoes before you hand over your money. Slipping, pinching or discomfort of any sort indicates a poor fit or inferior construction.

If your daughter rebels against the laced leather oxford — as most of them do when they reach junior-high age — try to find a shoe which has the style features to please her, but which still offers sufficient support for a growing foot. Manufacturers have anticipated the style - consciousness of the sub - teens, and offer a wide choice of pumps, saddle shoes, moccasins and party shoes in vari - colored leathers with a "grown-up" look which still have good leather soles and adequate arch support.

The problem of buying boys' shoes is simpler. They want shoes just like Dad's, and these usually are the classic laced oxfords which are the top choice of foot specialists. Just be sure the size is right and the quality good.

Attention to your children's feet in the formative years will pay off in foot health when they are grown.

Young Miss Becomes A Princess

The junior figure figures prominently in fashion trends this spring. The "schoolgirl" look with its high bosom, little waist and gay, feminine tone is a leader and particularly well adapted to juniors.

In the 9 to 15 size range (and often running to 7 and 17) is a wide choice of dresses, suits, coats and separates that are no longer specifically "junior" styles, but are now "fashion" at its spring height.

Leading silhouette is the unbroken princess line, fitted through shoulder and waist and buoyant of skirt. This allows the junior to indulge her penchant for petticoats. There are also stiffened linings to bolster full skirts this season.

For parties, the junior princess appears in schiffli-embroidered cotton satin, dramatic brocade cottons and rich, stiffened silks. Small prints in exotic colorings and patterns are popular for day and date, pastels on black or navy a cocktail favorite.

"Josephine" Silhouette

The "Josephine" silhouette is important in junior fashions. It combines the high waist and full shoulders of the empire with a sheath skirt, and takes well to linens, wool crepes and supple silks, such as foulard and surah. Sometimes the sheath skirt is drawn back to a soft box pleat for easy movement and fashionable "back interest."

Junior offerings include the tunic dress, especially new with a detachable peplum. There are jumper dresses with separate "baby doll" blouses and there are shirtwaist styles with both narrow and full skirts.

Throughout the junior fashion lineup this spring are similar styles in full or narrow skirts. Date styles are almost all full. And because of a "covered up" look for evening, many daytime styles in dress-up fabrics can double as date wear.

Costumes have joined suits in spring popularity. The spencer jacket is particularly well-suited to the junior figure and comes with a variety of dress and skirt partners. Often spencer is in cloud weight woolen fleece or washable orion. There are costumes that include cashmere sweaters with pretty beadwork and encrustations. Others have loose linen coats over "little" linen dresses.

Embroidered Linens

Linen costumes are newly decorated with beadwork and embroidery and are now safely crease-resistant. There is a silk-linen worth junior attention, especially in full - length costume coats.

Pretty details make junior styles additionally exciting. White cuffs and over - collars, pastel leather touches, tiny bows here and there . . . all enhance the "young" feeling, that is, in fact, a natural for juniors.

Appropriate Dresses For a Bridal Shower

Bridal showers come with the spring, preceding the June weddings. Appropriate fashions for these gay parties, which may be purchased at the local stores, are modeled as follows: MONTGOMERY WARD, by Miss Betty Russell: THRIFTY SHOP, Miss Carolyn Napier; ROSENTHAL'S, Miss Dorothy Swope; SHEARS, Mrs. Joe Brosch, and MODE O'DAY, Mrs. Lawrence Englund. The group is pictured before a table setting by PHEIFFER'S FLOWER SHOP for the occasion.

Miss Betty Russell has selected a dressy frock of navy taffeta from MONTGOMERY WARD, with fitted waist, the short sleeves gathered upward with tiny shirring, and a convertible collar which may be worn up or down. In front at the neck is a touch of delicate pink lace. The wide flaring skirt has bands of self cording forming wide bands from the waist to the hem. The net petticoat that holds the full skirt out, also has the pink lace.

Miss Carolyn Napier is wearing a party dress of blue cotton material from the THRIFTY SHOP styled with tight bodied waist, sweetheart neckline trimmed with sequins and full skirt over crinoline petticoat. Her corsage of red roses is from the Pfeiffer Floral Shop.

Miss Dorothy Swope is in a navy blue tailored dress of shantung linen weave material by Bettilou from ROSENTHAL'S. The standing collar and sleeves are trimmed in white pique and a white pique bow is at the neck. The sleeves are three-quarter length and the dress of permanent crease resistant, washable material buttons completely down the front with self covered buttons.

Mrs. Joe Brosch's 100 percent nylon dress of floral pattern in light blue is from SHEAR'S. It has an accent of blue trim matching the shade in the floral pattern. The dress of thin material is worn over a crinoline petticoat to give the popular flare out effect.

Flattering Effect Both Soft and Fresh

Dressmaker touches, shapely fitting and lightweight fabrics make good news in suits for spring. Jacket and skirt lengths are shorter; the feeling is rounded and feminine; the all-over effect is soft, fresh and most appropriate for the balmy days ahead.

A low - necked collar marks the 1954 suit. Whether the collar is a tiny Peter Pan or a wide cape-effect, it is usually flat, often topped with white linen, pique or leather. Top interest is further established with lingerie touches, such as add soft bulk about the shoulders and high on the bodice.

The empire suit shows its colors with under-bust seaming or detail and almost always uses a high - rising, waist - molded skirt. Skirts may be slim or flared . . . with a happy medium slated for widest popularity.

Slim skirts are eased for walking with large box pleats to the rear. Flare skirts most often feature pleats and usually keep a well-molded hipline. Many skirts are slim in front and drawn to back fullness which is underlined by deep, unpressed box pleats. The new length is about an inch above mid-calf and open to modification according to wearer's taste.

Abbreviated Sleeves

There is a delightful new importance in sleeves -- also credited to the "top interest" theme. A great many suit jackets wear short sleeves that stop somewhere above the elbow. Some have white edging peeping from beneath the sleeve hem. These short sleeves may be removable —either button - on lace sleevelets or detachable bells. The sleeveless suit is a definite "new" for spring.

Elbow and bracelet - length sleeves are prominent. There are basket cuffs, opening upwards, lanterns, funnels and bells — all soft and feminine. All sleeves, whether cropped or conventional, show a tendency to bulkless roundness.

Shapely Jackets

Jackets may be shrugs, boleros, waist-length "bellboys" or padded to curve to the hip. But they are definitely shorter than last year, and much more curvaceous. The cupola line jacket is a leader — outstanding, wide and most frequently bolero styled or hip-length and curved in with a band at the hip.

The shape is the thing in suits this spring, and this theme is carried even into the semi-box suit and the sports suit. Both have taken on fitted ways and more design variety. The sailor suit is a happy outgrowth of the box, with its wide tar collar and easy-swinging pleated skirt. Other boxies feature horseshoe collars and bracelet sleeves, or stand-away collars that are filled in with white dickies or loop - twisted scarves.

Tissue-Weight Fabrics

Fabric interest remains a primary feature of spring suits. Contributing to the graceful, feminine look are soft, smooth fabrics. Where there is texture, it is subtle and crisp. Dress suits make much use of silk and wool blends, silk or rayon crepes and polished failles. Daytime suits appear in soft worsteds and flannels, featuring a mere hint of color blend. Sports suits proclaim the "softer spring" via ice cream tweeds and sheen gabardines.

Extremely lightweight fabrics make spring suits real season-spanners. Cotton and linen suits will be worn through spring . . . and very prettily, too, with their form - fitting cuts and dainty trims. Particularly important trim trend is the contrasting band. Wide or narrow, it is inset or appliqued or laced through slots to imitate ribbon.

Help for Heels---

Get Feet Set For Sandals

BY ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

It won't be long before you will be slipping your feet into spring sandals, teen-agers. So you'd best ready them for the occasion.

Most likely winter boots have taken their toll in the form of calloused heels. And that certainly won't do when you start wearing spring's delicately styled shoes and sheer nylons.

You can banish the bumps on your heels and any roughened spots caused by dryness by giving your feet a bit of special attention every night for a few weeks.

During your evening bath, scrub the feet carefully with a soft brush. Go over those heels again and again.

When drying, rub the feet gently with the towel. Take time to smooth the cuticles back. Apply a hand cream or baby oil lavishly. Massage the feet as you put on the lubricant.

Then slip into a pair of old cotton socks; secure them with a rubber band (not one so tight that it will inhibit circulation) so that your foot beauty treatment will continue through the night.

Doesn't Take Expert; Make Accessories

BY ALICIA HART

There's no chance that we will ever see the return of the old-fashioned girl with her hooped skirts, shy manners and talc-powdered nose. But it would seem that the girls are having a change of heart in one direction, at least.

These days it's not unusual at all to hear that the girl who "can't even sew on a button" is undertaking to make some of her own clothes. Women are discovering that's one way to get exactly what they want without paying a small fortune for it.

And actually, the modern girl need not be an expert seamstress in order to make some of the simpler things in her wardrobe. The new sewing machines have taken virtually all of the guesswork out of sewing.

Accessories are a good sewing choice for the girl who lacks time or patience to attempt big projects. Stoles, scarves, shrugs, gloves, hats and cummerbunds are among the items she can tackle without going in over her head.

We suggest making a stole and glove set of versatile wool jersey in a neutral shade. You'll find that the work will go quickly and that the set will prove a real boon to your spring wardrobe.

To make the stole, you will need 30 inches of jersey tubing. Fold the material diagonally and cut it apart along the fold, saving one half for the gloves.

Baste a hem an inch and one half deep. Then use a fancy machine stitch to trim the edges of the diagonal sides. Make a plain hem across the straight edge. Trim with ball fringe on the diagonal edges.

Use a standard pattern for the gloves and decorate the backs and wrists with the design you created for the diagonal edges of the stole. Seam gloves and trim with fringe.

To enable the sewer to make really distinctive trimmings, one manufacturer of sewing machines recently imported a portable machine from Switzerland that features double needle stitching.

This same machine is also said to produce a stitch that stretches with the fabric, making it especially good for such garments as gloves and bathing suits or for any fabric with some "give," such as jersey.

Paris Spring Hats Strike A Fishy Note

By NADEANE WALKER

PARIS — Put on your seaweed bonnet, with a bit of nonsense on it . . .

In the same nautical mood, some of them (Madame Janette, for instance) have brought out headgear in the shape of sea anemones, water lillies, lotus and star-fish.

You won't have much on your mind this spring if your hat is Paris-inspired, for here the new chapeaux are about as big as a button and light as a feather.

The wonder is how they ever stay on the head in the mildest breeze. Claude St. Cyr lines all hats with velvet, which is supposed to help them stick to the hair. Gilbert Orcel, among many others, resorts to covered wire clamps to clip a hat on. Some of the real lilliputians — a little flower or jewelled medallion in a corner of the brow — look as if they might be stuck on by suction, like a rubber dart, but probably concealed elastic bands are the answer.

Hats in flower - printed silk or cotton, which made their first appearance last year, are still in vogue in the new collections. A late variation is the little calot with small mixed field flowers applied in relief all over. Some of these are so realistic that the woman who wears one risks getting a bee in her bonnet.

The basic shape of most spring hats this year is a shallow saucer balanced far forward, but it's really a demi-tasse size. Furthermore, hatters go in for air-conditioning, or what they call "aeration," with cut - outs and cut - away effects to let the hair show through.

It's no secret that there's a feud of some years standing between Paris hair stylists, who want women to wear their tresses short, and trend - setting dress designers, who want to bring back long hair. More than half the top - drawer houses, including Dior, have their mannequins wearing chignons. The hatters, as interested neutrals, have to walk a tightrope between the two factions.

This time they've struck an admirable balance with little forward-sitting hats that are perfect with buns, but look equally attractive with short cuts.

Coats Draw An Inspiration From Paris for Exciting Translation

Creating great interest on the fashion scene is the unusual styling, the completely Spring - '54 look of the coats for the incoming season!

There is a definite air of Paris about them — in the emphasis on Shape and the appearance of many distinctive fabrics — notably, silk!

When the curtain went up on the Spring style premiere, a new fashion, only hinted at in last Fall's showing, made its real debut

The Party Coat!

Designed especially for special occasion wear, this new coat is lavishly jeweled . . . embroidered . . . or furred! Rhinestones are sprinkled on pastel fleeces, collars are embroidered with metallic threads and heavily encrusted with jewels, fabrics are definitely luxurious.

Velvet, in pastel and high shades, was introduced in these breath-taking party coats, often trimmed at the cuffs or collar with fur. Elegance is achieved, too, in the use of rich cotton brocades, rustling silks, and cloud-soft cashmeres.

Cropped in an important word in reviewing this Spring's showing of coats. Toppers are shorter than ever - and more important!

Many of the newest shortie coats just barely reach the waistline! Inspired by Paris, the brief-as-possible coat is often the focal point of this Spring's costume.

Toppers vary in length from this very brief coat to the three-quarter length, and even to a 7/8 length! This shorter-than-long style is usually shown in the dramatically different oval or barrel shapes.

With the newly-slim, shaped look there is a greater width through the shoulders. Crescent sleeves, dropped shoulder - lines, and cape-like collars contribute to this top width.

The loose, straight coat and the wrap coat show up as important silhouettes. The fitted, princess style, particularly in the new lightweight fabrics, is coming to the fore. The use of stiffened linings to underscore the gracefully - flaring skirt is a new note in this model.

Coat fabrics follow the fashion trend toward lighter-in-weight fabrics. Silks are as important in coats as they are throughout the entire fashion picture for Spring.

White is the top favorite in colors for Spring coats. Navy is again a leading choice; as well as beige in from sand to light coffee tones; pinks, rosy reds; blues, and black!

Pilot Grove Fair Set for Aug. 6-7

PILOT GROVE—A Pilot Grove Community Fair meeting was held Thursday night at the high school. Byron Beckner, president, presided over the meeting. Aug. 6 and 7 were the dates selected for the fair.

Mrs. Harlan Brownfield, Edward Ries and Leslie Chamberlin presented the following nominations for members of the board: president, Dr. D. E. McNeeley; vice-president, Norman Johnson; secretary, Clarence Ries; treasurer, Leslie Chamberlain.

Four directors were elected for two-year terms: McNeeley, Johnson, Beckner and Brownfield. The other directors are: Mrs. A. G. Krumm Sr., Miss Victoria Booth, Clarence Ries and Antone Gerke. The entertainment committee is as follows: chairman, B. Beckner, Emil Bock, A. J. Samer, Oscar Meisenheimer and Mrs. Robert Warnhoff.

A committee of Norman Johnson, John Heinrich and Jay Bean was selected to decide upon the location of the fair.

The next meeting will be April 1 at 8 p.m. at the high school.

To make crystal sparkle, add a few drops of household ammonia to clear water and apply with a flannel cloth. Then rinse with a second cloth wrung out of clear water and polish with dry cloth.

Local Models Show Styles for Weekend Trip

A weekend trip is fun for the warm spring days. Attractive clothes from some of the Sedalia stores are modeled by a group of young women who would like such a trip. Left to right are: BURTON'S, Miss Nancy Pace; PENNEY'S, Mrs. Wayne Prichard; JIEDEL VOGUE SHOP, Mrs. W. H. Bartlett, and SAGE'S, Miss Nancy Self. The car, just perfect for such a trip, is a 1954 Oldsmobile holiday coupe of cove green and glade green from the Routszong Motor Co.

Miss Nancy Pace is wearing an exquisitely detailed blue suit by Betty Rose of Pacific's 100 percent wool verdona from BURTON'S. The embroidered fashion touch on the collar and cuffs are brilliantly highlighted with sparkling jewels. Her tiny half hat is of navy straw.

Mrs. Wayne Prichard is in a smart, youthful all wool flannel short jacket suit featuring lined jacket from PENNEY'S. The pocket trimmed skirt has excellent tailoring, fit and workmanship. Her hat is of yellow toyo cloth with flower and veil trim and she wears chamois woven gloves and carries a box purse of imitation straw.

Mrs. W. H. Bartlett wears a Betty Jean suit of varel woolen and cashmere of navy shade under a Betty Jean coat of red poodle cloth from the JIEDEL VOGUE SHOP. Her Jacqueline shoes are navy as are her tiny hat and purse.

Miss Nancy Self has chosen a navy blue Fashion Belt suit of Miron Felga material styled with new shoulder lines and material self covered buttons, from SAGE'S, with which she wears a blending stole in plaid. Her Hollywood inspired Jolene shoes are of navy suede with mesh trim and she carries a navy faille bag.

The Townscraft matched streamlined luggage comes in six sizes, consisting of 18-inch overnight, 21-inch weekend, 26-inch pullman, 21-inch wardrobe, 13-inch train case and 13-inch vanity case. This particular set from PENNEY'S is in natural rawhide finish.

Spring Coats Feature Tissue Weight Drama

This is the spring of the important coat. Fashion has gone, literally, to all lengths to give women coats for all occasions, all temperatures and to harmonize with all wardrobes. Clear pastels are color leaders.

Newest way for a coat to look is outstanding — not only in silhouette, but in the dramatic use of fabric.

The dome silhouette is a favorite by far. Beautifully adaptable as part of a costume or a coat alone, it features rounded shoulders and cylindrical sleeves and circular fullness that starts just under the shoulder. Soft box pleating adds fluidity to newest coats.

The dome coat comes in hip, three - quarter, seven - eights and full - length. It may be made to stand out by means of a stiff, shaped lining or the coat fabric itself.

Related to the dome and a prominent fashion in its own right, is the shortie barrel coat. Cropped close to the waist, it is caught in the width of its flare and dramatizes any outfit with which it is worn. Fashion emphasizes the barrel shortie in white fleece, tweedy wools and a variety of featherlight coatings.

Return of the Cape

Capelets are noteworthy spring additions to the coat scene: They, too, are newest when cropped at the waist and belled or rippled with fullness.

While the fitted coat has not passed completely out of the picture, new variations change its name. Most important is the tunic which is built out at the shoulders, semi -fitted through the middle and softly flared below the waist. This tunic length is newest and a trend in many fashion categories. Another semi - fitted coat is favored in a 36 - inch length.

The fitted princess attains new personality from crisp silks, alpaca and blends, and some exciting brocade - like cottons and silks. This style may be worn with equal effectiveness as a coat dress or ensemble coat.

There is a new flare coat that is slightly stiffened on the lines of a modified cupola. It appears in fleeces and tweeds, as well as silks, linens and cottons. New straight coats have a rounded and tapered look from shoulder to hem. Many of these are available in two-thirds, three - quarter or full-lengths.

Fitted Shorties

Other shorties, cropped at the waist, are seen in fitted bellboy styles and somewhat tapered boxies. Short - shorties are little more than boleros.

Textures for coats are different this spring. Weaves are patterned to look like matelasses, brocades, tapestries and a host of rich silks . . . all with a substance that lends itself to excellent outstanding shaping.

Spring coats will feature a low-cut neckline whether or not they are collared. There are low-seamed rounded shoulders and interesting sleeve lengths, some bracelet and elbow-length. Many have white overcollars of kid leather or linen.

New Shoes Add a Gay Footnote

There is plenty of excitement afoot this spring, reports the National Shoe Institute. With shorter skirts focusing added attention on the legs, the new in shoes is very new indeed. Fashion interest includes newly colored soft leathers, eyecatching fabrics, distinctive designs and novel trims in shoes for all occasions.

Daytime shoes, definitely slim and tapered, are closed at the toe and heel, wide open at the throat, which is often scalloped, squared or deep V. In other styles, cut-out designs and underlays add throat interest for a graceful, bare look.

Heels are high, tapered, sometimes squared in back. Two-tone and two-textured styles are among daytime favorites, with the contrast running the length of the shoe on one side.

Costume Themes Highlight Girls' Now-for-Spring Year

In detailing that rivals mothers' and big sisters' fashions in every detail — the young miss steps out for Spring in the gayest, smartest coats, suits and dresses.

The costume fashion which takes such an important place in the spring wardrobes of the 'older folk', is brilliantly translated into fashions for the very young and young.

Costume suits lined to match their blouses — the coat and dress costumes — dresses plus brief jackets, and separates plus a sweater are some of the imaginative ways in which the costume is interpreted for the "sandpile" and "soda" sets.

Yes, fashion starts young in the "little princess" look of dresses, coats and suits — in the important navy coat that picks up all adult detailing — in full - skirted frocks that are all a-froth with ruffles below . . . and in important little suits that borrow from mother every bright designer's trick.

And, borrowed from brother are all the imaginative interpretations of "boydom" in feminized shirts, the trim boy coat, and the shirt dress.

Girls of all ages continue to take to tapered pants — and denim and poplin will be tops.

Shorts, of course, will be an important asset to every gal's summer wardrobe.

Distinctive suits get into the swim with the young set . . . in knitted styles, a wide variety of gay cottons, and the ever-classic elasticized nylons, taffetas, satins, etc., are presented in young versions of adult stylings.

Bare necklines, Empire waistlines and the princess silhouette — will point up the best - sellers for a teen's best dress, date-time frock!

Past 40? You Can Revamp Your Makeup

BY ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

One reason that so many people list spring as their favorite season is that nature's rebirth instills a hope for a brighter future.

If you are past 40, you might respond to this feeling by revamping your make - up technique.

Teen-agers, anxious to become proficient in applying cosmetics, are always on the lookout for new techniques. But once a woman has her technique established, she is inclined to continue using it indefinitely.

While we would agree that the average woman would be frivolous to devote herself to a constant study of cosmetics and their application, we certainly do think that an occasional checkup is essential.

In the past 20 years there have been tremendous changes in both the cosmetics themselves and the theories of make - up artistry. Pencil - thin eyebrows, bright patches of rouge, cupid's bow lips, for example, have long since been consigned to cosmetic history.

The importance of blending and of achieving color effects suited to the individual have been gaining widespread recognition only in recent years. The subtle use of eye-make - up is also constantly being improved.

So, compare the way you are applying your make-up with the methods recommended today.

No matter what you buy, you should allow sufficient time to make a selection without rushing. This is especially true when buying foundation garments. Never buy a girdle or bra without trying it on. Knowing your size will not do, since sizes vary according to styles and manufacturers.

Whether you are a housewife or a career girl, taking a few minutes out in the afternoon to stretch, wash your face and apply make - up is not wasting time. You'll return to your tasks with renewed energy that will more than make up for the time away.

'Slanguage' Isn't New

Some teen - agers enjoy the same slanguage their Mom's used to tease grandma and grandpa, according to a survey made by the Atlanta Constitution. The patter listed most frequently as "new" today, includes "so long", "hey", "how's tricks", "long time no see" and "don't take any wooden nickles."

Of course grandma would have been appalled if Mom had taken part in the slumber parties enjoyed by these same young people. But today these are chaperoned properly and spend - the-night parties are the rage in other cities besides Atlanta.)

So intrigued with old - time slang was Judith Kirk of Long Beach, Cal., that she wrote in the student weekly of Stephens Junior High School the following article found in the 1923 files of a local paper. . .

"... Dear old block.

"That was a peach of a present you sent me, but I want you hep to the fact that all the wise guys here, and they're a classy bunch, haven't the drag on the old man's bean that your hopeful has.

I went to a shindig last night, and the gate crashers nearly knocked over the jelly beans when they rushed the flaps we shieks imported. One of the girls wore a howdah and a beast fell for it, leaving his drag for me to escort home.

"So far, my marks are all to the velvet, and so I've been no killjoy in this letter..."

Miss Kirk translated the 1923 letter into today's jive slang which would go like this:

"Dear Dad:

"That present you sent me was real cra-a-z-y, but I want to put you wise to the info that all the cats here, and they're a gone, but gone, gang, haven't the dope on the moneylender that yours truly has.

"Went to a real cool ball last night, and some uninvited squares nearly flipped a wig when they scanned the dolls we cats drig along. One of the Miss Fines wore a gassy vine and a wolf fell for it like a lead balloon, leaving his dish for this man to tow home..."

But while some of the kids wallow in jive, reports are that other sections of the country scorn the slang craze. In the Granite State of New Hampshire, for instance, our correspondent tells us that young people are "devoid of foibles, slanguages and rages at this time."

At the Indiana High School Press Assn. convention, some 17-year-old girls sported handpainted skirts. The drawings including poison skull and bones, telephones, household pets and lingo made a great hit.

New Furniture Fashions Make Home 'So Nice to Stay Home In'

Keyed to today's living needs, new furniture more than fulfills its role of combining informal comfort and eye - appealing beauty! The new pattern of American living — More Hours Spent at Home— is greatly apparent in the furniture styles coming from the designer's drawing boards.

With American families re-discovering their homes as a background for entertaining, as well as for many more hours of family fun, there is an increasing demand for more informal, functional furnishings.

Today's smaller home creates a need for space - saving furniture without sacrificing comfort. Too, it has brought into sharp focus the need for multi - purpose units.

Furniture manufacturers have met these needs with such designs as room - dividers that double as book shelves, china cabinets, and extra storage cabinets. Beautifully - upholstered sofas and chairs can be easily changed into comfortable beds for guests. Dining chairs are designed to fit attractively into the living room as extra television chairs.

Handsome wrought iron or rattan furniture is styled with the definite purpose in mind of using it both indoors and on the patio.

The smaller home has directed attention away from the usual sofa and matching chair suite for the living room to lighter, co-ordinated pieces. Usually up-holstered in colorful, long - wearing tweedy fabrics, these living room pieces allow great leeway in furniture groupings. In this category, the three - piece sectional is highly popular because of its versatility.

In the smaller, more informal home, there is often a combination living-dining area and here, again, furniture manufacturers offer well - designed coordinated groups.

This modern - in - mood furniture goes one step further in pleasing the homemaker. It is wonderfully easy to care for and cuts house - cleaning hours to a minimum; truly an important feature for busy American women.

Home - lovers apparently are developing a desire for the coziness and livability that this type of decor creates. Not only do the woods used in these furniture designs — pine, maple, walnut, fruitwood, mahogany, etc. — glow with mellow warmth, the Early American home accessories lend a room an air of enjoyable living.

Throughout the showings of furniture for today's living, there is one striking note — it is keyed to today's budget too! Manufacturers are offering moderate - priced furnishings with better workmanship, finishes, and style than ever before.

Furniture shoppers can choose from an unlimited array of attractive . . . comfortable . . . functional furnishings to make their homes "so nice to stay home in".

Dressmaking Dad

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

NEW YORK—There's no reason why men can't sew and like it, says Val Jurgell, a husky ex-football star, editor and father.

Jurgell, former football star at the University of Illinois and current editor of the trade publication "Notion and Novelty Review," has just completed his first dressmaking venture—a formal party dress for his teen-age daughter, Cynthia.

Jurgell started his sewing project on a dare. With fine courage he cut into a length of beautiful blue taffeta and yards of nylon net, used for a billowy overskirt. The trimming, pure Jurgell inspiration, is a shower of velvet violets and rhinestone studded buttons, all sewn by hand.

The finished dress, examined critically by Caroline Hutchins, educational director for a major pattern company (Simplicity), has been declared expertly made. It was such a success, in fact, that fashion show given by the pattern company for sewing teachers.

Miracle fabrics that require no ironing will look their best if you don't squeeze them at all after rinsing. Put them on wooden hangers, smooth seams, collars and cuffs and allow to drip dry.

Bananas that have browned to the point of being almost black may have little sales appeal, but they are very easy to digest. If you enjoy them that way, buy them; they will be good for both your stomach and your budget.

A long-handled wax applier is a handy household item. It can be used for dusting walls and ceilings, dark closet corners, moldings, Venetian blinds and screens.

Year in and year out floods, fires, tornadoes kill and destroy. Disaster strikes like lightning—and just as unpredictably. People are injured. Homes shattered. Businesses wiped out. Help is needed urgently. And your Red Cross answers the call—on an average of 6 times a week.

Actually, you answer, for you are the Red Cross—you and the rest of the folks who join to keep it going.

YOU ARE THERE

not only in disasters, but when blood or first aid saves a life; when a serviceman or his family needs emergency help. And every dollar you give counts. Remember that when a neighbor calls to ask you to join. Join generously!

IN SEDALIA—A ONE NIGHT MEMBERSHIP OPPORTUNITY TOMORROW—MONDAY, FROM 6 to 9 p.m.

Because the United Fund goal was not reached, and because of the demands on the local chapter due to the reactivation of the Sedalia Air Force Base, the need in our Pettis County Chapter is necessarily greater this year. These airmen, many of them with families, are locating in our community. They are turning to the Red Cross for counseling and financial assistance, which may be needed during the period when pay checks may be delayed or interrupted by the move.

The City of Sedalia will have a one night residential solicitation, March 15th from 6 to 9 p.m. Our slogan this year is "Make Your Home 100% Red Cross.' Support your Red Cross as a family. Men join at work, housewives at home. Every adult a member. We have a membership goal of 6000 in Pettis County, with $11,000 needed in funds.

Answer the Call— Join your RED CROSS
